Earthquake Shakes 8 Midwest States

Hearnes' Proposal Outlined

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House Reapportionment Committee heard testimony in favor of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' plan for redistricting the house Wednesday but took no action.

The man who introduced the proposed constitutional amendment, Rep. M. E. Charlie Bauer, D-Jackson County, said he didn't know whether the federal court would wait much longer before taking its own action under the one man-one vote decision.

The governor's proposal would set up a bipartisan commission he would name from panels submitted by the two party committees -- the same plan used recently in redistricting the state Senate.

But House leaders have balked. They say the House should have a hand in naming any commission to re-align House Districts. The house tried last spring to do the job but the voters rejected that effort in the special Aug. 17 election.

Gene Walsh, the governor's legal aide, told the committee Wednesday that time is short, "so the plan adopted by the legislature should be the one most calculated to be accepted by the people."

The committee will consider 11 other reapportionment proposals next week.

Four Win Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden AP -- The 1965 Nobel Prize for physics was awarded today to two Americans and a Japanese, and the prize for chemistry went to another American.

The Royal Swedish Academy of Science announced that the physics award was given jointly to Julian Schwinger of Harvard, Richard Feynman of the California Institute of Technology, and Sin-Itiro Tomonago of Japan. The three will share equally in the $55,000 prize money.

It announced the chemistry prize of 282,000 kroner (about $55,000) went to Prof. Robert Burns Woodward, also of Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass., a pioneer in synthesis of chlorophyll.

The citation for the three physics winners said the award was for "their fundamental work in quantum electrodynamics, with deep-ploughing consequences for the physics of elementary particles."

East Prairie Man Killed In Headon Crash

Noble Higgins, 62, East Prairie, was killed in a two-car collision Wednesday morning on route T, four miles east of LaForge.

He was driving a 1954 Ford, and attempted to make a left turn, when his car was struck headon by a 1957 Ford, driven by James Robinson, 22, Lilbourn, the state patrol reported.

Robinson received a head and leg injury and was treated by a New Madrid physician. Six passengers in his car were injured and were taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital:

James People, 20, Howardville, head injury; Buford Johnson, 16, Howardville, broken arm; Wilbur Ash, 18, Howardville, head injury; David Ash, 16, Howardville, arm and leg injury; James Young, 25, Howardville, head injury and broken leg; and Henrietta Franklin, 18, Howardville, head and leg injury.

Higgins was born Jan. 6, 1903, in Kentucky.

He married Addie Lynch Aug. 16, 1926, who survives.

He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Hunt of Paducah, Ky.; one half-sister, Lillian DePriest of Memphis; five brothers, Gaylor Higgins of Cora, Ark., O. W. Higgins and N. H. Higgins, both of Calbert City, Ky., Adrian Higgins of Prairie Homes and Lawson Higgins of East Prairie.

He was the son of William and Cora Higgins. Two brothers preceded him in death.

He had farmed for 18 years.

Services will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Shelby Funeral chapel in East Prairie with the Rev. J. L. Hatchel officiating. Burial will be in W. O. W. cemetery in East Prairie.

On Interstate 55 in Scott City, a 1964 Ford, driven by Thomas Burke, 45, Vanduser, was struck in the rear by a 1965 Pontiac, driven by Michael Dillingham, 22, on furlough from the Navy and visiting in Poplar Bluff. There was construction work on one of the ramps. As Burke slowed down for the flagman, Dillingham failed to do so, and struck the Ford. No one was injured.

A 1956 Buick, driven by Elva Miller, 18, Holcomb, was involved in a single car crash today at 1 a.m., one mile south of Holcomb on a dirt road. A passenger, Eddie McGee, 17, Holcomb, received internal injuries and was taken to a Kennett hospital. The driver received cuts on her face. She was taken to the same hospital.

Johnson Gets Green Light

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson got a "full green light" from his doctors today and made definite plans to leave the hospital where he underwent gall bladder and kidney stone surgery 13 days ago.

Dragon Put On Tax Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators tried to light a fire under reluctant Klan Dragon James Robert Jones today by producing some of the records he had refused to turn over —income tax returns.

Jones, the North Carolina dragon, remained reluctant to talk and kept silent under sharp questioning about whether he had been reimbursed by the United Klans of America for deductions he had claimed—such as the cost of robes.

In declining to answer questions, he cited constitutional protections against self- incrimination.

Jones declined to say whether he had any full-time employment since 1960.

The line of questioning added emphasis to a broad hint dropped Wednesday that Klan leaders may yet find the Internal Revenue Service a greater threat to them than the civil rights movement.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., of the House Committee on Un - American Activities, suggested that after Jones had declined to talk about his bank account or the sale of satin robes at $15 each or even to give his birthplace.

Charged In Robbery

Another Negro is charged with strong-armed robbery by police.

Chief of police Arthur Bruce said this morning that Eddie Nicholson signed a written statement admitting that he took part in the robbery Saturday night when $14.65 was taken from W. D. Maiden and 40 cents from James Ramsom, both of Essex, on Luther Street.

Others charged with the crime are Willie Howard and Willie Green.

Four Negroes were taken to Poplar Bluff yesterday and Chief of Police Bruce said that a test indicated that two other Negroes were involved in the robbery.

Funds Out Of Rent

WASHINGTON AP -- A Senate-House conference committee agreed today to eliminate funds for the administration's controversial rent supplement program from the year's last money bill.

Revised Sugar Bill

WASHINGTON AP -- The Senate has passed a revamped sugar bill which authorizes more domestic production and sets country - by - country foreign quotas.

Approval came on a 66-16 vote Wednesday, and the measure now must go to a House-Senate conference committee.

Time To Improve Courts

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A citizens conference on Missouri courts was told Wednesday night it is time to improve Missouri's 25-year-old nonpartain court plan.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes stressed the need to upgrade the magistrate and probate courts-the courts where most people get their impression of law and justice.

U.S. District Judge Elmo B. Hunter, former judge of the Kansas City Court of Appeals, said the emphasis must be on selection of topflight lawyers by the nominating commission. To attract them, he said, salaries and retirement pay must be increased.

Both said the people of any area ought to have the right to decide whether their courts should come under the nonpartisan system without having to ask the legislature for enabling legislation.

Hearnes said this local option approach should not be considered until the court plan is approved.

Both also recommended that mandatory retirement age should be around 72 instead of 75 as at present.

To solve the problem of disciplining and removing judges, Judge Hunter suggested the present retirement commission be given this job. That would do away with the cumbersome impeachment system, the only way a judge can be removed at present.

He also recommended that if a governor fails to appoint a judge within 60 days from the panel of three nominees submitted to him, the Supreme Court should do the appointing.

The citizens' conference, which ends Friday after a series of panel discussions, is being sponsored by the Missouri Bar, the state's four law schools and the American Judicature Society.

Cyclist Hurt In Tumble

James Green, 27, route two, suffered head injuries this morning when his westbound Honda motorcycle overturned at the intersection of Greer and Maple streets at 7:09 a.m.

To Honor Kinney

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Veteran Sen. Michael Kinney, 90, who has been in the state Senate since 1913, will be honored at a testimonial dinner in Jefferson City Nov. 22.

Morissey Effort Dropped

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in an emotional speech to the Senate, asked today that Francis X. Morrissey's nomination for a judgeship be sent back to the Judiciary Committee.

The nomination then was sent back to the committee. This appeared to kill the nomination for this session of Congress but President Johnson could resubmit it at the next session in January.

Kennedy made his surprise request shortly after the controversial nomination was called up for action in the Senate.

Appearing near tears and his voice breaking at one point, Kennedy said "I am satisfied that a full and complete record, made with care and deliberation, will uphold my judgment of Morrissey to the satisfaction of any fair-minded man."

He said the outcome might hinge on the number of absentees.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, heading the opposition to Morrissey, had himself planned to propose recommittal.

Morrissey, 55, has been a Boston Municipal Court judge for the last seven years, but his nomination has come under attack on the ground he is not qualified for the federal bench.

Two Injured In Three-Vehicle Crash

A three vehicle collision on East Malone in front of Home Materials Lumber Company yesterday at 4:37 p.m. injured two women.

A 1960 Falcon, driven by Wilma April, 206 Illinois, was hit by a 1960 Thunderbird, driven by Barbara Blacker, 602 North Main, after the Blacker car had struck a 1956 GMC truck operated by Travis Long, 1585 Park, owned by John Marshall, as he waited to turn left into the lumber company lot.

The Thunderbird was headed west and the Falcon was going east.

The women were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital for cuts and bruises.

Slaying Hearing Set Wednesday

CHARLESTON -- Magistrate Judge T. J. Brown, set Wednesday at 9 a.m. for a preliminary hearing for Bill Gammons, East Prairie, charged with first degree murder in the fatal wounding of Euell C. Scott, after an argument.

Weber Gilmore, Sikeston attorney was appointed by Judge Brown to represent Gammons. Roderic Ashby is prosecuting attorney for Mississippi county.

When the judge called Gammons before the bench he asked whether he had an attorney. Gammons replied "no."

The judge then asked him if he wanted a preliminary hearing and he replied "yes."

Judge Brown commented that it was the first time he had appointed an attorney on such a charge.

Scott was wounded in the stomach with a .22 caliber pistol shot Oct. 13 in East Prairie and died Monday night in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Jones Finds Ugly Aspects In Road Beautification

Special to Daily Standard

WASHINGTON -- Congressman Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, was one of seven Missouri House members who voted against the Johnson administration's highway beautification bill. The measure passed the House, 245-138.

Only two of Missouri's 10 Congressman voted for the bill. One was absent and did not vote.

Congressman Jones said today that he voted against the bill not because he opposes highway beautification but because:

"It transfers too much authority from the Missouri State Highway Commission to a bureaucrat in Washington.

"It was moving too far and too fast and there was a question in 18 states, where because of constitutional limitations, they might lose several million dollars in federal funds. Missouri might lose more than $19 million.

"Many small businesses, particularly motels, restaurants, service stations and tourist attractions, removed from the main artery of traffic by relocation of interstate and primary highways, are threatened with extinction due to the fact that the traveling public may no longer be advised of their location. (by the bill's restrictions on billboard advertising).

"There was a question about the extent to which the nation should go in spending general revenue funds needed for highway construction and safety as compared with the need for beautification of highways, including 41,000 miles of interstate and more than 225,000 miles of the primary system, both on and off the rights-of-way.

Here's the way Congressman Jones described it:

"Members of Congress had been invited to attend a reception at the White House at 7:30 p.m., the night the day the bill was scheduled. This was the same day the President went to a hospital for a gall bladder operation.

"It was not until 1 p.m. that general debate on the bill began. This was to last four hours. It was the general assumption that following the general debate, the House would adjourn after 5 p.m. and consideration of the bill would be resumed the following day.

"As the House Committee of the Whole, which was in charge of the proceedings, showed no indication of recessing, word got around that it was the intention to rush final action, pass the bill with a minimum debate, and present the bill to the President and Mrs. Johnson at the reception.

"This would have meant that there would have been no opportunity to consider meritorious amendments to the bill, although in the course of the evening two rather important amendments were approved, while dozens of others were voted down. Many members were denied the opportunity to speak on the bill. Nevertheless, the debate continued for almost 12 hours. Shortly before 1 a.m., (the next morning) the House adjourned after passage of the bill."

Subsequently the bill, a major administration measure and pet legislation of Mrs. Johnson, has been passed by the Senate and signed into law by the President.

Fortune From Savings Aids Homeless Boys

LOS ANGELES AP -- Her spare time and modest savings were the assets Miss Ettie Lee used to start a $3-million fortune -- all the profits from which she spends on homeless boys.

Miss Lee, 79, a retired Los Angeles school teacher, and an aunt of Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, earned the money investing in real estate over the past 35 years. All her profits go to the Ettie Lee Homes Inc., the 14 ranches for boys she maintains. She lives on her teacher's pension.

Her explanation:

"As a teacher, I noticed quite a pattern in boys having difficulties. They were boys who didn't have a good home situation.

"This is a man's world. It takes a man to develop a boy into a man. Ninety per cent of the boys in trouble were from homes where there was no strong male figure in their lives.

"I tried to find homes for these boys, but I was unsuccessful. I made up my mind then that I'd have to be like the little red hen and do the job myself."

This meant she'd need plenty of money, and she never made more than $300 a month as a teacher. But she saved what she could.

Her first real estate deal came in 1930, when she paid $1,000 for a lot in the Wilshire district.

"I sold it two years later for $5,000," she recalls.

Then she began looking for larger investments.

"I must have bought and sold 50 apartment houses since I started operating," she said.

By 1950 -- four years after she retired from teaching — she had enough resources for her project. She says that when she dies her estate will go to continuing the projects.

Miss Lee said it cost from $40,000 to $50,000 to build each home.

Miss Lee hires Mormon couples — her own faith — to run the homes, which, however, are nondenominational. Each houses 10 to 12 boys 12 to 17 years of age.

Six Bound Over For Circuit Court Trials

NEW MADRID -- Felonies dominated the docket of magistrate court this week as Magistrate Erie Wright of Portageville presided.

Four persons, Curtis Simpson, Douglas Snow, Jessie James Getters, and Dennis Snow, waived preliminary hearings before Judge Wright on charges of burglary and larceny and were bound over for trial in circuit court with bonds set at $5,000 each.

H. T. Shaw and J. B. Williams were each held on $500 bond for trial in circuit court after waiving hearings in the lower court. Shaw was charged with practicing medicine without a license and Williams with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon.

All other offenses in the court were traffic violations and were: improper registration of a motor vehicle -- David H. Hill, $11, Bacil Robey, $15; excess speed -- Allen Washington, $25, Robert Eugene Smith, $15; no PSC authority-- Max Sherman, $110; unlicensed operator -- Patsy Hendrix, Melvin Kellum, Sammie D. Perason, Hubert Wesley Ervin, Dennis H. Hunter, and Earnest Lockhart, $15 each; careless and reckless driving -- James Walker, $45; carless and imprudent driving -- John Henry Stallings, Milton Fiddler, and Claude R. Davis, $15 each; expired license -- Lewis Furniture Co., $11; overweight on license -- Byron Billingsley, $15.

Lasts 14 Minutes

Dishes Rattle, Chairs Jiggle In Sikeston

Sikeston residents felt the earth tremors last night experienced in eight middlewestern states.

No damage or injuries were reported but they were severe enough to cause furniture and dishes to rattle.

Sam Wilcox, 116 East Center, said that he felt the building in which he lives tremble. "It felt like a log had just rolled under the house," he said. Dishes fell in his kitchen sink.

The quake was felt here at 8:05 p.m.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. AP -- An earthquake rumbled across the Midwest Wednesday night, shaking at least eight states. No injuries or serious damage were reported.

The quake started at 9:01 p.m. and lasted for 14 minutes on the seismograph at St. Louis University.

Residents of Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee felt it only for a few seconds.

Dr. Carl Kisslinger, chairman of the geophysics department at St. Louis University, said the quake was recorded at between 4.5 and 5 on the Richter scale. The disastrous Alaskan earthquake of 1964 hit 8.4 on the scale.

"There's no doubt about it," said Kisslinger, "it was an earthquake, and it was a significant earthquake for this part of the world. If the center had been under a city, there would have been a lot of damage."

Kisslinger said the quake centered about 260 miles west of St. Louis, near the Kansas-Missouri border. But Dr. James Peoples, of the seismograph station at the University of Kansas, said the quake occurred within a 300-mile radius of the Lawrence campus, 35 miles west of Kansas City.

Early reports were heaviest throughout south-central and central Missouri. Some houses in that area reportedly swayed.

Apparently the quake spread from a lightly populated area outward — to Chicago, Memphis, Omaha and hundreds of other cities.

Kisslinger said the quake was significant because this type of quake — felt over such a large area and with such intensity — is not common in the Midwest. However, the wide span is characteristic of Midwestern tremors, Kisslinger said, and added that there was no reason to think more quakes might follow.

Reinforce Garrison

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- U. S. helicopters delivered several companies of reinforcements to the besieged garrison at Plei Me today, and the Viet Cong attacks began to diminish in size and ferocity, a U. S. military spokesman reported.

The defenders of the Special Forces camp in the central highlands reported seeing at least 90 enemy bodies. Government casualties were described as light after two days of fighting.

Farther north, in Quang Tri Province, a U. S. Army officer escaped today from the Viet Cong after being held captive for several hours, the spokesman announced.

The officer, identified as Capt. Robert F. Hopper, 29, whose wife lives at Winter Haven, Fla., was the senior adviser to a South Vietnamese battalion.

Civil Defense Session

A district meeting on Civil Defense, sponsored by the U.S. department of agriculture, was held Wednesday at the Holiday Inn.

Its purpose was to review duties and responsibilities of the extension service, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the Department of Agriculture and the civil defense board.

Speakers were Claude Bowles, state executive of the A.S.C.S.; J. N. Morris, university extension service; Allen Nottorf, state defense board and agronomist; Jack Means, state consumer market service director and Frank Kelly, state civil defense chairman, all from Columbia.

Three Cases Dropped

Judge E. R. Schrader dismissed three of eight cases in city court yesterday afternoon.

Dismissed were Winfred Woodard, Springfield, charged with resisting arrest; Charles Frentzel, Cape Girardeau, careless and imprudent driving and Milton Johnson, 1112 Osage, assault and affray.

Preston Howell, Caruthersville, had a charge of careless and imprudent driving continued until Nov. 17.

Bernie Gets $444,609

Brisk Exodus From Cuba

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A 92-year-old fisherman who said he was Ernest Hemingway's inspiration for the old man in the "Old Man and the Sea" arrived in exile today as brisk refugee traffic resumed after a two-day lull.

More than 65 refugees reached the Florida Keys in seven boats during the early morning hours. At least 16 more were on the way.

Boats docked at such a rapid pace that hard-pressed Coast Guard craft couldn't locate them fast enough to escort them to port.

Anselmo Hernandez, gnarled and weather beaten with thin but sprawling grey hair, said, "I knew Hemingway for 30 years. Every time he was in Cuba he came to see me. We would have coffee together and talk.

"He said he would write a novel about me. Then he did," said Hernandez.

Hernandez came in a family group ferried to Florida by two grandsons, Rene and Rigoberto.

Newly arrived refugees reported that more than 250 small boats manned by an estimated 800 persons were landing in Camarioca harbor, to bring out Cubans seeking exile in the United States.

Comet Heads Into Oblivion

HONOLULU AP -- Blazing Ikeya-Seki, first comet in 83 years bright enough to be seen in daylight, whipped around the sun today and headed back into oblivion.

Astronomers here and on the American mainland watched the celestial spectacle across 93 million miles of space. Its 80,000-mile-diameter head was followed by a streaming 20-million-mile tail.

But its brilliance was mostly overpowered by the sun, which it approached to within 300,000 to 800,000 miles. Not one observer aboard a National Aeronautics and Space Administration jet plane saw the comet.

He called it "extremely bright -- 1,000 times brighter than the planet Venus."

Demonstrations against the United States involvement in the war in Viet Nam have been denounced by people in responsible positions from President Lyndon B. Johnson, members of Congress on down.

The American people should support this position without reservation.

Treason should not be permitted to put its roots down into fertile soil in this country.

If protest marches, sit-ins and other forms of demonstrations are permitted to grow and spread in the United States, this country is headed for the chaos and lack of rule that characterized France in the days before Charles de Gaulle grabbed the reins and gave that nation a stable form of government.

The way to nip the Communist supported disorders is to deal firmly on an individual basis with any violations of law. Congress is proceeding properly in refusing to enact a whole new bunch of laws to deal with the situation. Present laws are adequate.

Draft authorities report that their work has not been hampered and that the morale of youth with whom they deal is good. Our troops in Viet Nam are distinguishing themselves with valor and only share the nation's disgust at the demonstrations.

But recent history of the United States has been to encourage them.

The President is personally responsible for much of it. He has promised rewards for civil rights demonstrators and has used them to wangle laws out of Congress.

Votes have been involved in the civil rights demonstrations. Apparently Johnson has concluded that there are no ballot box benefits to be gained from encouraging protests against his Viet Nam war policy.

It is interesting to note that leaders involved in both types of demonstrations have no respect for laws which they cannot accept in good conscience.

Individual conscience suddenly has become a guide for conduct on which rests law and order.

This is a system that will never work. It will produce only chaos. It will destroy our civilization.

This must be a nation ruled by law and not by men and especially by men who answer only to the dictates of their own conscience.

Few, if any, persons approve of all laws but all must obey them.

Progress will not be made by marching in the streets, by seizing property or in preventing the flow of traffic as a means of protesting any injustice, imagined or real.

FACTS

The New York World's Fair was a flop by its own standards.

It's opening was marred by civil rights demonstrators, who threatened to lie down in the street, stopping Fair traffic. This cut attendance. Vandals took over in the final day and caused heavy damage.

The Fair has helped exploit the unsavory reputation of the nation's largest city for violence and disorder.

In between the opening and ending of the exposition neither attendance nor interest lived up to expectations.

A two-year attendance of 70 million was predicted. It fell short of 52 million.

There were some benefits. Many of those who attended liked the fair. So did American industry.

For the record industrial exhibitors gained in consumer good will, the advertising of their products, their tests of marketing and manufacturing techniques and new product testing.

Against these benefits they protested privately about extremely high maintenance and security costs and with intractable fair management of the 646-acre fantasy land on Flushing Meadow.

New York is an expensive city to visit. Attending the fair was no exception. Visitors are exploited.

But the reason that the New York Fair wasn't the huge success its promoters planned was due to one basic reason -- the changing tastes of the American people. In this space age offering such a variety of entertainment--much of it costing only a trifle--people aren't as much interested in fairs as they once were. Even a fine big one, such as the just closed New York World's Fair, is no exception.

We wish that this wasn't true but that's the way it is and that's the way it is going to be.

Some of the complicated problems still to be solved by scientific investigators are: How does tobacco smoke produce damage to the human body? Why do some people appear to tolerate the effects of smoking better than others? Is there a single factor involved in the tobacco smoke danger or are there several factors? The medical profession is taking an active role in attempting to answer these questions. The AMA's Education and Research Foundation alone is supporting more than 40 research projects in the United States and Europe.

Put me down as saying that Joel Chandler Harris ranks with the best Southern writers.

A contemporary of his said he was the most modest of men; ". . .as shy as any of the four-footed friends to whom he introduces to us in his stories."

Mention his name today, and many people will not recognize it. On the other hand, speak of Brer Rabbit, Brer Fox, Tar Baby and Uncle Remus, and these same people will find the names familiar ones, indeed. (A writer's brainchildren often overshadow their creator.)

At the turn of the century, there was not a more widely known or better loved man in the country than Joel Chandler Harris. As "Uncle Remus," his name was as familiar in any part of the United States as Emerson, Whittier, Longfellow or Holmes. Yet, I dare say, his most famous stories would be unsalable today; and the pen name by which he was known and loved would be frowned on by many editors and publishers.

Fortunately, the time and the man came together opportunely, and our literature is richer for it.

Joel Chandler Harris was born in Putnam County, Ga., in 1848. One need not mention that he grew up on a farm, for his stories are alive with country sights and sounds and scents.

One of his biographers said, "the remarkable fact connected with the history of Joel Chandler Harris is that there is nothing remarkable about it." He was an ordinary boy, born in ordinary times, in an ordinary state. Yet, his praise today is that he glorified the commonplace and made the ordinary resplendent.

Few details are passed along about his childhood and youth (one presumes, they were ordinary!) until he reached 12 years of age. At that time he saw and answered an advertisement in a country newspaper for a boy who wished to learn the printer's trade.

The newspaper was published by a cultured but eccentric man who boasted that his was the only newspaper in the world published on a plantation. Harris was accepted and was allowed the liberty of his employer's library, a remarkably fine collection of books. In a few years he made himself acquainted with the world's best authors.

As he learned the printer's craft, he began to slip stories under a pen name into the newspaper. From this beginning, over the years, he rose progressively in newspaper work.

While in Savannah, Harris married Miss La Rose of Canada, but soon after their marriage they moved to Atlanta to escape the scourage of yellow fever which threatened the former city.

He obtained work on the editorial staff of The Constitution where his literary career may properly be said to have begun.

His opportunity came when a colleague, who had been writing dialect articles, retired, and there was a demand for something to take their place. Harris decided to try a few dialect sketches, writing over the name of Uncle Remus, and the articles attracted immediate attention.

People found pleasure in reading his appetizing editorials on water-ground meal, pone bread, blue-stemmed collards and turnip greens. And, years later, it was with genuine regret that the newspaper reading public learned that he would retire.

But, Harris was not idle. From his pen came story after story, all bearing the unmistakable mark of genius, that other name for hard work. Not all of his stories were "dialect"; although it is on these that his fame will rest most securely.

Joel Chandler Harris wrote with sureness, authority, realism and truth. Had he done nothing more than create Uncle Remus and The Little Boy, his place in classic literature would be secure.

He died, July, 1908, but every jot and tittle of his genius still lives.

CHANGING WORLD

"Little drops of water, tiny grains of sand," we used to chant as a sprat, "Make the mighty ocean and the pleasant land." This jingle, somehow, always conjured up the vision of a bright, shiny world full of adventure and a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

That is, it did, until some kill-joy added another line to the effect that these ingredients also raise the devil with an automobile engine. So engineers had to invent filters - filters for the oil, filters for the air, filters for the gas. And today, with filters for our cigarettes, filters for the washer, dryer, vacuum cleaner, furnace, air conditioner, coffee pot, swimming pool and our modern, automatic, square-type fish-bowl, we're definitely filter-happy.

At least we're happy to have them on the family chariot after learning the latest facts-of-car-life from the article: "Engine Filers: How Important?" in the March issue of Motor Trend magazine. Things-we-didn't-know-till-now include the following revelations from the Purolator Automotive Research Bureau:

* Six quarts of oil pass through a full flow filter every 30 seconds.

* Dust, dirt and abrasives, sucked from the air and road, are stopped by the oil filter from entering the crankcase.

* Nearly a pound of sludge can be removed from the crankcase oil in 6,000 miles.

* There's always water in gasoline - from condensation in the car tank.

* Dirt gets into gasoline from filler hoses, nozzles, storage tanks, car tanks and tank caps placed on dirty fenders or bumpers.

* A car engine burns 12,500 gallons of air with one gallon of gasoline.

* A dirt-laden air filter trapped sand, carbon, silica, cement, metal in 10,000 mi.

However disillusioned we may have become in the process of growing up, we will accept the idea that the world will be brighter, the adventures more enjoyable and possibly some dollars left at the end of the journey if we change our oil filter at 4,000 miles, our gasoline filter at 6,000 miles and our air filter at 10,000.

As the poet so truly said: "Let the great world spin forever down the ringing grooves of change."

FIRST U. S. EDUCATIONAL COMPUTER CENTER OPENED

The first data processing center in the United States devoted specifically and completely to education has been opened in Sacramento, Calif.

Through this regional center, complete personnel services will be offered to 44 school districts in 16 Northern California counties. This initial Honeywell computer installation is the first of 12 such centers to operate within the state.

The computer will be used for vocational education by junior college students enrolled in a special advance computer class. They will learn programming, use of machine languages and the actual operation of the computer.

In addition to the junior college course a beginning computer class at the high school level will be run on a test basis during the coming year to determine the feasibility of expanding computer course offerings to the secondary school level.

Nearly all work handled by the regional center the first year for the districts will be for high schools, with a few elementary schools contracting for attendance accounting and test scoring. Services offered will cover more than 100,000 students.

State education officials have cited several advantages of such a program. These include: reduction of expenses by combining work of several districts; experience, developments, and improvements can be applied to a larger number of schools; a higher degree of staff competency, and a greater uniformity of procedures.

PRAYER FOR YOUNG HOMEMAKERS

You know, dear Lord, the road ahead for these
Young wedded ones who long to build a home,
You know their many brave economies;
The toil to be expended on the loan,
To rear their walls, to plant their fruitful trees;
The plans they make for children yet to be;
Their longing for the countless things they need,
Which now they do without from sheer necessity.

Grant them a special blessing, Lord, we pray;
Help them to face the future without doubt;
Make them to know they never can afford
To build a home whose walls will shut You out.
They are so young -- funds are so scarce; and yet
If love be theirs, and youth's clean joyous health,
Though there be hardships, may they not forget
They own the earth, and all the worthwhile wealth.

WELCOME VISITOR

What interests the readers of weekly newspapers?

The Suburban Press Foundation conducted a survey to find the answer to that question, and Editor & Publisher has printed the results. They cast a revealing light on the wants of the millions of people who live in the small towns and the countryside.

As one would expect, local news led the field in readership, with 92.9 per cent of those polled saying they always read it; 6.5 per cent saying they read it sometimes; and only 0.6 per cent confessing they never read it.

Next -- and close behind -- came editorials and local columns. A mere 0.7 per cent said they never read these.

Third in reader interest was advertising. Only 2.7 per cent said they never read it. All the rest said they always or sometimes read it.

Actually, the whole weekly paper is very thoroughly read. Even the poorest read classification -- sports news -- drew a combined "always" and "sometimes" readership of 89.1 per cent.

The weekly paper is one of the most welcome of visitors to rural homes. It stays for seven days, not just one. And the whole family has a lasting and hearty appetite for just about everything in its columns.

THE ART OF DEFAMING

"Extremist" is a popular word, but less overworked than in 1964. It continues to be an all - purpose label attached to any person or idea another wishes to defame.

Used alone, "extreme" and its derivatives are senseless for they denote a measurement, degree or relation. The purpose in using a word in this way is to blur its meaning, to blotch, daub and muddy the meaning of a statement. By improperly using words, their clarity is destroyed, making a smear of them. The purpose is to apply the smear word to a person, object or idea, to create an image that will be unattractive or offensive to others.

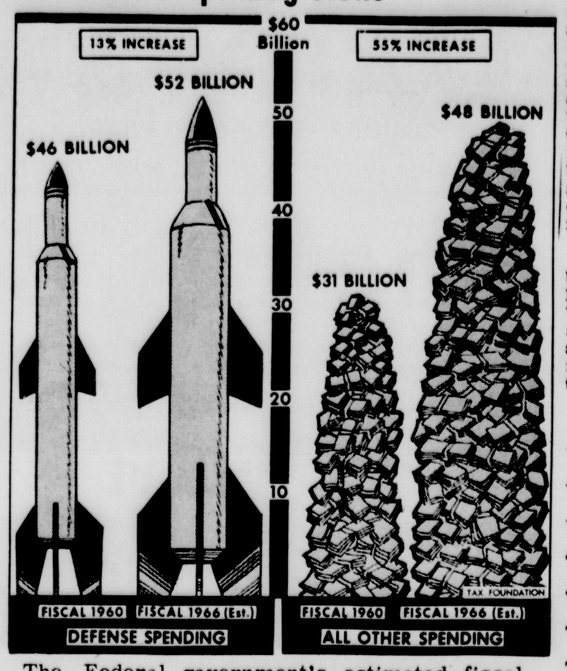

As an example, in the 1930's "Isolationism" was introduced. It was made to suggest something evil by proclaiming it the attitude of a person interested only in his own country, unconcerned with the rest of the world. It was applied as a distasteful label to what was merely patriotism and national self-interest.

"Patriotism" and its meaning were replaced by "Isolationism". A word denoting principle, honor and integrity thus became a word suggesting shame.

Later, came "McCarthyism". The word had no clear definition. It was used to suggest something terrible. Supposedly, "McCarthyism" meant unjust accusations, persecutions, character assassinations of innocent victims. Its real meaning was "Anti-Communism". The term "McCarthyism" was used to intimidate anyone exposing communist activities. Denouncing communism was, and is, termed "McCarthyism".

"Extremism" is a label applied now to a person, group or idea advocating the individual's right to use himself and his property as he chooses and the freedom of other individuals to do likewise. "Extremism" has become the distasteful word to be applied to "Capitalism". HLH.

Where Federal Spending Grows

The Federal government's estimated fiscal 1966 administrative budget calls for defense spending about 13 percent higher than in fiscal 1960 ($52 billion vs. $46 billion). All other Federal spending in the administrative budget, however, is estimated to be 55 percent greater ($48 billion vs. $31 billion).

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is the opening of many doors.

One often opens them with trepidation, because they lead to situations one may never have faced before.

But there is a single door one may open without fear, confident of what lies on the other side. That is the door of memory. For most of us it becomes an increasing pleasure to open that door more often and take a restful mental stroll back down time's past corridor.

You've had a pretty long walk in that corridor yourself if you can remember when—

Every fat man thought he looked slimmer in a vest and a double-breasted jacket.

A fellow never had to borrow money from his wife for his midday meal if he worked near a saloon that served a free lunch.

Most American homes still had mice in them.

Before the era when basements were turned into "rumpus rooms" they were often called "storm cellars."

Every firehouse had a Dalmation dog, and it was usually called "Spot."

The only Americans who regularly cooked their meals outdoors in summer were the residents of hobo jungles.

Only children believed in Santa Claus.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Teddy Kennedy, after an auspicious start as junior Senator from Massachusetts, has really got himself snafued over his recommendation of an old family friend, Francis X. Morrissey, to be a federal judge.

First, he got himself snafued with President Johnson, who is going to look twice at the next man Teddy recommends, to see if he's being handed another lemon.

Second, Teddy has snafued his own reputation by putting family cronies ahead of public trust, and has reminded people that he, himself, was fired from Harvard for cheating but later accomplished the miracle of being taken back into Harvard and allowed to graduate, thanks to a millionaire father, then Ambassador to Great Britain, who contributed heavily to Harvard.

This young man, despite an admirable career in the Senate hitherto, has been pushing a judgeship for a friend of his father's despite the fact that the would-be judge also took a short cut on an examination. After failing to pass the Massachusetts bar exams, Morrissey went through a Georgia diploma mill, later abolished by the State of Georgia.

EARLY BLEMISHES LEAVE SCARS

Finally, the Morrissey incident emphasizes the fact that earlier blemishes in the careers of judicial candidates usually do not make for good judges.

When Leonard Walsh of the District of Columbia was nominated for a judgeship, people were inclined to forgive some false testimony he gave just as the people of Massachusetts were inclined to forgive Teddy Kennedy's cheating at Harvard.

Walsh had got involved in a hit-and-run driving accident, in which the U. S. Court of Appeals handed down a decision seriously impugning his credibility. Wrote Chief Judge Lawrence Groner: "He (Walsh) falsely charged the act to another. This," added the judge, "was sufficient to justify the jury in rejecting the whole of his evidence."

Both the public and the Senate forgave the past. But Walsh, now elevated to the bench, has not make a good judge. He is nervous, edgy, inclined to be prejudiced. Beads of perspiration come out on his forehead when he faces difficult decisions.

Note 1 -- Sen. Bobby Kennedy, whose brother championed family friend Judge Morrissey, wrote a letter to New York Democratic leaders last Feb. 10 warning them against hanging out jobs on the basis of patronage, not merit. "Dealing out jobs like so many cards off the top of the deck is intolerable," Bobby scolded.

Note 2 -- Some of the best judges in recent years were appointed by Eisenhower solely on the basis of merit. They included Chief Justice Earl Warren, Associate Justice William Brennan, and Judges John Minor Wisdom and Elbert Tuttle of the Fifth Circuit.

UNHAPPY LBJ

President Johnson has given orders to the Justice Department to make a much more careful check on the background of judicial and legal appointees in the future. He is peeved at the Justice Department for not digging into Morrissey's past; also unhappy that Justice recommended David Bress to be U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia without informing him that Bress has been attorney for Bobby Baker's vending machine company. Justice also failed to advise the President that Bress had hankered to be a judge under Eisenhower, then turned round to try for U.S. Attorney as a Democrat.

A skillful lawyer with a likeable personality, Bress has had a diverse practice. And like most wide-ranging attorneys he has represented all sorts of clients. He was attorney for Herb Kaplioff, head of Hollywood Credit, which incurred great bitterness in the Negro community for garnisheeing a record number of Negro paychecks. Later he represented Marshall Coyne in the acrimonious divorce against Coyne's wife which upset the Jewish community.

He was leading attorney in the battle over the estate of Melvin A. Viner of the Arcade-Sunshine Laundry, and made a million -dollar settlement in favor of Viner's widow after her counsel, Bruce Sundlun, charged that Bress's law firm falsified stock certificates.

Sundlun was so indignant over the incident that he filed a complaint against Bress and Associates with the U. S. Attorney's office.

One significant phase of the affair was an affidavit from Wayne Birdsell, the court reporter, stating that the Viners tried to get him to change their sworn testimony without notifying opposing attorneys in the case.

However, after Bress was appointed U. S. Attorney, Sundlun hastily changed his tune.

"I'm a young man in this town and I have to get along," he confided. "I don't want to get mixed up in this thing. Besides, I have worked with Bress as a member of the Washington Hebrew Congregation."

So, when called before a Senate Subcommittee to testify, Sundlun's previous indigation over the falsification of the Viner stock certificates evaporated. He testified for Bress.

Explaining to a friend why he had reversed himself, Sundlun said: "When I filed that complaint against Bress, I was just out of the Justice Department and had stars in my eyes."

The whole thing has not made President Johnson happy. He wants a better check on Judicial and Justice Department appointments in the future.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Bloc Forming to Denounce U. S. Action In Viet Nam as a 'Dirty War.'

New York: -- Slowly, but with certainity, as though they had long been awaiting the strategic moment, a handful of influential labor leaders are striding out of their philosophical retreats, charging that the U. S. is fighting "a dirty war" in South Viet Nam.

Amid their vocal volleys can be heard the re-echoing of propaganda that asserts the U.S. is fighting "another white man's war against colored people."

Steadily, the outspoken leaders of scores of thousands of unionists are weaving a bloc of labortities into a skilled phalanx for an attack on AFL-CIO President George Meany and his efforts to bolster the fighting forces in Southeast Asia.

Some of the labor men actually call for cooperation or negotiations with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Some of these labor leaders, and hundreds of their followers, were in the commingled Fifth Ave. peace parade here last Saturday. There is no doubt of this.

For hours I covered every inch of the four blocks between 95th Street and 92nd Street running from Fifth Ave. to Madison Ave. Then I marched and remarched the full parade route.

On 94th Street there were contingents of the union which is organizing hospitals and drugstores -- Local 1199. It was led by a stalwart militant, Moe Foner. With him, he told me later, were 150 of his union's activists. Foner is executive secretary of the union.

Ahead of them in the parade were the District 65 marchers. Their leader, Dave Livingston, now suffering from a hipailment, was not with them. It is he who is charging the U. S. with fighting a dirty war.

It is his dynamic union which has in it the leaders of the Peace Action Committee (PAC). District 65 is the ideological core of left-wing labor today. It is the largest section of the retail, wholesale national union whose president, Max Greenberg, has been battling District 65's anti-Viet Nam policies.

Ahead of these contingents in the peace parade-- the size of which has been padded in some reports like a Parisian dinner check -- were some strange elements. There was, for example, a Committee to Aid the National Liberation Front whose troops now are battling American soldiers.

There were very many older folk -- neatly dressed, well-disciplined, and easily formed into lines of eight -- as in the old Communist May Day Parades. There were, indeed, many of the old, orthodox Communist milieu. Amongst them were writers and editors of the old Daily Worker -- now the Worker.

There is positively no doubt they filled out the line. They helped the younger people and bolstered their enthusiasm.

It must be said that there were sincere pacifists, and young college men who shrink from the thought of war. They were well-dressed. There were no beards. There were no kooks.

But they strode behind grim hearses, a mangled American flag which had the stars removed and replaced with replicas of bombs, and hacked-up dolls simulating injured children.

There were the self-avowed revolutionists of the Progressive Labor Party and the now older revolutionists of yesteryear -- the Trotskyites. By the thousands they handed out their costly "working class" literature. But the chap who had the formula for beating the draft sold his wares for a dime.

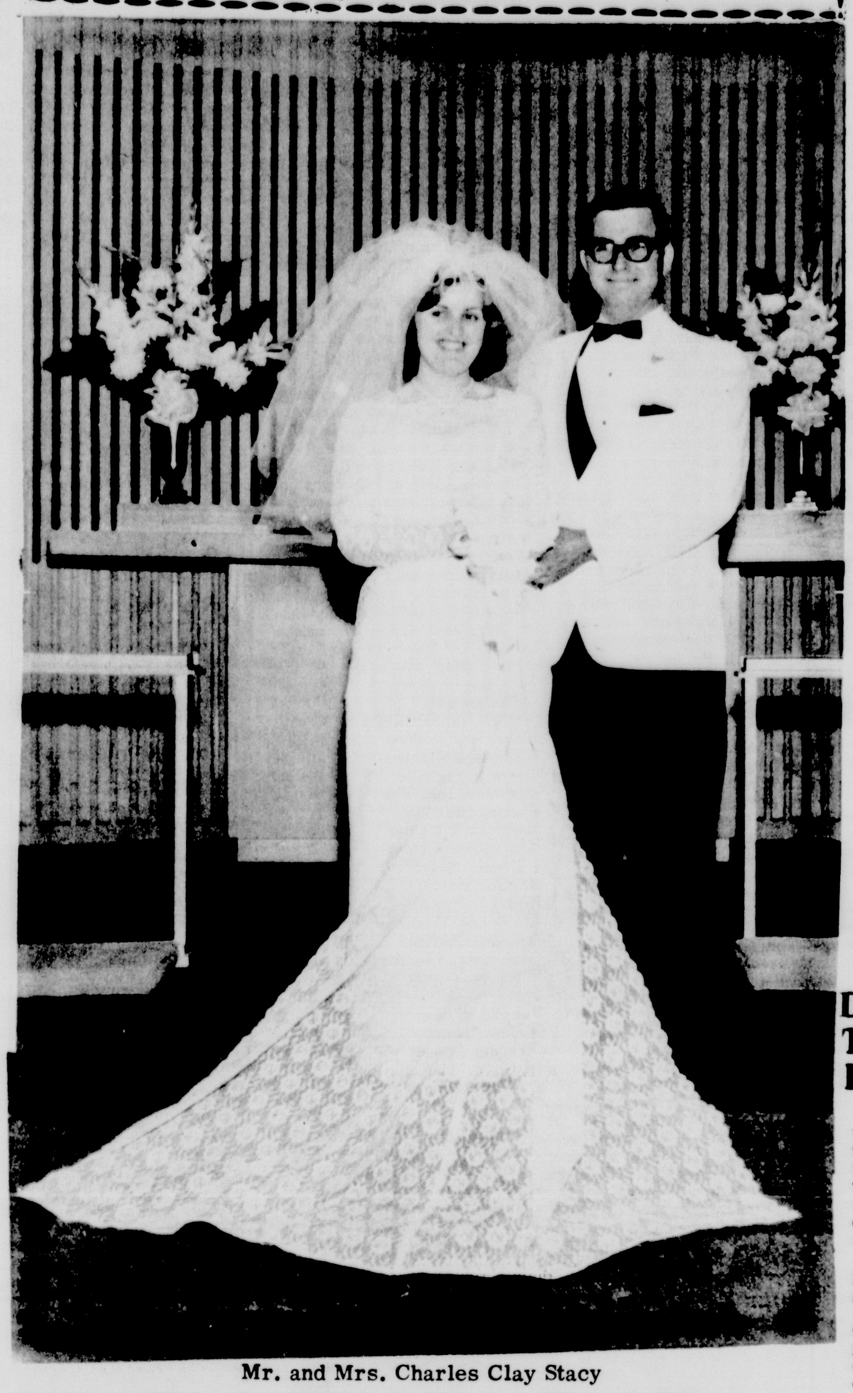

Local 1199's Mr. Foner told me later ". . . we were not there as a union. It was all very loose; I don't know who was in front. We were marching with trade unionists. We believe in a cease fire, stop the bombing and get together and end this thing. . ."

Foner's attitude is parallel to other such activists in the West Coast longshoremen's union, which goes in for passing resolutions and "peace" talks at stop work meetings; in the United Electrical Workers, in the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers -- in 22 big union blocs in all.

They look forward, most of them, to a national peace conference called by these unions to whom America's commitment in South Viet Nam is a dirty war.

Bulldogs Meet The Central Tigers Tonight

By Don Voelker
Sports Writer and Editor

The Sikeston Bulldogs are going up to Cape to see how badly they can bite the Central Tigers and of course the Tigers are growling and howling for the Bulldogs hair and they will probably get a scalp or two full. So far this year the Bulldogs have played four Northern Conference games and they have only lost one of them and it had to be their game with the Bulldogs. The Dogs have also played two other games with teams in the Southern Conference and won both of them. Sikeston has scored 89 points this football season and they have allowed 38 points to be scored against them. The Portageville Bulldogs are number 1 in total points scored for the year with 143 and Malden is second with 120 total points, with Sikeston being the second highest total scorer in the Northern Conference. They are fifth in both conferences. Poplar Bluff ranks number 1 in the Northern Conference with 92 points this year and having 14 being scored against them which is the lowest number of points being scored against a team in both North and South Conferences. Out of 16 teams, including the Cairo Pilots, Cape Central ranks 15th in total number of points scored with 7 and having 84 points scored against them.

Sikeston's Danny Lopp is the highest total scorer for the Bulldogs with a total of 22 points and he is second highest with extra points with 10. The top ranking ball carrier in both conferences is Malden's Tom Schomehl with an outstanding scoring of 36 points.

The Sikeston Bulldogs will invade Houck Stadium tonight. It will be a home coming for the Tigers. Sikeston won last year's game 20-19 when Dave Collier, Bulldog halfback, caught a touchdown pass from quarterback Pete Burns with about one minute remaining in the game.

The win last season was the first by the Bulldogs since 1961 when Sikeston won by a score of 35-7. Previously Sikeston was the victor for 13 years in a row. The worst the Bulldogs have beaten the Cape Central Tigers was in 1951 when the Dogs, coached by good ole Kenny Know, beat Cape 60-0. The Begals had one squad from 1955 to 1960 when Cape Central didn't score a point against them. The only touchdown Central has scored this year was when they beat Jackson 7-0.

The Tigers are going into the game tonight with three injured players. Don Riley was injured in the Poplar Bluff game and Ben King and Andy Pemberton, halfbacks, are among the doubtful players who will see limited action. Cape's best rusher is Bill Bishop. Their quarterback hit 9 out of 21 passes last week against the Poplar Bluff Mules. Central's entire team makes about an equal amount of tackles. Said Central Tiger's Coach Goodwin, "Sikeston is winning and we are losing, it is as simple as that."

Undefeated Blue Jays To Battle Cairo Pilots

CHARLESTON -- The unequaled rusher for the Charleston Blue Jays is Frank Powell, who has gained a total of 380 yards in 79 carries for an outstanding average of 4.7. Terry Brashers has gained 276 yards in 77 carries for a total of 3.6 yards per carry. Charleston Blue Jay Bob Richardson has made over 240 yards during 50 carries for an average of 4.8 yards per carry. Charleston's best defensive player is Vernon Cates, Line Backer, who is the most consistent player on the team. Most Tackles goes to Blue Jay Evert Holly. Charleston's pass defense is also very accurate. They have not had a pass completed for a touchdown against them yet this year, knock on wood. The Blue Jays will have to contend with Cairo's passer tomorrow night and he, Jerry Zimmer, has an outstanding ability to throw the ball. Zimmer has thrown 53 passes and 31 of them have been completed for over 500 yards, 6 of them were touchdown passes.

Charleston's Terry Brashers has completed 18 passes for a total of 207 yards. Charleston's Bruce Defield is in the Delta Community Hospital with a badly bruised kidney. He should be out sometime today or Friday, however, he won't be playing football for a while.

Tomorrow night will be Charleston's Homecoming game and they haven't won a homecoming in over three years. Two years back Charleston was defeated by the Poplar Bluff Mules, 14-0, and last year the Chaffee Red Devils edged them 13-7. This year Cairo will whip them if they are always unlucky on homecoming night. The Blue Jays have played three conference games and won all of them. They have racked up 88 points and 47 have been scored against them.

At the homecoming Claudie McConachie will be crowned queen; there will be a parade and a dance.

CAIRO -- At 7:30 Daylight Savings time the Cairo Pilots will make their way across the mighty Mississippi to play the unbeaten Charleston Blue Jays. The Jays still have an unbeaten record in the Northern division of Southeast Missouri, following their 6-0 victory Friday night over the Kennett Indians. The Blue Jays are 5-1 for the season, with their only loss at the Paducah Tilghman - Charleston game.

Cairo has a pretty even chance to beat Charleston. The Blue Jays have been picking up speed fast ever since they beat the Sikeston Bulldogs and had their turn to batter, shatter, and break the goal posts off for the first time in 17 years, even if they were the Blue Jays won goal posts.

The Cairo Pilots have made over 1300 yards so far this year and 600 of them have been made in Cairo's magnificent air game. The Pilots made an average of six yards per play. Cairo should be at full strength tomorrow night. Jerry Zimmer, quarter back, has hit 31 out of 53 passes for a gain of over 500 yards which included six touchdown passes. The opposition has completed 16 out of 53 passes and Cairo has intercepted seven.

Cairo's leading ball carrier is Bob Fisher who has run a 90 yard kickoff for a touchdown. He is Cairo's quickest boy. Mike Kepner averages 5 1/2 yards for every time he carries the ball. Mike Futrell is Cairo's biggest ball carrier at 165 pounds. Futrell makes an average of 7 yards for every time he carries the ball which is outstanding. He just bulls his way through. The Cairo Pilots lost their first game, 7-6, because of fumbles. The Pilots fumbled 19 times and they lost eight of them. Cairo hasn't been badly beaten yet this year and it looks as though it may stay that way. They are not in the Conference this year, but they are really giving some of the conference ball teams a fit.

Glass Door Knob

The Cape Central Tigers will host the Sikeston Bulldogs tonight. Sikeston will whip Central, 27-0.

Malden and Chaffee are to tangle tomorrow night. The Green Wave will come through and beat Chaffee, 7-0, if they don't have a tie game. Both teams are undefeated in their conference and Malden hasn't been beaten by anyone.

Portageville will play host to the Caruthersville Tigers Friday night. Caruthersville has a 3-1 record while the Portageville Bulldogs have lost three and won two.

Charleston will meet the Cairo Pilots tomorrow. Charleston will win but not by much, Cairo is mighty tough this season. Charleston 17, Cairo 7.

Poplar Bluff will pull stakes and go to fight the Dexter Bearcats. Poplar Bluff may have the edge but the game will be close. Dexter 14, Bluff 13.

East Prairie and Gideon are to battle it out tomorrow night. Neither team has won a game yet this year and East Prairie hasn't even scored. It is high time for the East Prairie Eagles to break loose. East Prairie 14, Gideon, 0.

My Neighbors

"Quittin' time!"

East Prairie May Score At Last

EAST PRAIRIE--The Gideon Bulldogs will go to East Prairie Friday night to try their luck with the East Prairie Eagles. It will be a real tough team because neither team has won a game yet this year and East Prairie Coach Arlan Powell feels sure that one team will win. If someone doesn't then there will have to be a tie. It will be the first victory this year for which ever team does come through, unless they tie. If any teams have ever needed a win, East Prairie and Gideon do and with both of them badly craving to beat someone, well, something is going to have to break loose and the Eagles have been wanting and trying hard to ever since Charleston beat them in their season's opener. "We are gonna win, or lose, or tie, or do somethin," said Eagle Coach Arlan Powell.

East Prairie's first string quarter back is out of action for a couple of weeks with a slight concussion. Gary Ashcraft is taking his place. Ashcraft played a good game last week. He rushed for a total of 241 yards in the first four games of the season and he has gained 3/4 of the yardage that the East Prairie Eagles have made. Gary Risenhover completes about 40% of his passes. There were only three Eagles playing against Caruthersville last week that were seniors and there will only be three seniors playing this week.

There were two disputed calls in the East Prairie-Caruthersville game last week. Said East Prairie Coach Arlan Powell, "There was one situation in which two officials said we caught the pass and the other official said we didn't catch it so they called it incomplete. Next we recovered a fumble and one official said the whistle had blown before the boy got to the ball and the other two officials said the boy got to the ball before the whistle blew. Once again the ball was given to Caruthersville. When there is a disputed call one of the officials has to be wrong and one has to be right. I don't expect the referee to be for me or against me. I do expect the referee to be fair. I am not making any excuses for my team, I would just like to state the fact that there were entirely too many disputed calls last Friday night. Charleston had the same thing happen at Caruthersville. I think the officials in Southeast Missouri could be improved."

There have been a lot of changes in the East Prairie back field. For one thing they now have a bigger half back, Bruce Banks, who was playing tackle. Glen Faire, Full Back, has been moved to half back and Lewis Franklien has also been moved to the Half Back position. Gary Ashcraft has taken Gary Risenhover's place at Quarter Back. The East Prairie Eagles still don't have any size.

Jerry Barker, Sophomore has been doing a fine job as linebacker and Glen Faire did a real good job on defense last week. The Eagles pass defense is very good. Ends, Ronnie Cooper and Richard Hilton average seven or eight tackles apiece per game.

"We hate to lose, but what makes it look bad is the inability to score so far. We have been playing better ball and our losing is our own fault because of our little mistakes," said Coach Powell.

Gideon has quite a few people hurt since they played Portageville last week. They are really down and feeling low. Gideon's best back was hurt in the Gideon - Portageville game. His collar bone was broken. Gideon has scored 20 points this year and 217 points have been scored against them. Both Gideon and East Prairie have had nothing but bad luck this year.

Bullpups Whip Indians 35-0

The Junior High Sikeston Bullpups whipped the Jackson Indians Monday night 35-0. Fred Towns scored one touchdown on an 85 yards pass play. The pass was thrown by quarter back Bruce Farris. Dennis Snelling scored two touchdowns, Farris scored 1, Gary Robinett scored 1, and Lee Payne kicked all five extra points. During the game one of Payne's kick offs came down on the 2 yard line. This is something that the Senior High Bulldogs don't do.

Some of the outstanding players are John Newberry, who intercepted an Indian pass and ran for 12 yards before he was downed; Bruce Farris, Dennis Snelling, James Denbow, Turner Marshall, and the entire defensive line did a very fine job.

Leading the rushing in total yardage is Dennis Snelling with 43 yards and trailing in second is Bruce Farris with a total of 38 yards rushing. Farris also made 120 yards against the Cape Tigers in the Bullpups opening game.

Chaffee & Malden Undefeated

CHAFFEE -- The unbeaten Green Wave will play host to the undefeated Chaffee Red Devils tomorrow night in a game that shouldn't be missed. Both Chaffee and Malden have played 4 Southern Conference games and they have yet to be put down. Chaffee has allowed 67 points to be scored against them while the Red Devils have scored 95. Malden is second highest scorer in both the Northern and the Southern Conferences with a big 120 while their opponents have only scored 19 points against them. Malden also has the highest scoring player in both conferences. The player is Tom Schoemehl with 36 points so far this year.

On paper Malden has the edge on Chaffee. They have a better passing game but offensive wise the Red Devils should be just as tough.

Chaffee Red Devil Bob Baert, End, is out of action with a bruised knee and David Richburg, Left Half, has a torn leg muscle. Richburg is Chaffee's fastest player with a record of 10.1 in the hundred.

The Red Devils are doing much better since they played the Sikeston Bulldogs. Sikeston had more experienced boys. Chaffee has only been beaten outside of its conference. They were shipped by Sikeston in the first game and by Jackson last week.

Chaffee's best rusher is Joe Perry Rice, 150 pound Half Back. Rice is outstanding on both offense and defense. He made 9 tackles against Jackson last week. "Joe Rice is the best I've seen this year," said Chaffee Coach Gene McClanahan. Rice rushed over 100 hundred yards against Jackson last week.

Chaffee expects a hard game from Malden. They will have to play one of the best games of the year to beat the Green Wave. Both Malden and Chaffee are real tough teams.

MALDEN -- The Malden Green Wave has played 4 conference games this year and one non-conference game all of which they have won. Out of the 5 games Malden has scored 120 points and only 19 points have been scored against them. Malden Coach Rodney Miller believes that if the Green Wave plays like they are capabel of playing they will beat the Chaffee Red Devils. The only thing wrong is that Chaffee feels the same way. The Red Devils would like to win the conference and they are going after it full force. The Chaffee team knows what is at stake and they are really wanting to play. Malden is the only undefeated team in the Southeast Missouri Conference area. The Green Wave won the 5th straight game Friday against Hayti.

Malden's most outstanding rushing player is Tom Schomehel who racked up 180 yards in Malden's last game with Hayti. Schomehel is also the top ranking scorer in both the Northern and Southern Conference with a total of 36 points so far this year. Butch Green, Quarter Back, is Malden's best passer with a 50% average for a total of 280 yards on pass plays. The Green Wave's most accurate extra point kicker is Mike Whitehead who has only missed 4 out of 20 kicks this year. Whitehead started out slow but now he is on a down hill run like the Devil is after him. The entire Malden team is very consistent in blocking and tackling.

The Green Wave feel as though they can take anybody if they play well, especially Chaffee.

It will be Dad's Night tomorrow night when the Malden Green Wave meets the Chaffee Red Devils. The Dads will sit along the sidelines and wear their sons' playing number.

Dexter Bearcats Host Bluff Mules

DEXTER -- The Bearcats have played four conference games so far this football season and they have won three of them which isn't at all a bad record. This Friday night the Dexter Bearcats will be playing the kicking-stomping Poplar Bluff Mules in Dexter. The Bearcats have scored a total of 58 points this year and have only had 39 scored against them.

Some of Dexter's top notch boys are Boyce Wooley, Defensive Tackle; Mike Dudley, Left Back; Tom Horton, Center; and Bruce McDonald, who may be out of action this week because of a knee injury. McDonald is a running back and plays safety of defense. John Agey is the Dexter Bearcat's Quarter Back. Last week against Sikeston Agey threw 12 passes and 8 of them were successful for 66% and a total passing yardage of 101 yards which isn't bad passing at all. Bruce McDonald is also Dexter's top rushing player, with a total of 60 yards in the Sikeston-Dexter game.

The Bearcats have excellent passing and running but the ability of the defense to tighten up and keep the opponent from scoring was just a little weak last week with the Sikeston Bulldogs.

The Poplar Bluff Mules may make a few mistakes tomorrow night and if the Dexter Bearcats will get on the ball and take advantage of them they could just whip them. On the practice field this week Dexter is looking good and the boys are all in high spirits and aching to give the Mules a good clawing. The Mules are also in high spirits and wanting to give Dexter a good kicking. Poplar Bluff has played five conference games this year and they have lost two of them. The Mules have had 14 points scored against them and they have scored 92 points against the teams they have played up to this point in the football conference.

Portageville Vs. Caruthersville

PORTAGEVILLE -- The Caruthersville Tigers and the Portageville Bulldogs are to tangle tomorrow night in what should be a tough grudge match. Last year when Portageville and Caruthersville met, they were neck and neck, 13-13, with about four minutes left in the game when a small boy by the name of Corky Sutton ran a kick off for a 96 yard touchdown and Portageville won the game 19-13. Sutton was then a 125 pound half back, he is not playing now.

The Tigers have 44 boys to back the first string up if any of the boys get hurt and the boys are bigger than the Bulldogs. Portageville has 23 boys dressed out. On paper Caruthersville should beat Portageville, but who wins will depend on which team really puts out. The Portageville Bulldogs are the top ranking team as far as points scored with 143. Only 47 points have been scored against the Bulldogs this year. The Bulldogs are going in tomorrow's game while licking wounds from last week's game with Gideon and previous games. David Keith has a fractured hand and may not be able to participate in the game with the Tigers. Billy Burns has not one, but two severely sprained ankles and Bill Durden has a sprained knee and will only be able to see limited action. The Caruthersville Tigers will be going into the game in full force. They have a good ball club and they haven't lost badly to any other team.

The game tomorrow night will be Portageville's Homecoming game. The undefeated Portageville squad of 1953 will attend the game along the side lines and there will be a reunion after the game. The will also be a dance and a crowning of the queen ceremony.

The next game could be a big one for the Bulldogs. "They will play as hard as they can and put out the best we have to offer," said Bulldog Coach Bill Nance.

Portageville's top rusher is Glen Stewart who made 160 yards last week against the Gideon Bulldogs. Stewart is good on both offense and defense. Portageville quarter back Roger Graham hits about 33% of the passes he throws while Glen Stewart hits about 50% of the possible passes he tosses. Ronnie Hamra also is a real fine ball player and Bruce Henning, F. B., has been doing an adequate job. Of the Portageville defense Gordon Stout, G., has been going an excellent job.

The Bulldogs are going to try to whip Caruthersville again this year and vice-versa.

Malden's Schoemekl Takes District Scoring Lead With 36

Tom Schoemehl, star halfback of the Malden Green Wave, has taken over the scoring lead for the district with 36 points.

He scored three times in his team's victory over the Hayti Indians to take the lead. He has scored six touchdowns.

Roger Oster, Perryville, failed to score at Cairo, Ill. but held his North Conference lead with 30 points. Robert Taylor, Kennett, maintained his runner-up spot in the north with his 27 points. Terry Brashears, Charleston, kept third place without scoring. He has 26 points.

Bruce Nall, Poplar Bluff, and Frank Powell, Charleston, moved into a fourth place with Bob Richardson. All have 24 points.

Glen Stewart, Portageville, scored twice, and his teammate, Bruce Hennings once, to take over second place in the South Conference. They have 30 points.

Ronnie Hamra, Portageville, kicked five extra points and scored a touchdown to take over fourth with 29 points.

Hamra moved into the lead for extra points with 11. Danny Lopp, Sikeston, has 10. Lopp also scored a pair of touchdowns for Sikeston. Mike Whitehead, Malden, is third in the extra point kicking with nine.

Johnson May Miss Next NFL Game

ST. LOUIS AP -- Quarterback Charley Johnson, the man who makes the St. Louis Cardinals high-powered offense go, may miss Sunday's National Football League game against Washington.

The 26-year-old signal caller, who has not missed a game since he took over the job three seasons ago, suffered a badly bruised left shoulder last Sunday against Pittsburgh.

Asked if he expected the shoulder to keep him out of the game, the right-handed thrower said "It doesn't feel like it to me."

"However, Coach Wally Lemm listed him as "questionable."

"He couldn't move his left shoulder very well and it will be a day-to-day thing before we know whether he can play," Lemm said. "We probably won't know until Friday.

Johnson is not taking part in drills during the week.

While the shoulder will not hamper his passing, which has produced league-leading totals of 13 touchdown passes and 1,350 air yards in five games, it is likely to restrict his ball-handling.

Johnson has moved the Cardinals to four straight victories and a first place tie with Cleveland at 4-1 in the Eastern Division.

Robert Humphrey, 29, who has never started in a regular season game in the NFL, would take over the offense if Johnson can not make it. Humphrey, obtained in a trade with Dallas prior to the 1963 season, has thrown only 45 passes in seven seasons in the league. With the Cardinals, he has completed eight of 19 for 122 yards in two and a half seasons.

Goose Season, Off With Bang

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- It wasn't so noisy but it was a productive opening of the goose season at Swan Lake refuge in Chariton County, conservation commission spokesmen said today.

The commission ruled earlier that on its managed portion of the federal waterfowl refuge each hunter would be limited to 10 shells.

One group of four came in with only one goose and no more shells. But, the commission reported, the hunters still thought the 10-shell limit was good and it was their own carelessness that prevented a more successful hunt.

By 11 a.m. hunters had checked in with 153 geese and there were only two violations. One was a non-resident hunting on a Missouri permit and one with more than the two Canadas allowed in a day's bag.

If someone asks what it is that makes a good talker, I'd answer very simply that a good listener makes a good talker.

Southeast Missouri State To Meet Kirksville Dogs

CAPE, KIRKSVILLE SET TO CLASH SATURDAY

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- Southeast Missouri State's football team, assured of no better than a .500 season with five losses in as many games, face one of their toughest tests of the year this week when they meet the Kirksville Bulldogs here Saturday.

The winless Indians, thought in pre-season predictions to pose the most serious threat to last year's champs, will meet Maurice Wade's eleven on the Houck Stadium field here at 8 p.m. (CDT) Saturday.

Coach Kenneth Knox's squad is 0-1 in the conference after last week's 27-13 loss to Springfield.

The Bulldogs are 4-1, their only loss being to undefeated Northern Illinois. Kirksville started its MIAA schedule on the right note by whipping Missouri University Rolla last week, 14-0. Other victories were at the expense of Western Illinois, Upper Iowa, and Pittsburg, Kan.

Coach Knox, in commenting on the upcoming game, said, "This is a must game for us if we want to stay in the conference race. A win would put us in good shape but a loss would be disastrous to our title hopes."

The Indians, plagued all season with injuries to key men, lost starting defensive end Von Hanners, senior from Kennett, in a practice session prior to the Springfield game. He is expected to be out for the season with a broken bone in his foot.

The Indians' backfield will also have a new -- and young --look this week with sophomore quarterback Greg Brune of Cape slated to start at the helm in place of the injured Irvin Whitehead, the team's leading scorer with 21 points. Brune played the second half at Springfield and connected on eight of 16 passes for the two Cape State touchdowns.

Junior Chuck Koerner of Du Quoin, Ill., Brune's target on the two touchdown tosses, will start again at one of the halfback slots. Koerner is fast becoming one of the team's most proficient pass receivers, moving into second place on the team in that department, with six catches for 122 yards. End Mike Kelley, Hayti, a senior, leads with 17 catches and 165 yards.

The other halfback post will be manned by Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves, a freshman improving each week as he gains experience. Smallwood is now second on the team in rushing with 119 yards in 37 carries.

John Glass, senior from East Prairie, the man relied upon most for short gainers in the Springfield game, will be at his fullback post against Kirksville. He leads the team in rushing with 171 yards in 50 carries.

The Kirksville eleven has averaged 407 yards per game in total offense, racking up an average of 30 points per game. Junior halfback Sharron Washington has scored 54 points in five games in leading the Bulldogs' potent offense.

Huskers 1st In Rushing & Total Defense In Big 8

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

The season is only half over, but Sugar Bowl officials already are casting covetous glances toward Nebraska, while Husker Coach Bob Devaney is busy sounding warnings about Colorado's unbeaten, twice-tied Buffaloes.

"Colorado has been stingy about letting people run or pass against them," Devaney said Wednesday. He cited figures to prove his point. The Huskers are first in rushing defense and total defense in the Big Eight, and second in passing defense. Colorado is right behind the Huskers in each category.

"Colorado scored 36 points against Kansas State and 34 against Oklahoma State," he said. "There is no doubt this is the best team we have faced this season."

Meanwhile, A. Theo Maumus, Sugar Bowl president, announced at New Orleans that scouts from his group will be in Lincoln to see the Husker-Colorado game Saturday. Sugar Bowl scouts also watched Nebraska swamp Wisconsin 37-0. Colorado and Wisconsin finished in a scoreless tie.

The Sugar Bowl plays host to writers and broadcasters. Wednesday and asked for their comments. To sum it up, the writers said "Get Nebraska now."

The Sugar Bowl obviously wants the unbeaten Huskers, but can't say so for the record because the Huskers might decline and other contenders would resent being second or third choice.

Devaney meantime had some good news from his trainer -- linebacker Mike Kennedy and defensive end Langston Coleman will be able to see some action.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton expressed dis-satisfaction with his team's 6-for-20 passing at Colorado and the Cyclones worked on their passing.

Missouri also drilled hard on passing, in preparing for the Iowa State game at Ames. Gary Lane, Gary Kombrink and Lloyd Carr took turns throwing. Kombrink was still limping slightly from a heel injury.

At Kansas State, defensive back Mike Murray quit the squad. He had seen considerable action. Coach Doug Weaver gave no reason for Murray leaving. Quarterback Mike White worked in Murray's spot.

Oklahoma learned a knee injury will keep offensive guard Wes Butts out of the K-State game.

Oklahoma State continued to work Buddy Burris at no. 1 quarterback as Glenn Baxter remained a doubtful starter for the Kansas game with a dislocated finger.

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell said Burris did an excellent job all the way for OSU against Texas Tech and "with his speed, the running pass has us worried to death.

Three All America Candidates

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Game after game, three senior players are around the top of the list of defensive All America candidates in the Midlands, as reported by the Associated Press regional board.

They are back Johnny Roland of Missouri, tackle Walt Barnes of Nebraska and linebacker Carl McAdams of Oklahoma.

The 207-pound Roland, a fourth round future draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals, is an outstanding ball hawk and smashing tackler on defense. Board members and coaches rate him the equal of any defensive back in the land.

Roland is much more than this however, because he gives the offense a big lift. Coach Dan Devine uses him in situations near the goal. In all categories, Roland has handled the ball 39 times and gained 379 yards. Against UCLA he returned a punt 67 yards for a touchdown, then threw a two-point conversion pass for a 14-14 tie.

The 6-foot-3, 252-pound Barnes can play wherever the unbeaten Huskers need him most. Right now he's at tackle. Last season he was an All-Big Eight middle guard. If Nebraska needed an offensive tackle, he'd be the best in the league. Husker coaches say he's so quick, strong and smart he could become a great fullback.

McAdams, 6-3 by 226, knows opponents' moves so well it seems he's always in the right place to stop the play. He's a punishing tackler and fast enough to intercept and bat down passes. Game after game, opposing backs complain "McAdams was everywhere." He was Associated Press Lineman of the Week for the nation after his play against Texas.

The board rated several defensive players close to the top three.

They are ends Sam Harris, 225 of Colorado, and Bill Matan, 239 of Kansas State; tackles Bruce Dyke, 230, Missouri and Hugh McCrabb, 200 Oklahoma State; guard Charley Harper, 245, Oklahoma State; linebackers Jim Waskiewicz, 235 Wichita; Doug Buffone, 220 Louisville; and Dick Fugere, 215 Cincinnati and defensive backs Larry Wachholtz, 162 Nebraska, Ken Boston, 178 Missouri and Hale Irwin, 181 Colorado.

Seven sophomores playing defense were pegged as future All America possibilities by the board. They are Russell Washington, 6-foot-6, 274-pound Missouri end; tackles Frank Bosch, 245, Colorado, and Earl Edwards, 265, Wichita; guards Ron Scott, 224, Colorado, and Jerry Murphy, 241 Nebraska; linebacker Kerry Mottle, 204, Colorado; and back Charles Greer, 183, Colorado.

High School Football Deaths Mushroomed To 21

High school football fatalities have mushroomed to 21 this season with two more deaths Wednesday.

The latest casualties were Sam Wortham, a 17-year-old fullback on the Titusville (Fla.) High School team, and Leslie Pitts, 17-year-old guard for Orangeville (Ill.) High School.

Coach John Gaines said films of the game showed no blows which could have caused Wortham's injury. The youngster was his team's leading scorer.

Pitts, a 160-pound senior, fell to the ground unconscious after blocking a defensive player in a game against Galena Friday night. The youngster never regained consciousness and died at St. Clare Hospital in Monroe, Wis.

Pitts suffered what was described as a mild concussion Sept. 24 in a game against the sophomore squad of Rockford East High School. He was released from a hospital after a four-day stay.

A week before Pitts was injured, Dr. Frank P. Smith, clinical associate professor and chairman of the division of neurological surgery at the University of Rochester, told a conference of 200 high school coaches, trainers and administrators that a player who continues in a game after a bruising tackle or block is a candidate for a fatal injury.

"We know from experience that it is the groggy player who is most likely to be killed," Dr. Smith said.

He urged the coaches not to accept the players' word that he is "okay" after an injury.

There were 45 football deaths across the country last year, 34 in 1963 and 26 in 1962.

Coffeyville, Kan., ranked 12th.

Hall Of Fame

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Branch Rickey, a baseball executive for more than half a century, will be inducted into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame Nov. 13 after the Missouri-Oklahoma football game.

Rickey will be present for the Hall of Fame banquet that evening. The late J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News for almost half a century, will be inducted posthumously.

Another 1965 selection, to be announced next week, also will be inducted. All previous members of the Sports Hall of Fame have been invited.

Rickey, 84, served as an executive, general manager and manager during his long career with the St. Louis Cardinals, St. Louis Browns, Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates. He is best remembered for starting extensive farm systems and for breaking baseball's color line by signing Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in the majors.

Members of the Hall are selected by sports-writers and sportscasters in the state. Rickey wasn't born in Missouri but served in the state for a long period, as did another Hall member, Stan Musial.

Tickets to the banquet may be obtained from Don Faurot, secretary-treasurer of the Hall and athletic director at Missouri.

My husband was snoring peacefully when our four-year-old tiptoed into the room and climbed into bed beside him. He listened, fascinated, for a moment, then gravely inquired, "Mother, why is daddy growling?"

Birch Showdown Near For GOP

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican policymakers may be headed for a December showdown on the nagging question mark of John Birch Society influence within their party.

The question zoomed into prominence when Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky tied into the Birch Society and said its influence should be booted out of the GOP.

Morton, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, charged the militantly conservative organization is trying to take over the party.

GOP floor leaders of the House and Senate joined him in declaring the society is no part of the GOP.

The Birch Society promptly denied it has designs on the Republican party. As the Democratic National Committee gleefully noted, society founder Robert Welch said that would be "petty larceny."

Most state GOP chairmen said they doubt the Capitol Hill denunciation will have any particular impact on the party itself.

"The denunciation was more for the edification of the public than the party," said West Virginia Chairman John Scott.

At last year's San Francisco convention which nominated Barry Goldwater for the presidency, delegates jeered to defeat a platform amendment that would have denounced the society.

Now a similar proposal may face the next session of the Republican Coordinating Committee, a council of party leaders due to meet in Washington Dec. 13.

Morton and Michigan Gov. George Romney have said they may seek to have the committee declare itself on the Birch Society.

Goldwater, who has denounced the positions taken by Welch but not the society's members, serves on the coordinating committee.

So does New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has expressed delight at "a growing awareness that the John Birch group is trying to gain control of the party."

Goldwater has said he sees no such threat, but he has suggested that Republicans resign from the society and spend their time working for the party.

That represents little change from a position he took long before the presidential nomination, when he said he had urged some society members to quit the organization in protest against Welch's leadership.

Most state GOP chairmen agree that the society is not a potent force within the party.

Since his original denunciation of the society, Morton has said there are probably as many Democrats as Republicans in the Birch Society.

ANOTHER TOWER FOR NIAGARA

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. -- Billed as the tallest structure of its type in the world, the 520-foot Skylon tower opened here last week in time for late autumn visitors.

Focal point of a $12 million Niagara International Centre which includes an exhibition building, the lofty pylon outrivals its two predecessors -- the Seagram and Oneida towers -- and commands a dramatic view of the American and Horseshoe Falls and the entire Niagara Peninsula.

Visitors ride to the top from the mezzanine of the exhibits building in three high-speed "bubble" elevators on outside shafts. Three levels accommodate roughly 1,500 persons and its uppermost floor contains an observation deck. Up to 300 people can be served in its central level banquet lounge, with accommodation for a like number in a rotating restaurant on the lower level.

Political Tradition Threatened in Jersey

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey chooses a governor and new legislature Nov. 2 in an election that could end several political traditions.

The Democrats are within sight of a peak of political dominance they have not occupied since Woodrow Wilson's term as governor half a century ago.

New Jersey was considered a Republican state only a dozen years ago. But weakened by primary fights, election losses and anemic finances, the Republicans are underdogs in this year's race for governor and are no better than even money to hold on to the newly reapportioned legislature.

Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes is seeking a second four-year term. Polls by both parties show him comfortably ahead. If he wins, it will be the fourth term in a row for the Democrats, the longest reign by either party in the 20th century.

Wayne Dumont Jr., a 14-year veteran of the state Senate, is trying to stop the Democratic streak. A 51-year-old lawyer from one of the state's few remaining rural counties, he won a less-than-resounding endorsement from the GOP in a complicated screening committee procedure followed by a close primary election victory. Twice before he had lost Republican gubernatorial primary elections.

Dumont emphasizes discussion of such things as taxes, colleges, the drought and what he calls Hughes' lack of leadership. He accuses Hughes of wasteful spending and failing to take the lead in raising large amounts of money both he and Hughes agree the state needs.

He has come up with one issue that has emotional impact—Prof. Eugene Genovese of Rutgers, the state university. Genovese told a "teach-in" last April that he would welcome a Viet Cong victory in Viet Nam. Dumont called for dismissal of Genovese and a "sleeper" issue was born.

Hughes emphasizes his agreement with U.S. policy in Viet Nam but has declined to force Rutgers to fire Genovese. He said it would violate academic freedom.

Hughes admits the Genovese issue will cost him votes.

Hughes, 56, is a former judge who won an upset victory in 1961 over the late James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor in the Dwight D. Eisenhower Cabinet. A remarried widower with 10 children and the state's first Roman Catholic governor, Hughes is running this year in a more restrained version of his usual peppery platform style.

He blames most of New Jersey's government problems on the Republican majority caucus which has ruled the state Senate for 50 years.

Both Hughes and Dumont represent a sharp break with New Jersey's past in one major respect—both advocate a big, new statewide tax. Dumont has supported a sales tax for years. Hughes came out for an income tax two years ago.

Sukarno Still Friendly With Communist China

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Despite mounting criticism of Communist China, President Sukarno seems intent on maintaining friendly relations with Peking.

This might prolong the Indonesian crisis. The army — which in effect is now ruling Indonesia — has always viewed with dissatisfaction Sukarno's policy of close relationship with Red China.

Some army-controlled newspapers have dropped hints that Peking backed the Indonesian Communist party, the PKI, in its involvement in the Oct. 1 coup attempt.

Other papers and some officials as well have expressed disappointment over Communist China's attitude toward the Oct. 1 events.

A speaker at an anti-Communist demonstration Wednesday accused the Chinese of supporting the rebels. He even suggested that Indonesia should break diplomatic relations with Peking.

Antara, the official news agency now controlled by the army, today published a resolution adopted at a Moslem youth rally which said the Moslem youths would demand a break in relations if Peking continued its attacks on the army's crackdown on the Communists.

Relations between the two countries deteriorated further when Peking charged that 40 armed Indonesian soldiers sacked the Chinese commercial counselor's office in Jakarta last Saturday.

Peking protested the incident, demanded an apology and requested punishment of those involved. Military sources said they knew of no such attack.

But on Tuesday, after a meeting of Sukarno with his three deputy premier, Chaerul Saleh, third deputy premier, said the four leaders were determined to maintain the Peking - Hanoi - Phnom Penh-Jakarta axis Sukarno proclaimed last August.

Sukarno has failed so far to stop the army's campaign against the Peking-aligned Indonesian community party. It remains to be seen whether he can renew Indonesia's close ties with Peking, whose foreign policy line it has followed more than a year.

EASY SOLUTION TO HOT WATER SHORTAGE

Sometimes people live with a problem so long they accept it as inevitable and make no move to correct it — even when the remedy is easy.

Getting along without enough hot water is one example, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out. Family members adjust to the fact that they can't take a bath right before mother plans to do her washing. Mother makes it a practice to forego the use of her dishwasher on evenings when someone wants to take an early bath. And so on.

Yet the remedy is simple: Get a larger water heater. Many families have a 30-gallon heater when they really need a 40 or 50-gallon one. Your plumbing contractor can determine what size heater you need -- based on the number of adults, children and infants in the family and what types of water-using equipment you have.

He'll also ask you about your plans for buying more water-using equipment, and he'll take that into consideration -- so that you won't outgrow your new heater too quickly. There are several grades of water heaters. The best is the fast-recovery type.

Remember, in many types of equipment, obsolescence is determined by the working condition of the item. In the case of the water heater, the criteria is its capacity to give you all the hot water you need. If it's too small for your needs, it's obsolete even if it's otherwise in top working condition.

The wheel, writing and the plow probably developed in the region which is known as Iraq today.

College Bill To President

WASHINGTON AP -- Congress has sent President Johnson an education bill that would give the nation's colleges a $2,387,000,000 shot in the arm while establishing three landmark programs.

The measure far exceeds the President's recommendations, but he is expected to sign it and set in motion for the first time in the nation's history:

1. A program of federal scholarships to help young people from low-income families attend college.

2. A system of federally insured state and private loans to assist college students from middle-income families.

3. The dispatch of a National Teacher Corps to poverty-stricken areas in a bootstrap attempt to lift education standards.

Actress Found Dead

Sheriff's deputies said the circumstances of her death were not known immediately.

Officers said Miss McDonald's husband, Donald F. Taylor, reported discovering his wife's body at 5:30 a.m.

Homicide investigators were dispatched immediately to the home in suburban Hidden Hills, on the farthest side of the sprawling San Fernando Valley northwest of Hollywood.

Coroner's officers said an autopsy would be held. Lt. James Hamilton of the Los Angeles County sheriff's homicide division, in charge of the investigation, said:

"It doesn't appear to be a suicide. If anything, it would lean toward an accidental death, and it certainly could be a natural death.

"There are lots of pills around, and we've gathered them all up, but there were no marks of violence on her. She went to bed last night at 9:30 in good spirits and had been happy in recent weeks, with seemingly everything to live for. . ."

Taylor, an independent film producer, was the 42-year-old actress' fifth husband, but her sixth marriage. Q—Is it true that the nickname for potato, "spud," comes from the phrase "Society for the Prevention of Unhealthy Diets?"

A—No. It gets its name from the spade—also called a spud—once used for digging potatoes.

Wilson To Fly To Rhodesia

LONDON AP -- Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced today he will fly to Rhodesia this week in a last-ditch effort to find a solution to the crisis over that African colony's demand for independence.

Wilson will go to Salisbury with Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley for talks with Prime Minister Ian Smith in an effort to break the deadlock between the two governments.

Wilson told Smith, in a message delivered this afternoon, that he expected to have the opportunity also to talk with "anyone whose view I feel to be relevant to a solution of this grave problem."

Officials of Wilson's government believed Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's communication to Wilson Wednesday indicated the Rhodesian government is ready to talk some more about independence rather than proclaim it immediately.

Bank Presidents Tells How He Stopped IRS Agents

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Gordon W. Warren, president of the Pulaski Bank of Richland, a town of 1,660 in the Missouri Ozarks, told U.S. Senate investigators how he stopped the Internal Revenue Service from dipping into the accounts of two of his customers.

The government process is called a "levy," and it's used to collect from taxpayers who have failed to pay up. Warren complained about it Wednesday at the final session of a three-day hearing held in Kansas City by a Senate investigating committee.

In one case, Warren said, an IRS agent showed up with a levy for $2.35 on the account of a prominent Richland businessman. Warren said he sent the agent across the street to the man's place of business, where he got his money.

Warren said he paid from his own pocket a levy of $14.92 on the account of a farmer. He said he got his money back the next time the farmer came to town.

But he couldn't stop the IRS from invoking a levy of $291.06 on the account of a small business in Richland. Because it had only $170.65 in the bank, Warren had to freeze the account. It left his customer with two bouncing checks. Warren said he suggested the Internal Revenue agent go 600 feet down the street to talk to the man about it, but the agent refused. As it turned out, he said, the man didn't owe the $291.06.

"Maybe I'm a flag raiser," Warren told the committee, "but these people down in my area don't oppose our fighting in Viet Nam or burn their draft cards. They deserve better treatment than that."

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., chairman of the subcommittee, responded:

"There's nothing wrong with being a flag waver. This is just another example of how overzealous agents take their jobs too seriously and forget about people's feelings. Only a minority are guilty of this."

Warren reported an IRS agent once demanded to see the records of a customer's account and threatened Warren with a $10,000 fine and imprisonment if he told the customer. Warren said he stuck to his policy of not permitting an inspection until the customer is notified and got confirmation from his lawyer that there is no law against this.

The agent was identified as Roy Horn of St. Louis. Sen. Long said Horn was "one of the OCD boys," assigned from the IRS when it and the FBI made a concerted drive on organized crime (OCD) several years ago.

Jack G. Nicholson, a Kansas City tax consultant, told the committee that only once in 27 years has he had rough treatment from the IRS.

"I've talked to a lot of people who now think every agent connected with the IRS is about as low as a person can get," he said. "I don't believe this is the opinion these hearings should convey."

Sen. Long said the committee's purpose is to point out some of the over-zealous tactics of a small number of agents.

One of the witnesses Wednesday was Noel Smith of Taylor, who described himself as an ordinary farmer but also told of buying $250,000 worth of construction equipment entirely on credit and making a million dollars in a year on contracting jobs as far away as Canada and Montana.

He accused the IRS of falsifying bank records, stealing his grain and wrecking his storage bins. The IRS once had a $570,000 jeopardy assessment against him when it contemplated charging him with fraud and imposing him fraud penalties.

After clearing himself of the fraud allegations and winning several rounds in court, Smith said, he settled with the IRS for $54,000 and subsequently has received about $20,000 in rebates for overpayment.

Sen. Long said the committee has no present plans to inquire further into wire tapping by the FBI.

The committee heard evidence Wednesday that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. installed special full-time citcuits at eitht locations in Kansas City where the FBI presumably attached listening devices.

Sen. Long said it was the first time the committee has heard testimony about the FBI using wiretaps. He also said his committee does not have enough staff to investigate the FBI.

India Not Afraid of Chinese Nuclear Threat

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's strategists apparently have decided Communist China poses no immediate nuclear threat—and possibly that the United States would intervene if Peking ever wages atomic war on its Asian neighbors.

This reasoning seems behind Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's reiteration that India's policy is not to manufacture nuclear weapons.

It is authoritatively learned this policy has been re-examined in recent weeks and that Shastri's government was split on the question of whether to take India into the nuclear club.

His government sampled public opinion, permitting one Cabinet member to publicly call for nuclear arming of India and allowing leading members of the ruling Congress party to sign petitions demanding Shastri take the step.

There appear to be these major policy judgments behind Shastri's decision:

—If Communist China attacks India it will be with conventional ground forces making shallow penetrations through the Himalayas. And if China tries nuclear war, the United States, plus Britain, will be forced to enter the fray, though this is not spelled out in any treaty or even understanding with Washington and London.

—Proliferation is an increasing danger to the world, and India's entry into the nuclear club would quickly set Pakistan and Indonesia, both at odds with New Delhi, to making nuclear weapons.

—Manufacture of nuclear weapons would create a bad image for India, and harm its efforts to gain diplomatic support in the Asian-African world.

India's nuclear scientists are believed to have taken their techniques to the point where a final, inexpensive push could produce nuclear devices.

One of India's leading industrialists, G. D. Birla, said at a meeting in Bombay Sunday that he had traveled recently in the United States and got the impression Washington had sent "a very stiff warning to China."

Birla added: "I was told by those who counted that in case China came into India in a big way, the Chinese should be prepared even to receive atomic bombs."

True or not, this thinking appears to have played a big role in New Delhi's assessment.

COMPASSION

The greatest need in the world today is for human compassion. There is a serious danger that the well of compassion may dry up in face of the mass of human suffering that confronts us day after day. The peril is that this may deaden and paralyze our pity.

From the Sikeston Standard of Tuesday, July 2, 1935

Difficulties attended the growth of the Baptist church in Southeast Missouri. The first Baptist known to live permanently west of the Mississippi river were Thomas Bull and his wife, and her mother, a Mrs. Lee, who moved in 1796 to a place about a mile and a half south of Jackson. Then shortly before 1800, the Rev. Thomas Johnson, a Baptist clergyman who had been a missionary among the Cherokees in Georgia, performed what is believed to be the first protestant baptism administered west of the Mississippi. The service was held at Randol's creek while the Rev. Mr. Johnson was visiting friends.

For a time Baptists became increasingly numerous and devout. When it was organized, the Cape Girardeau association included Scott, Mississippi, Perry, and Cape Girardeau counties. Among churches organized during the early part of the nineteenth century were these: Pleasant Hill, in Scott county in 1828; Cypress in 1827, reorganized in 1847 and again in 1867, until it became known as the Diehlstadt church; Mount Moriah at Mathews' Prairie in 1830.

Early in the century the church was very strict, and careless members were punished. Others were granted special privileges. In 1808 three members were excluded for "having Armenian views" and three years later one was discarded for joining a Masonic lodge. At a meeting in 1818 members resolved that Hannah Edwards be allowed to wear gold earrings for the benefit of her health, and in 1820 they decided this problem: "Church in conference. Query: If a member is constrained to shout shall the church bear with it? Answer: Yes."

More grievous questions than these retarded the church's growth, however. After prospering until about 1837, members soon found themselves beset by internal bickering. Since its organization, the Cape Girardeau association had been doing local missionary work without criticism, with now the growth of the missionary spirit and the agitation of the anti-mission doctrine in other groups aided development of anti-mission strength. In 1840, the strongest faction (anti-mission) withdrew from the old group and formed the New Cape Girardeau Moriah, Pleasant Hill, and Little Association, which included Mt. River, combined with the Oran church. Discovering they were not now strong, the regular Baptists soon allowed decay to fall upon their association.

Differences were later settled satisfactorily, and as population increased, churches in compact districts were dismissed from older organizations to form ones of their own. Expansion was retarded during the war between the states, and afterward, as was that of the Methodist church; and from 1865 to 1867, the Baptist church had only one minister, John H. Clark, to serve twenty-nine churches.

The Charleston association was formed in 1876 with four small churches and a membership of 146. Eleven years later there were 656 members in eighteen churches: thirteen in Scott county; three in Mississippi; and two in New Madrid. They were located at Benton, Bethany, Bethel, Diehlstadt, Harmony, Hickory Grove, Hopewell, Little River, Morley, Mount Moriah, New Providence, Oran, Pleasant Hill, Pleasant Valley, Savannah, Sikeston, Unity, and Zion.

The growth of the church here was as seriously hampered as the district's but for reasons vastly different. Early records of the Sikeston church have been destroyed, if they ever existed, and since original members here have died only the recollections of older residents may be set down.

Although according to the cornerstone on the present building, the Baptist church was first organized here in 1868, many are inclined to believe this is incorrect since during that year Mrs. Catherine Sikes Handy organized the first Sunday school here, primarily Methodist in demonination although any residents were welcome at services.

The Baptist church was then probably not organized until at least 1878. Almost as soon as a congregation was formed and before the first Methodist Episcopal church--the frame building now used for the St. Francis Xavier church -- was dedicated, Baptist met in the church on alternating Sundays, when the Methodist minister was holding services at Bertrand, his other charge.

In 1882, however, the Baptist were given a lot on South Kingshighway--their present one--by Mrs. Handy, and there they erected a one-story frame church. Misfortune attended their efforts, for in the following year, before it was finished, the building was leveled to the ground in a cyclone which also damaged Dr. E. J. Malone's barn and a cabin belonging to Mrs. Jennie Green.

And although a second one-story building was erected on the lot the church almost completely disintegrated, chiefly because it was without a regular pastor. The Rev. Rubottom of Greenville some times drove here, but if weather was inclement he would not bridge the swamps to reach Sikeston.

Thirty-seven years ago, when Mrs. George W. Chapman, then Mrs. Mary Lawrence, first came here, she discovered that members had scarcely any church services. With the help of the Rev. Mr. Jones, a Dexter minister who had infrequently come here to preach without charge, Mrs. Chapman and her brothers James Jones, and the Rev. Finus Jones, organized a Sunday school. The enrollment was about twenty-five James Jones was superintendent. Mrs. Chapman taught classes and helped from a chair.

Soon afterward the late Rev. George W. Chapman came here. Immediately he began working to develop the church, serving six months as pastor without charge before he became the church's regular minister, a position he held two years.

The congregation was small but enthusiastic. At one of the numerous cottage prayer services held at homes, fifteen were converted, Mrs. Chapman remembers. Women of the church, including the late Mrs. Mattie McGilsvary, a sister of Mrs. Chapman, formed a Ladies' Aid Society, which did much to maintain the church and make possible its final successful growth.

Often as few as twelve attended church services in the beginning, but while the Rev. Mr. Chapman was pastor, membership increased to sixty. The small building had only one room at first, but later partitions were placed within it for Sunday school classes.

By about 1900 the building was rapidly collapsing. It leaned badly; the floors squeaked; and doors would scarcely shut. The roof was never entirely repaired, older members recall, and if rain fell on Sundays services were necessarily disbanded because of water which seeped through numerous holes. Members were not discouraged however. Because they had no janitor, they helped one another build fires, clean the building, and care for the minister. Their religion was then more fervent and satisfying, they think, than now when obstacles are less great.

C. D. Matthews' former home, moved across South Kingshighway, was satisfactory for a parsonage, but the church building became so unsound that it was useless for services. So it was finally torn down in 1912. A basement was dug and a concrete foundation was constructed during the same year, in a place a little to one side of the former building, but members were unable to occupy a new church for until four years later. Meanwhile, the Rev. W. F. Carnet, who was pastor in 1912, preached to his congregation on the second floor of the city hall and in a room now occupied by The Standard.

Other ministers served here afterward, it is believed, including the Rev. Mr. Lowry and the Rev. Mr. Greenway, but "the hole in the ground", as the basement became to be known, remained intact until the arrival of the Rev. S. P. Brite.

The Rev. Mr. Brite's ambition for a new church was not easily fulfilled. Only discouragement attended his attempts to raise money for a building. Bricks for it were delivered and lay long on the ground. Still he preached and sought funds. A story is told that finally he spent all of one night on his knees praying for help. The following day a prominent parishioner, still living, told the minister that he felt he should contribute. He gave about $1200 and the new structure was started.

At a business meeting, June 23, 1915, church members learned that sufficient guarantee had been given the contractor so that construction work could be started within a week. The Rev. Brite, and W. C. Bowman and J. A. Milem, deacons of the church, formed a building committee. The minister set the first brick in place on July 20, 1915, and later, some residents believe, Masons laid the cornerstone.

The church building -- the present one -- was erected at a cost of $21,000 by the Concrete Tile & Construction Company of Sikeston and under the supervision of J. A. Young. Members first attended services in it on March 5, 1916, and participated in dedication services which extended through the entire week.

After staying here until the church was completed the Rev. Mr. Brite moved away to accept another pastorate, but returned here in 1922 and remained until he left for Kansas in 1929. He was succeeded by the Rev. A. C. Rudloff, who was here from 1929 until 1921. The Rev. Leslie Garrison was minister from that year until this spring, when the Rev. Verne Oglesby became pastor.

The church now has a membership of 678, but few of those who belonged when the organization was hard pressed are still of the congregation. Among the men and women who attended services in the very early part of the twentieth century are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barger, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Carter, Alice Edmondson, Mrs. Olive Farris, W. S. Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Johnson, Mrs. Nanny Key, Mrs. Tessie Lee, Mrs. Mattie McMullin, R. W. McGilsvary, Mrs. Dave Reece, John B. Scillion, Mrs. Fannie Darby and Mrs. George Chapman.

The church is still expanding. Remodeling work is being done, and plans are now being made for the construction of an educational building on South Kingshighway behind the church structure.

More U. S. Cash Is Urged for Rural Electricity

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A national rural electric spokesman today urged increased government loans and additional funds from private sources for the rural electrification program.

Jerry L. Anderson, acting general manager of the National Electric Cooperative Association, addressed the region VIII meeting here today.

In an address prepared for a meeting of some 700 rural electric officials from Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, Anderson pointed to a two-year study of future financing needs conducted by the investment firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the staff of the cooperative associations.

"A program of government-guaranteed loans is one possibility considered in the study," he said. "Another which is considered in some detail in the study would provide for a federal bank for rural electric systems, patterned somewhat on the farm credit program."

The association board of directors, Anderson recalled, last summer recommended that the present REA 2 per cent interest program be kept unchanged for those systems needing it. He said the study supports the contention that most rural electric systems could not pay a higher interest rate at this time.

Whatever legislative approach is adopted, Anderson urged that it be done at the next session of the current Congress, in January.

He did not curse the earth, but the people in it--
Earth is as fair as it always has been.

Quicker Tornado Forecasts Possible

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The new computer system in use at the Kansas City Weather Bureau will give forecasters quicker information on potential tornado weather, a study group was told Wednesday.

Lawrence Hughes of Kansas City, said the bureau is expanding its computer operations in November and December, partly to increase use for the river forecast center.

"Thirty minutes can be critical in tornado forecasting," Hughes told the American Meteorological Society's symposium on severe local storms and cloud physics.

He said it takes up to an hour to get the forecast processed to the broadcast stations and over the air to the public.

Hughes also delivered a report on twister frequency in the "tornado alley" of Oklahoma. The report was prepared by Norman E. Prosser, of the Kansas City bureau.

Statistics indicate a lull period during mid-day, preceded and followed by peaks of tornado occurrence. Prosser attempted to find out if this pattern moves into Kansas and Nebraska with seasonal changes of the jet stream to the north. But he concluded that the pattern seems to diminish, with tornadoes distributed more evenly through the season in the states farther north.

Harry Geuse, a consulting meteorologist from Santa Rosa, Calif., said tornadoes are likely to occur six or seven days after the birth of the so-called "A" type weather pattern in the Pacific northwest.

"If, on the first day, one can identify the weather type, this should be of great service to the forecasters so they can be on the alert," Geise said.

Hughes said development of tornadoes out of such weather patterns is not a coincidence, but that Geise's system is too simple. Such a broad, indefinite warning could actually cause a disservice to the public since tornadoes occur in only a few small areas, he said.

"You certainly couldn't ask the public to stay in a basement for several days," Hughes said. "Details are what we need."

Napoleon Role Dismal

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Eagle in a Cage," NBC's 90-minute dramatic program Wednesday night, was one of those fictionalized biographical essays of which the "Hall of Fame" series has made something of a specialty.

This one focused on Napoleon Bonaparte's dismal six years of final exile on St. Helena, lonesome, ailing, recalling past glories and surrounded by a few bickering, jealous men who hoped to ride his coattails back to power.

As usual, the program was beautifully produced and rich in handsome, authentic detail. Unfortunately, Trevor Howard's Napoleon never came alive. He was neither a human — a fallen monarch pathetically beating against the invisible bars of the island prison — nor the larger-than-life force that had made him a general at 24 and an emperor at 35.

Napoleon was 46 when he reached the end at St. Helena, but Howard played him as a much older man. Worse, he portrayed him as a posturing, pompous megalomaniac given to outbursts of arrogance followed by moments when he seemed either childlike or senile.

A strange little inconclusive threat ran through the vignettes — the mutual affection, which was perhaps a little more, between the deposed emperor and a 15-year-old English girl on the island. The girl Betsy, played by young Pamela Franklin, called him "Bony," confided to him her girlish dreams and set him to mourning his lost youth and bygone power.

The cast, obviously, had an acting field day. Howard stomped about broodingly, one hand tucked in his vest and delivered resoundingly such lines as "He who has only seen an eagle in a cage has never seen an eagle" and "History is a lie agreed upon."

James Daly, another fine actor, had a dandy time clanking about in the uniform of a British naval officer of the period and speaking in a rich Irish brogue.

The original script by Millard Lampell was another of those worthy, well - intentioned efforts, loaded with quality. It makes a viewer feel almost guilty when he yearns for some more substance and a nicely paced plot to go along with it.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

The total enrollment of resident students at the end of the first month of school was 3,852 or 96 more than that at the end of the first month of school last year. We also have 105 high school students, coming from neighboring schools, who are enrolled in the Tech-Trade program. In addition, about 500 adults are enrolled in some type of education or training sponsored by the schools. Most of these are in vocational classes. Somewhat over 200 of these adults are in full time classes, that is classes meeting six to eight hours a day and in training for some occupation with the expectation of getting employment when their course is completed.

Classes for day school students begin at 7:30 a.m. and there is a continuous succession, day school and adult evening classes, lasting until 10:30 p.m.

School will be dismissed at 2:20 p.m. November 3rd in order that all faculty members may attend the annual meeting of the Missouri State Teachers Association in St. Louis on November 4th and 5th.

The program of this professional meeting consists of general sessions featuring nationally known educators, business and professional leaders and departmental sessions in which teachers in the various subject matter fields and grade level areas meet to consider matters dealing with their particular specialty. There are also exhibits of instructional materials and equipment for observations and study by the teachers who attend.

This annual meeting is held in St. Louis and Kansas City on alternate years. The Sikeston schools are dismissed only when it meets in St. Louis.

Bob Miller, Director of Elementary Education for the schools, is Area Chairman for the Observance of United Nations Day and with the assistance of other faculty members he is preparing materials and an appropriate observance of an educational nature for this occasion which is on October 24.

We thoroughly concur with those who selected our fellow faculty member, Margaret Cain, for recognition at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet and we congratulate her and the other women selected to be honored for the contributions which they have made to this community. Those of us who work with Margaret Cain, are fully aware of the devotion to children which is evidenced by her long hours of work and keen interest in their welfare. We are proud to have the opportunity to be associated with her.

It is becoming apparent that those who get employment in these days of technology and automation must have a reasonably high degree of knowledge and skill. We are trying to provide in this school system, as nearly as we can, an opportunity for every person to fully develop his or her abilities. Those who desire to go to college and who have the ability to do so can enroll in classes that will adequately prepare them for entrance into any college in the nation. Those who wish to learn a saleable skill or trade can do so in our vocational education program. However, this alone is not enough. If all today's teen-agers are to get jobs when they finish college or their trade-technical training, the U. S. economy must expand at a faster rate than it is now doing. We must create 1.5 million jobs a year to keep pace with the potential demand for jobs. Currently only 1.2 million jobs are being created.

Even though there are not enough jobs to go around at this rate this emphasizes even more the necessity for good education and good job training. The competition for the job is going to be keener and those best fitted will be the ones who get them. The disadvantaged, the undertrained and the ignorant will be at the bottom of the heap.

More and more the Federal government is participating in the financial support of education. Money is available to improve certain programs. We think it is extremely important that all those who have the say-so as to how this money is to be spent do not use it just simply to perpetuate old practices in teaching or to do more of the same things we are doing. It should be used to develop innovations, new ideas, better ways of teaching in order to prepare the coming generations for new responsibilities and the different tasks and jobs that are going to face them tomorrow.

The planning of this will take courage on the part of school boards, administrators and teachers and understanding on the part of the public whom they serve. But it must be done if we are to use this money wisely and effectively for real improvement in education.

Hearnes Praises Abilities of Blend

JEFFERSON CITY AP – Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, in a speech to the Missouri Federation of the Blind, said Sunday:

"You are teaching us that blindness is not helplessness and you are tearing dow the false image that people lack ability because they are blind."

He said blind Missourians "who completed their rehabilitation under the state program last year, had a total annual income of over $263,000."

The governor pointed out that he receintly signed a bill increasing blind pensions $5 a month to $80 and hiking the amount a blind person may earn and remain eligible for state aid.

Now! New Chevelle SUPER SPORT 396

New Chevelle SS 396 Sport Coupe—
with clean-sculpted all-new Body by Fisher.

by Chevrolet

Two new Super Sport beauties for '66—
a hardtop and convertible—propelled by nothing less than the new Turbo-Jet 396 V8.

This remarkably efficient power plant, with aircraft-type valves, deep-breathing ports and other design advances, develops 325 hp in the standard version. And you're welcome to order more—in a 360-hp version—if you're so inclined.

Both Chevelle SS 396 models ride on a special chassis—with flat-cornering suspension and large-size (7.75x14) red stripe tires. A fully synchronized 3-speed transmission with floor-mounted stick shift is standard. Or you can order a 4-speed or Powerglide—also Strato-bucket front seats, center console and full SS instrumentation.

Impressive credentials, sure. But to really appreciate what Chevrolet's performance specialists have come up with here you've got to get into one of these Chevelle Super Sports and see for yourself.

And the place to do that, naturally—or to see and drive any of the ten other new Chevelles for '66—is your Chevrolet dealer's. He's a great believer in letting the customers handle the merchandise.

Personal Income Surges Upward

WASHINGTON AP --Personal income surged upward by $13.3 billion in September an annual rate of $545.3 billion with increased Social Security benefits and higher military pay-accounting for most of the increase.

The Commerce Department said today that if these two special factors are excluded, personal income would show a rise of $1.7 billion to an annual rate of $533.7 billion. This lower figure would be about the same as the increase in the two previous months.

The annual rate of personal income has moved upward by about $2.5 billion a month since September 1964.

The lump-sum payment of a rise in Social Security payments, representing retroactive payments back to Jan. 1, caused an unusually large jump in personal income because of the way income is computed.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't people keep their mouths shut when they don't know what they are talking about? My niece was married last year. Lorraine had a beautiful white wedding. If ever a girl deserved to wear white she did. Lorraine had such a saintly quality about her that if anyone said "hell" in her presence they felt ashamed.

Lorraine became pregnant on her honeymoon. The baby was born three days short of nine months. The tongues wagged all over town and everyone was busy counting. The word got around that the baby was "a little early." One woman who didn't realize I was sitting behind her at a ladies aid meeting whispered to the person next to her, "Lorraine of ALL people. It just goes to show you can never tell about anybody."

Will you please explain to these ignorant busybodies that a baby can be born any time in the ninth month? Thank you. -- MAD AUNT

Dear Aunt: Of course, babies can be born anytime in the ninth month, but busybodies don't want an explanation. They'd rather talk. Now is a good time to remember that the Lord gave us two ears so all the rubbish we hear can go in one and out the other.

Dear Ann Landers: I am bookkeeper and cashier in an office which employes 20 people. I am responsible for the petty cash.

Usually there's about $35 in the petty cash drawer. In the last six months every time I've checked the drawer it has been short. Certain people have fallen into the habit of borrowing anywhere from 25 cents to $5. The borrowers used to put in I. O. U. slips, but they don't bother anymore.

Every week I have to go around and ask who is in hock to the drawer. At the moment there's an $11 shortage which I can't account for.

Two people are on vacation and one is out sick.

If you have a solution I'd like to hear it. -- J.

Dear J.: A petty cash drawer, into which anyone may dip when he has the shorts, is an engraved invitation to steal.

Such a set-up is a poor one for both the employes and the company. Call in all "loans" and announce that in the future only one person will have access to the drawer -- YOU. Then keep the cash locked up and relax.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl and my parents won't let me grow up. THEIR parents let them grow up. Why won't they do as much for me?

I am now a freshman in high school. My mother has arranged with my dad to leave the car in the morning and drive to work with a neighbor so SHE can chauffeur me to and from school. Ann, I don't want to be chauffeured to and from school. It's only 10 minutes by bus and on a nice day I can walk. But no, she insists it is her duty.

I have begged for an alarm clock of my own for two years but my mother says "No. I will get you up." She picks out the clothes she wants me to wear every day. If I select my own she is hurt.

Can you get to the nitty gritty of this and give me some help? I am -- LIKE SUFFOCATING

Dear Like: Your signature is an apt one. The word suffocating is a synonym for being smothered -- and you are. Your mother is not giving you room to breathe and grow.

A 15-year-old girl should be allowed to get to school and back on her own. She should be permitted to select her own clothes. And finally, she should be able to get out of bed in the morning without help.

If you think it will do some good, show this column to your mother. If you DON'T think it will help, show it to her anyway. You may be agreeably surprised.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Holy Orders. A minister in the Australian bush country took exception to the contention that bullocks cannot be driven successfully without blasphemy. Challenged to prove his point, the preacher climbed into the driver's seat, cracked his whip, and in roaring tones addressed the animals: "You rapturous archangels! You sublimated cherublim! You sanctified innocents! Get ye up and hence!"

Once Ritzy Newport Now Tourist Spot

EDITOR'S NOTE — The queen of resorts, playground of the Social Register, the seaside community where a summer cottage means a 50-room mansion and a household brass cleaner cleans only brass-this has been Newport. But what's happened to the Vanderbilts and Astors and who are these jazz folk? The following tells what has happened to Newport. ——

The stable where 30 horses slept under linen sheets is dismantled and The Breakers, 70-room Vanderbilt mansion, is on display for $1.75 a head.

These are signposts of a decaying chapter in American life, the requiem of magnificent midnight balls where 1,000 dancers waltzed on the lawns and jeweled ladies swept down red-carpeted staircases into the arms of noblemen, millionaires and kings.

This was the glittering age of elegance, the 90-foot yachts with Persian rugs, the afternoon carriage rides down Bellevue Avenue past great stone "cottages," the awesome summer palaces of the barons of industry and finance.

This was a $200,000 dinner party, 50 servants a household, the building of an $11-million cottage called Marble House and 200 Italian workmen imported for the job.

This was before taxes.

Efforts still are being made to cling to the old way of life, to opulence and elegance and to the gilded age of grandeur.

Merrell Kerby Saunders rides in a white Rolls-Royce, a television antenna swinging on top. He has residences in New York, Newport and an estate with two dozen bathrooms in Mendham, N.J. His ancestors founded Saunderstown, R.I.

"Quick, Collins," says Saunders to his chauffeur, "to the Reading Room." Saunders leans back into the leather seat, adjusts a blue silk tie and explains:

"The Reading Room, you know, is the oldest men's club in America. I wouldn't think of not going by for half an hour before dinner. Everyone does."

The Reading Room is a modest clapboard building built in 1854 and boasts some of the oldest flush toilets in the United States. Saunders says "It's the image that counts here."

The grande dame of Newport is Mrs. Louis Brugiere, a petite 90-ish widow, the former Mrs. James Laurens Van Allen. Her mansion, Wakehurst, is a duplicate of an English castle and is run with 20 servants as it was in the 1890s.

Mrs. Brugiere is known as the most "Proper" member of society.

Guests are not admitted to dinner, be it for two or 90, unless men wear black tie and women long evening gowns. A hand-written menu, in French, is at every place setting.

In her household, a brass cleaner is said to clean only brass.

This season's last lavish affair was a debutante ball put on by New Yorkers. A candlelight dinner and dance was held at The Elms, summer home of Philadelphia coal magnate Edwin Berwind, now owned by the Newport Preservation Society.

Two hundred, mostly out-of-towners, drank champagne on the terrace, strolled through sunken gardens, and danced into the morning. Enough Newporters appeared to lend an air of authenticity. Most left before the dance was over.

It's a losing battle, however.

Like a fickle woman, Newport is half-stately, half-bawdy. There are narrow, winding streets cluttered with 18th century gambrel roofed homes—streets once rustling with Colonial skirts, now shambles.

There are loud bars where teen-agers gather to drink and twist. And half a mile away, there are carefully manicured gardens and two matrons having tea.

The annual jazz festival, started in 1954, has brought pleas, protests and howls of anger ever since from summer residents. In 1960, beer-happy jazz - crazy teen-agers rioted and hundreds were arrested.

On summer weekends, the streets of the old town and Ocean Drive are clogged with cars of 100,000 tourists. Camera enthusiasts scramble over the rocky seaside angling for good shots of the big homes. Scavengers seek out deserted mansions.

More people are coming. The Jamestown to Newport ferry, a landmark since Colonial days, will be replaced in the next five years with a bridge, enabling motorists to swing through Newport without waiting an hour to cross Narragansett Bay.

A government urban renewal project is on tap for the old waterfront.

The Newport Preservation Society is taking over old mansions, opening them to public view and using the money to pour back into preservation.

A private group called Operation Clapboard is promoting private investment in 200-year-old clapboard houses, a renovation it hopes can transform lower Newport in a quaint residential neighborbood.

Rome And The American Labor Union

By Rev. John E. Coogan, S.J.

QUESTION: It is of interest to all of us, I am sure, to hear what so notable a body of the hierarchy -- with the approval of Rome -- thinks of secular unionism. Will you give us the gist of their opinion?

Here is a verbatim statement of the core material referring to secular unionism: "The mass of the workers receive their education almost insensibly from the association to which they belong. The spirit, the vigour which pervades the organized unit proceeds from the mind and the heart of the leaders. That vigour reaches afterwards all the members and conveys to them a particular concept of social life and professional relations. Hence the association is formative. It will be such in a Christian way, if it expressly adheres, in its very constitutions, to the social principles of Christianity, and if the leaders who shape its action are capable, through their living faith in the authority of Christ and the Church, of submitting their consciences as leaders to those principles. Otherwise the association will lead the worker astray to materialism; it will imbue him with a false concept of life eventually made known by harsh claims, unjust methods, and the omission of the collaboration necessary to the common good." Notice, then, that the criticism of unionism other than thoroughly Christian is all-inclusive. It cannot possibly be evaded by our own secular international unions.

QUESTION: You have indicated that all the popes who wrote encyclicals on labor made it clear that secular unions are not positively approved. And you have quoted a very severe warning -- Rome-approved -- from the Quebec hierarchy regarding the harmful formative influence of any unionism other than thoroughly Christian. Could you point out the harm that our own unions have been doing?

Remember that the question at issue is not whether our unions do any good, or whether the preponderance of effect from them is helpful. The question is as to whether they produce effects that are so demoralizing that they should not be allowed to compel membership. My thesis here, remember, is that "Americans must have the right but not be compelled to join labor unions." Remember, too, that the Joint Pastoral said any union other than thoroughly Christian "will lead the worker astray to materialism; it will imbue him with a false concept of life eventually made known by harsh claims, unjust methods, and the omission of the collaboration necessary to the common good." In substantiation of that warning, our unions -- from their very nature -- have no objective moral standard. As Will Herberg, Jewish economist and friend of the unions, has frankly declared, "The lack of a labor conscience. . .is, in a sense, the basic problem of American trade unionism. . .The problem (is one) of 'double morality,' one ethic for private life and another for the organization involved."

Hair Care Now Big Industry

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Wish your husband looked less like a bald eagle and more like either of the senators Kennedy? Wish your boyfriend looked more like Tony Curtis? Wish your schoolboy son looked less like a prickly pear and more like Prince Charles?

Madam, you should consult your friendly barber — beg pardon, your friendly hair stylist.

But which ever he is these days, he can probably tell you that the ancient craft of cutting men's hair has developed into a billion-dollar annual hair care industry.

The only recession the barbers see ahead is that of hairlines on the masculine head. Industry spokesmen say they have ways of handling that and that more men than you may suspect are taking to the latter-day techniques of camouflage.

There are still more barbers than men's hair stylists in these United States — some 300,000 of the basic type and some 18,000 of the newer clique. But the latter say their number is growing fast.

And they hope that the nation's youth training programs will produce a new flock of apprentice barbers. From such will be recruited the hair stylists of tomorrow. New schools are springing up to teach latter-day barbering techniques.

Both barbers and stylists will be gathering here next week for the annual national barber show. And there'll be a lot more on display than just shears, clippers and whisk brooms. New products include hair gels, hair setting lotions, sprays and dyes — that's right, for masculine purchasers. And on display for the whiffing will be a host of bottles labeled "true masculine scents."

"The young barber of today has a chance to regain the high status of Figaro in Rossini's 'The Barber of Seville'," Hal A. Salzman says.

"Then the barber was a prime consultant on high fashion, business and wordly affairs and even practiced dentistry and minor surgery."

Salzman wears three hats. He is president of Odell, which makes tonics and other preparations for the care of hair and scalp. He is chairman of the Tonsorial Information Council. And he is chairman of the Barber Shop Promotion Committee of Beauty, and Barbers Manufacturing Association.

Getting Word to People Tornado Region Problem

RENO, Nev. AP -- Computers have been at work the past two years helping to forecast severe storms, but the problem in tornado areas is getting word to the people.

Lawrence Hughes, of the Kansas City Weather Bureau, Tuesday said lives can be saved by communication of tornado threats, knowing what action to take, and taking it.

Midwesterners were urged to develop a better defense plan against tornadoes.

Thirty-three of the 37 tornadoes which devastated the midwest last Palm Sunday were within tornado forecast areas, said Maurice E. Pautz, formerly with the Weather Bureau's severe storm forecast center in Kansas City.

But 271 persons died when the tornadoes swept Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Many residents were away from radios and did not hear the tornado forecasts. "The day of the week was against us," Hughes said.

COMPUTERIZED ROMANCE

Would you rather take your chances in romance? Meet your hero in a bowling alley or at a cocktail party or on a blind date? Or are you fed up with haphazard romance, feeling that finding a mate ought not be left to chance? If the latter, then the newest wrinkle in the scientific revolution -- computerized romance-- is for you.

For a fee ranging from $25 to $300, specialized marriage bureaus throughout the country will undertake to find you "suitable" suitors. Data about you, gathered through interviews and psychological tests, will be fed into a computer. The machine will match your personality, looks, aspirations, with 10 or 15 persons of the opposite sex who've been looking for someone just like you.

But are these pairings successful? According to the founder of one company which introduces between 1,500 and 2,000 persons a month, he knows of only 10 divorces among the more than 10,000 marriages arranged by their computers over the past seven years!

SECURITY A POWERFUL MAGNET

Because of the "security oral contraception provides" it is the family planning method selected most enthusiastically by people round the world. This is the view expressed by British physician J. Stallworthy in a recent issue of the British Medical Journal. He points out that when the Maternal and Child Health Association of Taiwan recently inserted a small newspaper ad about oral contraceptives, the response was so enthusiastic that the supply could not meet the demand. In less than a month, 555 patients had registered for "the pill." He concludes with the observation that this method gives "virtually 100 percent security when properly used."

METABOLIC DISORDER AFFECTS BODY AND MIND

Can eating too many carbohydrate-rich foods or drinking to many drinks containing caffeine cause psychiatric, physical and neurologic breakdown in some people? Yes, says Cincinnati physician Harry M. Salzer, after studying 300 patients over a 10-year period.

Dr. Salzer says that high intake of either carbohydrates or caffeine, or both, can cause a drop in blood sugar level, a condition known as relative hypoglycemia. The condition causes such psychiatric symptoms as depression, insomia, anxiety, phobias. Physical and neurologic complaints such as exhaustion, heavy sweating, rapid heartbeat, headache, dizziness and tremors are also quite commonly associated with the fall in blood sugar level.

Half of the 185 women and 115 men studied by the doctor had symptoms of over five years' duration, he reports, and some had been treated with sedatives, tranquilizers, even showing improvement.

When such patients were placed on a high-protein, low-carbohydrate, caffeine - free diet, strictly observed, the symptoms disappeared rapidly. Relapses occurred, however, when patients discontinued the diet.

Dr. Salzer reports that about 85 percent of the 300 patients either recovered or were greatly improved. The doctor observes: "It is my belief that the condition of relative hypoglycemia is one of the most common causes of neuropsychiatric illness."

Liz Looks Blowzy In Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I have just returned from a visit behind the concrete curtain that surrounds "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

The set is utterly closed, you know. Those are the orders. But who's afraid of J.L. Warner? I applied for a visa to observe conditions behind the frontier of Stage 8.

"You can visit the stage but not the set," I was instructed. This meant I could inspect the dressing room area and perhaps converse with occupants. Any approach to the field of shooting was verboten.

With those instructions in mind, I was escorted to the stage. It seemed much like any other movie set, complete with crib - like dressing rooms, make-up tables and the like. At the other end of the stage was The Set, which was not to be described. So forget that I mentioned it looked like any other middle - class, college - town house.

Nothing was happening. Mike Nichols, the brilliant stage director whose first film is, "Virginia Woolf," was seated in his dressing room-office. The movie was going smoothly, he reported, and the studio bosses seemed pleased with the results.

"That's what counts," I said.

"No, it isn't," he corrected. "What counts is that I am pleased."

He seemed to be. So did George Segal, the new young star ("Ship of Fools," "King Rat") who plays the biologist who calls on the embattled college professor and his barracuda of a wife.

It was difficult to assess the feelings of Sandy Dennis, the Broadway star ("Any Wednesday") who enacts Segal's young wife. She emerged sleepily from her dressing room after a nap, uttered a few sentences, then vanished.

Still no action. The company seemed to be waiting for something. In time the famous pair arrived: Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Their on-screen appearance is another matter of security. I feel it my duty to report that Miss Taylor, who is required to portray a harridan a decade older than her own 33 years, looks properly blowzy for the role, if not top-heavy. Burton as her long-suffering mate appeared somewhat seedy, with the suggestion of a paunch.

The Burtons, Nichols, Dennis and Segal were summoned to the set, and I remained behind at Checkpoint Charlie, 30 feet away from the action. There I met the producer and writer, Ernest Lehman. The film is going swimmingly, he assured, and will finish on or about Dec. 1. It started July 26. End of report.

Recalls Captain Enemy Executed

AP Special Reportn

EDITOR'S NOTE — Humbert R. Versace of Baltimore, Md., was a soldier who dreamed of being a Maryknoll missionary. He was captured by the Viet Cong, held captive almost two years, and then executed. This recollection of Capt. Versace was written by Horst Faas, the Pulitzer Prize-winning AP photographer, for the Ledger-Star of Norfolk, Va., where Versace once lived.

By HORST FAAS
Associated Press Photographer

When I met Capt. Humbert R. Versace for the first time, in 1963, it was in a hot, sticky room in the small U.S. compound in Camau, where a handful of American advisers spent their night, surrounded by barbed wire and protected by a few Vietnamese militiamen.

I had come back late in the evening from a military operation with Vietnamese troops and Versace was my host. My uniform was muddy and wet.

Versace had given me some of his dry underwear.

Water from a monsoon downpour was dripping down the walls and Versace and I tried to beat off the swarms of mosquitos.

Versace had lived like this for more than a year.

He appeared to me to be like some of the missionaries I had met in the Congo. A family photo and an assortment of books were on a table, all wrapped in plastic to keep them from falling apart in the dripping wet humidity. I noticed the Bible, Mao Tse-tung's writings in pocket-book form, and a Vietnamese eidition of Giap's "People's War," the classic on guerrilla warfare.

Versace was looking just like many of the young American captains and lieutenants in that year of 1963 who tried with all courage and sincerity to do the best in their jobs as "advisers."

Like all of them, he had this fresh, youthful, open approach and optimism. But Versace seemed more sincere, more of a thinker than a soldier. I do not remember him joking or laughing during the many hours of talk we had this night in October 1963.

Versace had served for a year as intelligence officer for the Military Advisory and Assistance Group in Camau Province. He came from a language school. After a year, the Vietnamese paid him the compliment of not only speaking to him in Vietnamese, but in the southern dialect.

Camau Peninsula, and especially the area where Versace worked, the Xuyen Province, was then and still is one of the worst Viet Cong areas in Viet Nam. In this province, the American soldier was definitely not welcome. Vietnamese soldiers were reluctant to take Americans along because they knew the presence of an American made them, too, a more desirable target for the Viet Cong.

Viet Cong brutality and terror were at their worst here against the few people who still supported the Saigon government.

Versace had seen horrors every day during his year of duty. But he did not seem to have any hate against the merciless enemy. He explained to me that our secret weapon should be to understand the Viet Cong, to try to find out his motives and learn his way of thinking —to explain our ideas to him so that he could understand us in his language and in the twisted terms of his indoctrinated mind.

He said he did his best to teach his Vietnamese friends to kill and stay alive. But he thought that his mission as an adviser was also to understand both friend and foe.

Versace seemed convinced that the majority of the Viet Cong followers were misled by false ideals. His great idea was to make the Vietnamese aware that Americans in Viet Nam were not there to kill off half of the South Vietnamese people because they erroneously followed ideals that were misinterpreted by the Communists.

He wanted Americans to be examples of a soldier-missionary who brings an end finally to the seemingly endless killing with the power of a new ideal.

He did not believe in carrying a weapon on operations except for a hidden pistol. He wanted to show the oppressed people in Camau that he came to them with the Vietnamese troops to tell them about the better life he offered.

Vietnamese soldiers looked at him in surprise and military men working with him did not approve.

Two days later, we flew to a Special Forces outpost, a heavily fortified camp along a canal - triangular with bunkers and barbed wire. There were 400 rough- tough Vietnamese militiamen and 12 American Special Forces men.

Versace went there to talk to prisoners. One of the prisoners was hanged on a tree near the camp as an example to the Viet Cong and hostile people living opposite the camp and along the canal.

I went to this post of Thanh Phy to accompany a patrol. The patrol went out in the morning. Versace went with the first-the lead company. Some three kilometers from the camp, the patrol was ambushed.

The formation, moving along a slippery canal bank, overgrown with jungle, broke up. Some 50 soldiers died, about 100 were wounded or missing. Three Americans, including Versace, were missing. One Vietnamese went back and said that he saw Versace wounded and bloodied in the head, but firing. He said the Viet Cong jumped on him and took him away.

The next day the Viet Cong spread rumors about the presence of their prisoners. Government troops heard reports that Versace and the others were seen to the North, and then to the South, of the ambush site. The Viet Cong deliberately confused our rescue mission.

For two days, some 40 helicopters and a battalion of troops checked out the reports. They took casualties. Reports about the American prisoners were more and more confusing.

On Oct. 31, the rescue operation was suddenly terminated. The troops were called back. The coup d'etat against the Diem government had begun. Diem was overthrown and killed Nov. 1, 1963. The troops never tried a rescue again.

There were frequent reports about Versace all around the delta. He was seen led through villages with a rope around his neck, on exhibition for the villagers.

He was seen on his knees, forced to speak slogans.

One report I saw said that he was in tears when a Vietnamese woman gave him a piece of chicken.

Versace must have lived through hell, because he lived two years in an area bombed daily by American planes as a free bombing zone.

A few weeks ago, Vietnamese officers told me they had learned that he lived in a cage in the swampy U Minh headquarters of delta units of the Viet Cong.

Then the paper Nhan Dan, in Hanoi, North Viet Nam, reported that he had been put to death.

Although it's nice to own a car
All shiny, white, and new;
I'd be content with just a star
To hitch my wagon to.

Earthquake Shakes 8 Midwest States

Hearnes' Proposal Outlined

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House Reapportionment Committee heard testimony in favor of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' plan for redistricting the house Wednesday but took no action.

The man who introduced the proposed constitutional amendment, Rep. M. E. Charlie Bauer, D-Jackson County, said he didn't know whether the federal court would wait much longer before taking its own action under the one man-one vote decision.

The governor's proposal would set up a bipartisan commission he would name from panels submitted by the two party committees -- the same plan used recently in redistricting the state Senate.

But House leaders have balked. They say the House should have a hand in naming any commission to re-align House Districts. The house tried last spring to do the job but the voters rejected that effort in the special Aug. 17 election.

Gene Walsh, the governor's legal aide, told the committee Wednesday that time is short, "so the plan adopted by the legislature should be the one most calculated to be accepted by the people."

The committee will consider 11 other reapportionment proposals next week.

Four Win Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden AP -- The 1965 Nobel Prize for physics was awarded today to two Americans and a Japanese, and the prize for chemistry went to another American.

The Royal Swedish Academy of Science announced that the physics award was given jointly to Julian Schwinger of Harvard, Richard Feynman of the California Institute of Technology, and Sin-Itiro Tomonago of Japan. The three will share equally in the $55,000 prize money.

It announced the chemistry prize of 282,000 kroner (about $55,000) went to Prof. Robert Burns Woodward, also of Harvard University at Cambridge, Mass., a pioneer in synthesis of chlorophyll.

The citation for the three physics winners said the award was for "their fundamental work in quantum electrodynamics, with deep-ploughing consequences for the physics of elementary particles."

East Prairie Man Killed In Headon Crash

Noble Higgins, 62, East Prairie, was killed in a two-car collision Wednesday morning on route T, four miles east of LaForge.

He was driving a 1954 Ford, and attempted to make a left turn, when his car was struck headon by a 1957 Ford, driven by James Robinson, 22, Lilbourn, the state patrol reported.

Robinson received a head and leg injury and was treated by a New Madrid physician. Six passengers in his car were injured and were taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital:

James People, 20, Howardville, head injury; Buford Johnson, 16, Howardville, broken arm; Wilbur Ash, 18, Howardville, head injury; David Ash, 16, Howardville, arm and leg injury; James Young, 25, Howardville, head injury and broken leg; and Henrietta Franklin, 18, Howardville, head and leg injury.

Higgins was born Jan. 6, 1903, in Kentucky.

He married Addie Lynch Aug. 16, 1926, who survives.

He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Hunt of Paducah, Ky.; one half-sister, Lillian DePriest of Memphis; five brothers, Gaylor Higgins of Cora, Ark., O. W. Higgins and N. H. Higgins, both of Calbert City, Ky., Adrian Higgins of Prairie Homes and Lawson Higgins of East Prairie.

He had farmed for 18 years.

On Interstate 55 in Scott City, a 1964 Ford, driven by Thomas Burke, 45, Vanduser, was struck in the rear by a 1965 Pontiac, driven by Michael Dillingham, 22, on furlough from the Navy and visiting in Poplar Bluff. There was construction work on one of the ramps. As Burke slowed down for the flagman, Dillingham failed to do so, and struck the Ford. No one was injured.

A 1956 Buick, driven by Elva Miller, 18, Holcomb, was involved in a single car crash today at 1 a.m., one mile south of Holcomb on a dirt road. A passenger, Eddie McGee, 17, Holcomb, received internal injuries and was taken to a Kennett hospital. The driver received cuts on her face. She was taken to the same hospital.

Johnson Gets Green Light

WASHINGTON AP -- President Johnson got a "full green light" from his doctors today and made definite plans to leave the hospital where he underwent gall bladder and kidney stone surgery 13 days ago.

Dragon Put On Tax Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators tried to light a fire under reluctant Klan Dragon James Robert Jones today by producing some of the records he had refused to turn over —income tax returns.

Jones, the North Carolina dragon, remained reluctant to talk and kept silent under sharp questioning about whether he had been reimbursed by the United Klans of America for deductions he had claimed—such as the cost of robes.

In declining to answer questions, he cited constitutional protections against self- incrimination.

Jones declined to say whether he had any full-time employment since 1960.

The line of questioning added emphasis to a broad hint dropped Wednesday that Klan leaders may yet find the Internal Revenue Service a greater threat to them than the civil rights movement.

Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., of the House Committee on Un - American Activities, suggested that after Jones had declined to talk about his bank account or the sale of satin robes at $15 each or even to give his birthplace.

Charged In Robbery

Chief of police Arthur Bruce said this morning that Eddie Nicholson signed a written statement admitting that he took part in the robbery Saturday night when $14.65 was taken from W. D. Maiden and 40 cents from James Ramsom, both of Essex, on Luther Street.

Others charged with the crime are Willie Howard and Willie Green.

Four Negroes were taken to Poplar Bluff yesterday and Chief of Police Bruce said that a test indicated that two other Negroes were involved in the robbery.

Funds Out Of Rent

WASHINGTON AP -- A Senate-House conference committee agreed today to eliminate funds for the administration's controversial rent supplement program from the year's last money bill.

Revised Sugar Bill

WASHINGTON AP -- The Senate has passed a revamped sugar bill which authorizes more domestic production and sets country - by - country foreign quotas.

Approval came on a 66-16 vote Wednesday, and the measure now must go to a House-Senate conference committee.

Time To Improve Courts

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- A citizens conference on Missouri courts was told Wednesday night it is time to improve Missouri's 25-year-old nonpartain court plan.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes stressed the need to upgrade the magistrate and probate courts-the courts where most people get their impression of law and justice.

U.S. District Judge Elmo B. Hunter, former judge of the Kansas City Court of Appeals, said the emphasis must be on selection of topflight lawyers by the nominating commission. To attract them, he said, salaries and retirement pay must be increased.

Both said the people of any area ought to have the right to decide whether their courts should come under the nonpartisan system without having to ask the legislature for enabling legislation.

Hearnes said this local option approach should not be considered until the court plan is approved.

Both also recommended that mandatory retirement age should be around 72 instead of 75 as at present.

To solve the problem of disciplining and removing judges, Judge Hunter suggested the present retirement commission be given this job. That would do away with the cumbersome impeachment system, the only way a judge can be removed at present.

He also recommended that if a governor fails to appoint a judge within 60 days from the panel of three nominees submitted to him, the Supreme Court should do the appointing.

The citizens' conference, which ends Friday after a series of panel discussions, is being sponsored by the Missouri Bar, the state's four law schools and the American Judicature Society.

Cyclist Hurt In Tumble

James Green, 27, route two, suffered head injuries this morning when his westbound Honda motorcycle overturned at the intersection of Greer and Maple streets at 7:09 a.m.

He was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in a semi - coma for emergency treatment and then taken for admission to the St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau.

To Honor Kinney

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Veteran Sen. Michael Kinney, 90, who has been in the state Senate since 1913, will be honored at a testimonial dinner in Jefferson City Nov. 22.

Morissey Effort Dropped

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in an emotional speech to the Senate, asked today that Francis X. Morrissey's nomination for a judgeship be sent back to the Judiciary Committee.

The nomination then was sent back to the committee. This appeared to kill the nomination for this session of Congress but President Johnson could resubmit it at the next session in January.

Kennedy made his surprise request shortly after the controversial nomination was called up for action in the Senate.

Appearing near tears and his voice breaking at one point, Kennedy said "I am satisfied that a full and complete record, made with care and deliberation, will uphold my judgment of Morrissey to the satisfaction of any fair-minded man."

He said the outcome might hinge on the number of absentees.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, heading the opposition to Morrissey, had himself planned to propose recommittal.

Morrissey, 55, has been a Boston Municipal Court judge for the last seven years, but his nomination has come under attack on the ground he is not qualified for the federal bench.

Scottish Rite Club To Meet

The third quarterly meeting of the Delta Scottish Rite Club will be held in the Sikeston Masonic Temple Saturday at 7:30 p.m. It will be open to the public.

A film will be shown of the Semo Shrine Horse Patrol participating in the Cotton Carnival parade. Melvin Dace will narrate it.

Two Injured In Three-Vehicle Crash

A three vehicle collision on East Malone in front of Home Materials Lumber Company yesterday at 4:37 p.m. injured two women.

A 1960 Falcon, driven by Wilma April, 206 Illinois, was hit by a 1960 Thunderbird, driven by Barbara Blacker, 602 North Main, after the Blacker car had struck a 1956 GMC truck operated by Travis Long, 1585 Park, owned by John Marshall, as he waited to turn left into the lumber company lot.

The Thunderbird was headed west and the Falcon was going east.

The women were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital for cuts and bruises.

Slaying Hearing Set Wednesday

CHARLESTON -- Magistrate Judge T. J. Brown, set Wednesday at 9 a.m. for a preliminary hearing for Bill Gammons, East Prairie, charged with first degree murder in the fatal wounding of Euell C. Scott, after an argument.

Weber Gilmore, Sikeston attorney was appointed by Judge Brown to represent Gammons. Roderic Ashby is prosecuting attorney for Mississippi county.

When the judge called Gammons before the bench he asked whether he had an attorney. Gammons replied "no."

The judge then asked him if he wanted a preliminary hearing and he replied "yes."

Judge Brown commented that it was the first time he had appointed an attorney on such a charge.

Scott was wounded in the stomach with a .22 caliber pistol shot Oct. 13 in East Prairie and died Monday night in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Special to Daily Standard

WASHINGTON -- Congressman Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, was one of seven Missouri House members who voted against the Johnson administration's highway beautification bill. The measure passed the House, 245-138.

Only two of Missouri's 10 Congressman voted for the bill. One was absent and did not vote.

Congressman Jones said today that he voted against the bill not because he opposes highway beautification but because:

"It transfers too much authority from the Missouri State Highway Commission to a bureaucrat in Washington.

"It was moving too far and too fast and there was a question in 18 states, where because of constitutional limitations, they might lose several million dollars in federal funds. Missouri might lose more than $19 million.

"Many small businesses, particularly motels, restaurants, service stations and tourist attractions, removed from the main artery of traffic by relocation of interstate and primary highways, are threatened with extinction due to the fact that the traveling public may no longer be advised of their location. (by the bill's restrictions on billboard advertising).

"There was a question about the extent to which the nation should go in spending general revenue funds needed for highway construction and safety as compared with the need for beautification of highways, including 41,000 miles of interstate and more than 225,000 miles of the primary system, both on and off the rights-of-way.

Here's the way Congressman Jones described it:

"Members of Congress had been invited to attend a reception at the White House at 7:30 p.m., the night the day the bill was scheduled. This was the same day the President went to a hospital for a gall bladder operation.

"It was not until 1 p.m. that general debate on the bill began. This was to last four hours. It was the general assumption that following the general debate, the House would adjourn after 5 p.m. and consideration of the bill would be resumed the following day.

"As the House Committee of the Whole, which was in charge of the proceedings, showed no indication of recessing, word got around that it was the intention to rush final action, pass the bill with a minimum debate, and present the bill to the President and Mrs. Johnson at the reception.

"This would have meant that there would have been no opportunity to consider meritorious amendments to the bill, although in the course of the evening two rather important amendments were approved, while dozens of others were voted down. Many members were denied the opportunity to speak on the bill. Nevertheless, the debate continued for almost 12 hours. Shortly before 1 a.m., (the next morning) the House adjourned after passage of the bill."

Subsequently the bill, a major administration measure and pet legislation of Mrs. Johnson, has been passed by the Senate and signed into law by the President.

Fortune From Savings Aids Homeless Boys

LOS ANGELES AP -- Her spare time and modest savings were the assets Miss Ettie Lee used to start a $3-million fortune -- all the profits from which she spends on homeless boys.

Miss Lee, 79, a retired Los Angeles school teacher, and an aunt of Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, earned the money investing in real estate over the past 35 years. All her profits go to the Ettie Lee Homes Inc., the 14 ranches for boys she maintains. She lives on her teacher's pension.

Her explanation:

"As a teacher, I noticed quite a pattern in boys having difficulties. They were boys who didn't have a good home situation.

"This is a man's world. It takes a man to develop a boy into a man. Ninety per cent of the boys in trouble were from homes where there was no strong male figure in their lives.

"I tried to find homes for these boys, but I was unsuccessful. I made up my mind then that I'd have to be like the little red hen and do the job myself."

This meant she'd need plenty of money, and she never made more than $300 a month as a teacher. But she saved what she could.

Her first real estate deal came in 1930, when she paid $1,000 for a lot in the Wilshire district.

"I sold it two years later for $5,000," she recalls.

Then she began looking for larger investments.

"I must have bought and sold 50 apartment houses since I started operating," she said.

By 1950 -- four years after she retired from teaching — she had enough resources for her project. She says that when she dies her estate will go to continuing the projects.

Miss Lee said it cost from $40,000 to $50,000 to build each home.

Miss Lee hires Mormon couples — her own faith — to run the homes, which, however, are nondenominational. Each houses 10 to 12 boys 12 to 17 years of age.

Reinforce Garrison

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- U. S. helicopters delivered several companies of reinforcements to the besieged garrison at Plei Me today, and the Viet Cong attacks began to diminish in size and ferocity, a U. S. military spokesman reported.

The defenders of the Special Forces camp in the central highlands reported seeing at least 90 enemy bodies. Government casualties were described as light after two days of fighting.

Farther north, in Quang Tri Province, a U. S. Army officer escaped today from the Viet Cong after being held captive for several hours, the spokesman announced.

The officer, identified as Capt. Robert F. Hopper, 29, whose wife lives at Winter Haven, Fla., was the senior adviser to a South Vietnamese battalion.

Brisk Exodus From Cuba

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A 92-year-old fisherman who said he was Ernest Hemingway's inspiration for the old man in the "Old Man and the Sea" arrived in exile today as brisk refugee traffic resumed after a two-day lull.

More than 65 refugees reached the Florida Keys in seven boats during the early morning hours. At least 16 more were on the way.

Boats docked at such a rapid pace that hard-pressed Coast Guard craft couldn't locate them fast enough to escort them to port.

Anselmo Hernandez, gnarled and weather beaten with thin but sprawling grey hair, said, "I knew Hemingway for 30 years. Every time he was in Cuba he came to see me. We would have coffee together and talk.

"He said he would write a novel about me. Then he did," said Hernandez.

Hernandez came in a family group ferried to Florida by two grandsons, Rene and Rigoberto.

Newly arrived refugees reported that more than 250 small boats manned by an estimated 800 persons were ..ing in Camarioca harbo.. bring out Cubans seeking exile in the United States.

Comet Heads Into Oblivion

HONOLULU AP -- Blazing Ikeya-Seki, first comet in 83 years bright enough to be seen in daylight, whipped around the sun today and headed back into oblivion.

Astronomers here and on the American mainland watched the celestial spectacle across 93 million miles of space. Its 80,000-mile-diameter head was followed by a streaming 20-million-mile tail.

But its brilliance was mostly overpowered by the sun, which it approached to within 300,000 to 800,000 miles. Not one observer aboard a National Aeronautics and Space Administration jet plane saw the comet.

He called it "extremely bright -- 1,000 times brighter than the planet Venus."

Demonstrations against the United States involvement in the war in Viet Nam have been denounced by people in responsible positions from President Lyndon B. Johnson, members of Congress on down.

The American people should support this position without reservation.

Treason should not be permitted to put its roots down into fertile soil in this country.

If protest marches, sit-ins and other forms of demonstrations are permitted to grow and spread in the United States, this country is headed for the chaos and lack of rule that characterized France in the days before Charles de Gaulle grabbed the reins and gave that nation a stable form of government.

The way to nip the Communist supported disorders is to deal firmly on an individual basis with any violations of law. Congress is proceeding properly in refusing to enact a whole new bunch of laws to deal with the situation. Present laws are adequate.

Draft authorities report that their work has not been hampered and that the morale of youth with whom they deal is good. Our troops in Viet Nam are distinguishing themselves with valor and only share the nation's disgust at the demonstrations.

But recent history of the United States has been to encourage them.

The President is personally responsible for much of it. He has promised rewards for civil rights demonstrators and has used them to wangle laws out of Congress.

Votes have been involved in the civil rights demonstrations. Apparently Johnson has concluded that there are no ballot box benefits to be gained from encouraging protests against his Viet Nam war policy.

It is interesting to note that leaders involved in both types of demonstrations have no respect for laws which they cannot accept in good conscience.

Individual conscience suddenly has become a guide for conduct on which rests law and order.

This is a system that will never work. It will produce only chaos. It will destroy our civilization.

This must be a nation ruled by law and not by men and especially by men who answer only to the dictates of their own conscience.

Few, if any, persons approve of all laws but all must obey them.

Progress will not be made by marching in the streets, by seizing property or in preventing the flow of traffic as a means of protesting any injustice, imagined or real.

It's opening was marred by civil rights demonstrators, who threatened to lie down in the street, stopping Fair traffic. This cut attendance. Vandals took over in the final day and caused heavy damage.

The Fair has helped exploit the unsavory reputation of the nation's largest city for violence and disorder.

In between the opening and ending of the exposition neither attendance nor interest lived up to expectations.

A two-year attendance of 70 million was predicted. It fell short of 52 million.

There were some benefits. Many of those who attended liked the fair. So did American industry.

For the record industrial exhibitors gained in consumer good will, the advertising of their products, their tests of marketing and manufacturing techniques and new product testing.

Against these benefits they protested privately about extremely high maintenance and security costs and with intractable fair management of the 646-acre fantasy land on Flushing Meadow.

New York is an expensive city to visit. Attending the fair was no exception. Visitors are exploited.

But the reason that the New York Fair wasn't the huge success its promoters planned was due to one basic reason -- the changing tastes of the American people. In this space age offering such a variety of entertainment--much of it costing only a trifle--people aren't as much interested in fairs as they once were. Even a fine big one, such as the just closed New York World's Fair, is no exception.

We wish that this wasn't true but that's the way it is and that's the way it is going to be.

An American Medical Association release observes that many questions remain about the effects of smoking on health. Some of the complicated problems still to be solved by scientific investigators are: How does tobacco smoke produce damage to the human body? Why do some people appear to tolerate the effects of smoking better than others? Is there a single factor involved in the tobacco smoke danger or are there several factors? The medical profession is taking an active role in attempting to answer these questions. The AMA's Education and Research Foundation alone is supporting more than 40 research projects in the United States and Europe.

GREENHOUSE

Dear Greenhouse:

Put me down as saying that Joel Chandler Harris ranks with the best Southern writers.

A contemporary of his said he was the most modest of men; ". . .as shy as any of the four-footed friends to whom he introduces to us in his stories."

Mention his name today, and many people will not recognize it. On the other hand, speak of Brer Rabbit, Brer Fox, Tar Baby and Uncle Remus, and these same people will find the names familiar ones, indeed. (A writer's brainchildren often overshadow their creator.)

At the turn of the century, there was not a more widely known or better loved man in the country than Joel Chandler Harris. As "Uncle Remus," his name was as familiar in any part of the United States as Emerson, Whittier, Longfellow or Holmes. Yet, I dare say, his most famous stories would be unsalable today; and the pen name by which he was known and loved would be frowned on by many editors and publishers.

Fortunately, the time and the man came together opportunely, and our literature is richer for it.

Joel Chandler Harris was born in Putnam County, Ga., in 1848. One need not mention that he grew up on a farm, for his stories are alive with country sights and sounds and scents.

One of his biographers said, "the remarkable fact connected with the history of Joel Chandler Harris is that there is nothing remarkable about it." He was an ordinary boy, born in ordinary times, in an ordinary state. Yet, his praise today is that he glorified the commonplace and made the ordinary resplendent.

Few details are passed along about his childhood and youth (one presumes, they were ordinary!) until he reached 12 years of age. At that time he saw and answered an advertisement in a country newspaper for a boy who wished to learn the printer's trade.

The newspaper was published by a cultured but eccentric man who boasted that his was the only newspaper in the world published on a plantation. Harris was accepted and was allowed the liberty of his employer's library, a remarkably fine collection of books. In a few years he made himself acquainted with the world's best authors.

As he learned the printer's craft, he began to slip stories under a pen name into the newspaper. From this beginning, over the years, he rose progressively in newspaper work.

While in Savannah, Harris married Miss La Rose of Canada, but soon after their marriage they moved to Atlanta to escape the scourage of yellow fever which threatened the former city.

He obtained work on the editorial staff of The Constitution where his literary career may properly be said to have begun.

His opportunity came when a colleague, who had been writing dialect articles, retired, and there was a demand for something to take their place. Harris decided to try a few dialect sketches, writing over the name of Uncle Remus, and the articles attracted immediate attention.

People found pleasure in reading his appetizing editorials on water-ground meal, pone bread, blue-stemmed collards and turnip greens. And, years later, it was with genuine regret that the newspaper reading public learned that he would retire.

But, Harris was not idle. From his pen came story after story, all bearing the unmistakable mark of genius, that other name for hard work. Not all of his stories were "dialect"; although it is on these that his fame will rest most securely.

Joel Chandler Harris wrote with sureness, authority, realism and truth. Had he done nothing more than create Uncle Remus and The Little Boy, his place in classic literature would be secure.

He died, July, 1908, but every jot and tittle of his genius still lives.

CHANGING WORLD

"Little drops of water, tiny grains of sand," we used to chant as a sprat, "Make the mighty ocean and the pleasant land." This jingle, somehow, always conjured up the vision of a bright, shiny world full of adventure and a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

That is, it did, until some kill-joy added another line to the effect that these ingredients also raise the devil with an automobile engine. So engineers had to invent filters - filters for the oil, filters for the air, filters for the gas. And today, with filters for our cigarettes, filters for the washer, dryer, vacuum cleaner, furnace, air conditioner, coffee pot, swimming pool and our modern, automatic, square-type fish-bowl, we're definitely filter-happy.

At least we're happy to have them on the family chariot after learning the latest facts-of-car-life from the article: "Engine Filers: How Important?" in the March issue of Motor Trend magazine. Things-we-didn't-know-till-now include the following revelations from the Purolator Automotive Research Bureau:

* Six quarts of oil pass through a full flow filter every 30 seconds.

* Dust, dirt and abrasives, sucked from the air and road, are stopped by the oil filter from entering the crankcase.

* Nearly a pound of sludge can be removed from the crankcase oil in 6,000 miles.

* There's always water in gasoline - from condensation in the car tank.

* Dirt gets into gasoline from filler hoses, nozzles, storage tanks, car tanks and tank caps placed on dirty fenders or bumpers.

* A car engine burns 12,500 gallons of air with one gallon of gasoline.

* A dirt-laden air filter trapped sand, carbon, silica, cement, metal in 10,000 mi.

However disillusioned we may have become in the process of growing up, we will accept the idea that the world will be brighter, the adventures more enjoyable and possibly some dollars left at the end of the journey if we change our oil filter at 4,000 miles, our gasoline filter at 6,000 miles and our air filter at 10,000.

As the poet so truly said: "Let the great world spin forever down the ringing grooves of change."

FIRST U. S. EDUCATIONAL COMPUTER CENTER OPENED

The first data processing center in the United States devoted specifically and completely to education has been opened in Sacramento, Calif.

Through this regional center, complete personnel services will be offered to 44 school districts in 16 Northern California counties. This initial Honeywell computer installation is the first of 12 such centers to operate within the state.

The computer will be used for vocational education by junior college students enrolled in a special advance computer class. They will learn programming, use of machine languages and the actual operation of the computer.

In addition to the junior college course a beginning computer class at the high school level will be run on a test basis during the coming year to determine the feasibility of expanding computer course offerings to the secondary school level.

Nearly all work handled by the regional center the first year for the districts will be for high schools, with a few elementary schools contracting for attendance accounting and test scoring. Services offered will cover more than 100,000 students.

State education officials have cited several advantages of such a program. These include: reduction of expenses by combining work of several districts; experience, develop ments, and improvements can be applied to a larger number of schools; a higher degree of staff competency, and a greater uniformity of procedures.

PRAYER FOR YOUNG HOMEMAKERS

You know, dear Lord, the road ahead for these
Young wedded ones who long to build a home,
You know their many brave economies;
The toil to be expended on the loan,
To rear their walls, to plant their fruitful trees;
The plans they make for children yet to be;
Their longing for the countless things they need,
Which now they do without from sheer necessity.

Grant them a special blessing, Lord, we pray;
Help them to face the future without doubt;
Make them to know they never can afford
To build a home whose walls will shut You out.
They are so young -- funds are so scarce; and yet
If love be theirs, and youth's clean joyous health,
Though there be hardships, may they not forget
They own the earth, and all the worthwhile wealth.

WELCOME VISITOR

What interests the readers of weekly newspapers?

The Suburban Press Foundation conducted a survey to find the answer to that question, and Editor & Publisher has printed the results. They cast a revealing light on the wants of the millions of people who live in the small towns and the countryside.

As one would expect, local news led the field in readership, with 92.9 per cent of those polled saying they always read it; 6.5 per cent saying they read it sometimes; and only 0.6 per cent confessing they never read it.

Next -- and close behind -- came editorials and local columns. A mere 0.7 per cent said they never read these.

Third in reader interest was advertising. Only 2.7 per cent said they never read it. All the rest said they always or sometimes read it.

Actually, the whole weekly paper is very thoroughly read. Even the poorest read classification -- sports news -- drew a combined "always" and "sometimes" readership of 89.1 per cent.

The weekly paper is one of the most welcome of visitors to rural homes. It stays for seven days, not just one. And the whole family has a lasting and hearty appetite for just about everything in its columns.

THE ART OF DEFAMING

"Extremist" is a popular word, but less overworked than in 1964. It continues to be an all - purpose label attached to any person or idea another wishes to defame.

Used alone, "extreme" and its derivatives are senseless for they denote a measurement, degree or relation. The purpose in using a word in this way is to blur its meaning, to blotch, daub and muddy the meaning of a statement. By improperly using words, their clarity is destroyed, making a smear of them. The purpose is to apply the smear word to a person, object or idea, to create an image that will be unattractive or offensive to others.

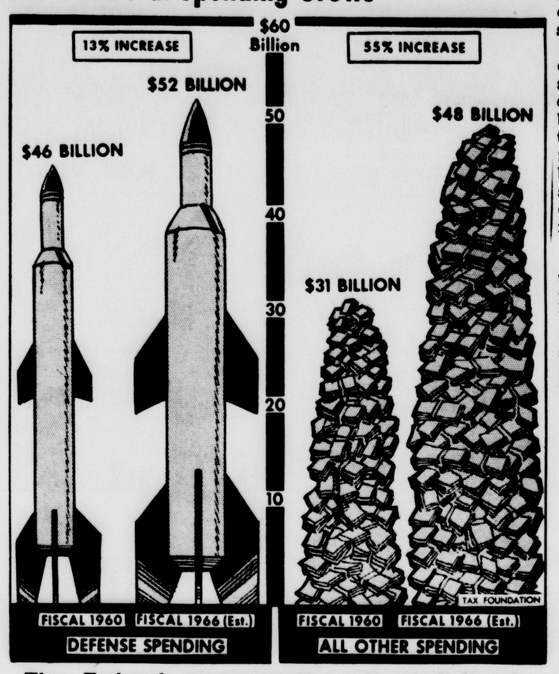

As an example, in the 1930's "Isolationism" was introduced. It was made to suggest something evil by proclaiming it the attitude of a person interested only in his own country, unconcerned with the rest of the world. It was applied as a distasteful label to what was merely patriotism and national self-interest.

"Patriotism" and its meaning were replaced by "Isolationism". A word denoting principle, honor and integrity thus became a word suggesting shame.

Later, came "McCarthyism". The word had no clear definition. It was used to suggest something terrible. Supposedly, "McCarthyism" meant unjust accusations, persecutions, character assassinations of innocent victims. Its real meaning was "Anti-Communism". The term "McCarthyism" was used to intimidate anyone exposing communist activities. Denouncing communism was, and is, termed "McCarthyism".

"Extremism" is a label applied now to a person, group or idea advocating the individual's right to use himself and his property as he chooses and the freedom of other individuals to do likewise. "Extremism" has become the distasteful word to be applied to "Capitalism". HLH.

Where Federal Spending Grows

The Federal government's estimated fiscal 1966 administrative budget calls for defense spending about 13 percent higher than in fiscal 1960 ($52 billion vs. $46 billion). All other Federal spending in the administrative budget, however, is estimated to be 55 percent greater ($48 billion vs. $31 billion).

One often opens them with trepidation, because they lead to situations one may never have faced before.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Teddy Kennedy, after an auspicious start as junior Senator from Massachusetts, has really got himself snafued over his recommendation of an old family friend, Francis X. Morrissey, to be a federal judge.

First, he got himself snafued with President Johnson, who is going to look twice at the next man Teddy recommends, to see if he's being handed another lemon.

Second, Teddy has snafued his own reputation by putting family cronies ahead of public trust, and has reminded people that he, himself, was fired from Harvard for cheating but later accomplished the miracle of being taken back into Harvard and allowed to graduate, thanks to a millionaire father, then Ambassador to Great Britain, who contributed heavily to Harvard.

This young man, despite an admirable career in the Senate hitherto, has been pushing a judgeship for a friend of his father's despite the fact that the would-be judge also took a short cut on an examination. After failing to pass the Massachusetts bar exams, Morrissey went through a Georgia diploma mill, later abolished by the State of Georgia.

EARLY BLEMISHES LEAVE SCARS

Finally, the Morrissey incident emphasizes the fact that earlier blemishes in the careers of judicial candidates usually do not make for good judges.

When Leonard Walsh of the District of Columbia was nominated for a judgeship, people were inclined to forgive some false testimony he gave just as the people of Massachusetts were inclined to forgive Teddy Kennedy's cheating at Harvard.

Walsh had got involved in a hit-and-run driving accident, in which the U. S. Court of Appeals handed down a decision seriously impugning his credibility. Wrote Chief Judge Lawrence Groner: "He (Walsh) falsely charged the act to another. This," added the judge, "was sufficient to justify the jury in rejecting the whole of his evidence."

Both the public and the Senate forgave the past. But Walsh, now elevated to the bench, has not make a good judge. He is nervous, edgy, inclined to be prejudiced. Beads of perspiration come out on his forehead when he faces difficult decisions.

Note 1 -- Sen. Bobby Kennedy, whose brother championed family friend Judge Morrissey, wrote a letter to New York Democratic leaders last Feb. 10 warning them against hanging out jobs on the basis of patronage, not merit. "Dealing out jobs like so many cards off the top of the deck is intolerable," Bobby scolded.

Note 2 -- Some of the best judges in recent years were appointed by Eisenhower solely on the basis of merit. They included Chief Justice Earl Warren, Associate Justice William Brennan, and Judges John Minor Wisdom and Elbert Tuttle of the Fifth Circuit.

UNHAPPY LBJ

President Johnson has given orders to the Justice Department to make a much more careful check on the background of judicial and legal appointees in the future. He is peeved at the Justice Department for not digging into Morrissey's past; also unhappy that Justice recommended David Bress to be U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia without informing him that Bress has been attorney for Bobby Baker's vending machine company. Justice also failed to advise the President that Bress had hankered to be a judge under Eisenhower, then turned round to try for U.S. Attorney as a Democrat.

A skillful lawyer with a likeable personality, Bress has had a diverse practice. And like most wide-ranging attorneys he has represented all sorts of clients. He was attorney for Herb Kaplioff, head of Hollywood Credit, which incurred great bitterness in the Negro community for garnisheeing a record number of Negro paychecks. Later he represented Marshall Coyne in the acrimonious divorce against Coyne's wife which upset the Jewish community.

He was leading attorney in the battle over the estate of Melvin A. Viner of the Arcade-Sunshine Laundry, and made a million-dollar settlement in favor of Viner's widow after her counsel, Bruce Sundlun, charged that Bress's law firm falsified stock certificates.

Sundlun was so indignant over the incident that he filed a complaint against Bress and Associates with the U. S. Attorney's office.

One significant phase of the affair was an affidavit from Wayne Birdsell, the court reporter, stating that the Viners tried to get him to change their sworn testimony without notifying opposing attorneys in the case.

However, after Bress was appointed U. S. Attorney, Sundlun hastily changed his tune.

"I'm a young man in this town and I have to get along," he confided. "I don't want to get mixed up in this thing. Besides, I have worked with Bress as a member of the Washington Hebrew Congregation."

So, when called before a Senate Subcommittee to testify, Sundlun's previous indigation over the falsification of the Viner stock certificates evaporated. He testified for Bress.

Explaining to a friend why he had reversed himself, Sundlun said: "When I filed that complaint against Bress, I was just out of the Justice Department and had stars in my eyes."

The whole thing has not made President Johnson happy. He wants a better check on Judicial and Justice Department appointments in the future.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Bloc Forming to Denounce U. S. Action In Viet Nam as a 'Dirty War.'

New York: -- Slowly, but with certainity, as though they had long been awaiting the strategic moment, a handful of influential labor leaders are striding out of their philosophical retreats, charging that the U. S. is fighting "a dirty war" in South Viet Nam.

Amid their vocal volleys can be heard the re-echoing of propaganda that asserts the U.S. is fighting "another white man's war against colored people."

Steadily, the outspoken leaders of scores of thousands of unionists are weaving a bloc of laborities into a skilled phalanx for an attack on AFL-CIO President George Meany and his efforts to bolster the fighting forces in Southeast Asia.

Some of the labor men actually call for cooperation or negotiations with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Some of these labor leaders, and hundreds of their followers, were in the commingled Fifth Ave. peace parade here last Saturday. There is no doubt of this.

For hours I covered every inch of the four blocks between 95th Street and 92nd Street running from Fifth Ave. to Madison Ave. Then I marched and remarched the full parade route.

On 94th Street there were contingents of the union which is organizing hospitals and drugstores -- Local 1199. It was led by a stalwart militant, Moe Foner. With him, he told me later, were 150 of his union's activists. Foner is executive secretary of the union.

Ahead of them in the parade were the District 65 marchers. Their leader, Dave Livingston, now suffering from a hip ailment, was not with them. It is he who is charging the U. S. with fighting a dirty war.

It is his dynamic union which has in it the leaders of the Peace Action Committee (PAC). District 65 is the ideological core of left-wing labor today. It is the largest section of the retail, wholesale national union whose president, Max Greenberg, has been battling District 65's anti-Viet Nam policies.

Ahead of these contingents in the peace parade -- the size of which has been padded in some reports like a Parisian dinner check -- were some strange elements. There was, for example, a Committee to Aid the National Liberation Front whose troops now are battling American soldiers.

There were very many older folk -- neatly dressed, well-disciplined, and easily formed into lines of eight -- as in the old Communist May Day Parades. There were, indeed, many of the old, orthodox Communist milieu. Amongst them were writers and editors of the old Daily Worker -- now the Worker.

There is positively no doubt they filled out the line. They helped the younger people and bolstered their enthusiasm.

It must be said that there were sincere pacifists, and young college men who shrink from the thought of war. They were well-dressed. There were no beards. There were no kooks.

But they strode behind grim hearses, a mangled American flag which had the stars removed and replaced with replicas of bombs, and hacked-up dolls simulating injured children.

There were the self-avowed revolutionists of the Progressive Labor Party and the now older revolutionists of yesteryear -- the Trotskyites. By the thousands they handed out their costly "working class" literature. But the chap who had the formula for beating the draft sold his wares for a dime.

Local 1199's Mr. Foner told me later ". . . we were not there as a union. It was all very loose; I don't know who was in front. We were marching with trade unionists. We believe in a cease fire, stop the bombing and get together and end this thing. . ."

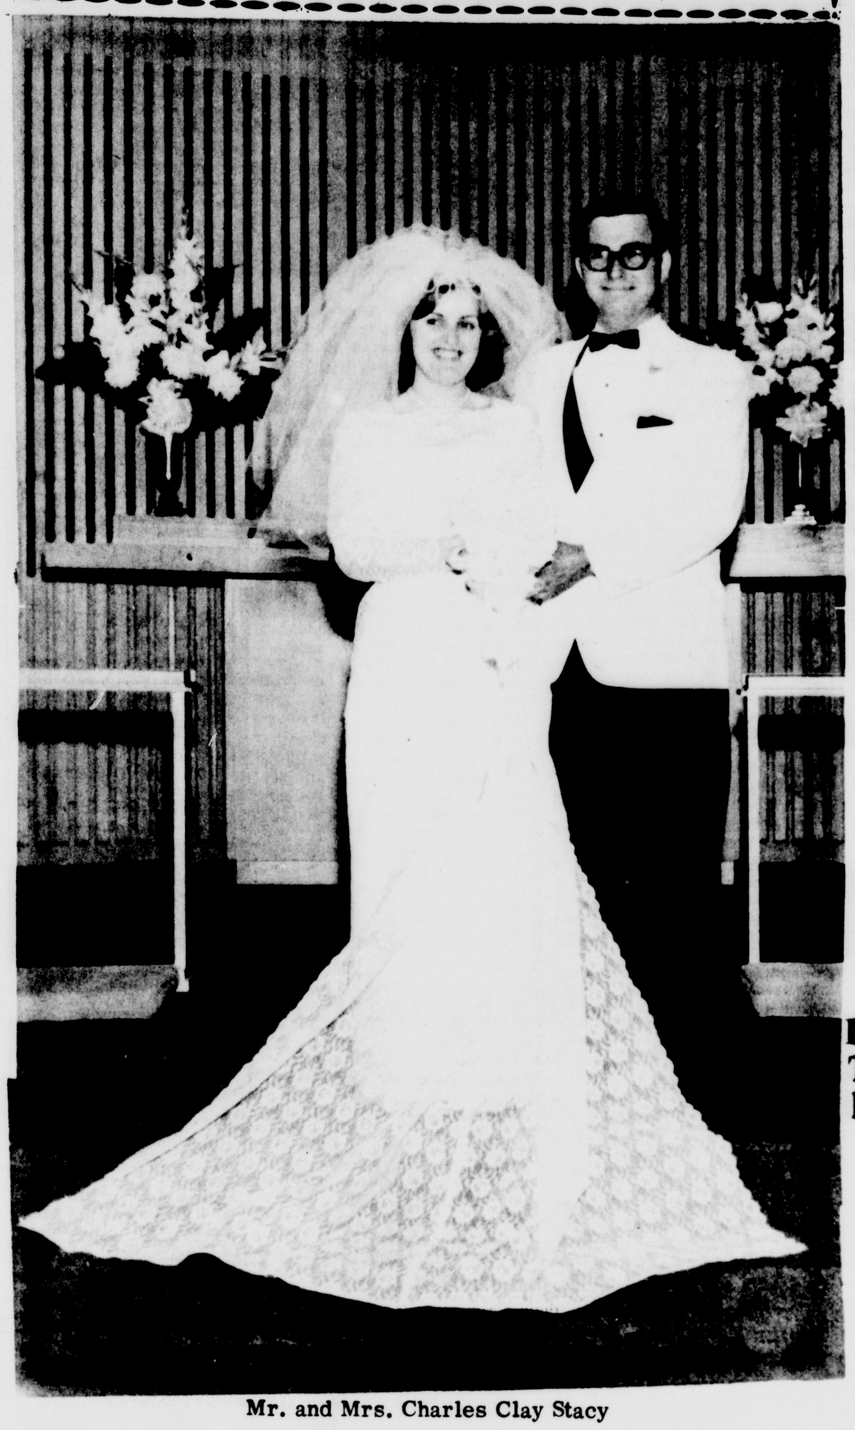

Foner's attitude is parallel to other such activists in the West Coast longshoremen's union, which goes in for passing resolutions and "peace" talks at stop work meetings; in the United Electrical Workers, in the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers -- in 22 big union blocs in all.

They look forward, most of them, to a national peace conference called by these unions to whom America's commitment in South Viet Nam is a dirty war.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clay Stacy

Miss Peggy Poppy Is Wed To Charles Stacy In California

Community Methodist Church of Pinole, Calif., was the scene Sept. 3, of the wedding of Miss Peggy Sue Poppy and Charles Clay Stacy. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Norma L. Poppy of San Pablo, Calif. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Stacy, 112 North Handy, Sikeston.

The Rev. Evald Leps read the vows at 7:30 p.m.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Cled J. Dennis, wore a slim sheath gown of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice had long pointed sleeves and a Sabrina neckline scalloped lace. A watteau detachable chapel train of the lace fell from a bow at the neckline. Her crown was a caplet of tulle and pearls centered with a single crystal. She carried a tear drop cascade of white carnations and white streamers.

Miss Patsy Poppy, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a street-length dress of coral shrimp crepe. The empire line sheath had a round neckline cut low in back with a row of self-covered buttons. Her matching headdress was a pom pom of tiny veiled flowers. She also wore a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from the groom. She carried a nosegay of white carnations with coral shrimp carnations in the center.

Richard Hutchason, the groom's cousin, was best man. Ushers were Larry Dennis, cousin of the bride, and Jerry Mitchell, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a street-length sheath dress of pastel blue crepe. The fitted bodice had short sleeves and a wide cummerbund with a self-fabric rose at the front of the dress. Her hat was a pillbox of maline tulle with sprays of tiny flowers and a cage veil. She wore matching accessories. Her jewelry was crystals.

The groom's mother chose a rose colored knit suit with black patent accessories and a black feathered hat with a jeweled veil. Both mothers had white carnation corsages with pink frosting.

Following the ceremony, a garden reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hutchason. The bride and groom were driven from the church to the reception in a 1926 Model A loaned by Miss Louise Clark. The 60 guests present were served the traditional wedding cake. Bulldogs Meet The Central Tigers Tonight

By Don Voelker
Sports Writer and Editor

The Sikeston Bulldogs are going up to Cape to see how badly they can bite the Central Tigers and of course the Tigers are growling and howling for the Bulldogs hair and they will probably get a scalp or two full. So far this year the Bulldogs have played four Northern Conference games and they have only lost one of them and it had to be their game with the Bulldogs. The Dogs have also played two other games with teams in the Southern Conference and won both of them. Sikeston has scored 89 points this football season and they have allowed 38 points to be scored against them. The Portageville Bulldogs are number 1 in total points scored for the year with 143 and Malden is second with 120 total points, with Sikeston being the second highest total scorer in the Northern Conference. They are fifth in both conferences. Poplar Bluff ranks number 1 in the Northern Conference with 92 points this year and having 14 being scored against them which is the lowest number of points being scored against a team in both North and South Conferences. Out of 16 teams, including the Cairo Pilots, Cape Central ranks 15th in total number of points scored with 7 and having 84 points scored against them.

Sikeston's Danny Lopp is the highest total scorer for the Bulldogs with a total of 22 points and he is second highest with extra points with 10. The top ranking ball carrier in both conferences is Malden's Tom Schomehl with an outstanding scoring of 36 points.

The Sikeston Bulldogs will invade Houck Stadium tonight. It will be a home coming for the Tigers. Sikeston won last year's game 20-19 when Dave Collier, Bulldog halfback, caught a touchdown pass from quarterback Pete Burns with about one minute remaining in the game.

The win last season was the first by the Bulldogs since 1961 when Sikeston won by a score of 35-7. Previously Sikeston was the victor for 13 years in a row. The worst the Bulldogs have beaten the Cape Central Tigers was in 1951 when the Dogs, coached by good ole Kenny Know, beat Cape 60-0. The Begals had one squad from 1955 to 1960 when Cape Central didn't score a point against them. The only touchdown Central has scored this year was when they beat Jackson 7-0.

The Tigers are going into the game tonight with three injured players. Don Riley was injured in the Poplar Bluff game and Ben King and Andy Pemberton, halfbacks, are among the doubtful players who will see limited action. Cape's best rusher is Bill Bishop. Their quarterback hit 9 out of 21 passes last week against the Poplar Bluff Mules. Central's entire team makes about an equal amount of tackles. Said Central Tiger's Coach Goodwin, "Sikeston is winning and we are losing, it is as simple as that."

Undefeated Blue Jays To Battle Cairo Pilots

CHARLESTON -- The unequaled rusher for the Charleston Blue Jays is Frank Powell, who has gained a total of 380 yards in 79 carries for an outstanding average of 4.7. Terry Brashers has gained 276 yards in 77 carries for a total of 3.6 yards per carry. Charleston Blue Jay Bob Richardson has made over 240 yards during 50 carries for an average of 4.8 yards per carry. Charleston's best defensive player is Vernon Cates, Line Backer, who is the most consistent player on the team. Most Tackles goes to Blue Jay Evert Holly. Charleston's pass defense is also very accurate. They have not had a pass completed for a touchdown against them yet this year, knock on wood. The Blue Jays will have to contend with Cairo's passer tomorrow night and he, Jerry Zimmer, has an outstanding ability to throw the ball. Zimmer has thrown 53 passes and 31 of them have been completed for over 500 yards, 6 of them were touchdown passes.

Charleston's Terry Brashers has completed 18 passes for a total of 207 yards. Charleston's Bruce Defield is in the Delta Community Hospital with a badly bruised kidney. He should be out sometime today or Friday, however, he won't be playing football for a while.

Tomorrow night will be Charleston's Homecoming game and they haven't won a homecoming in over three years. Two years back Charleston was defeated by the Poplar Bluff Mules, 14-0, and last year the Chaffee Red Devils edged them 13-7. This year Cairo will whip them if they are always unlucky on homecoming night. The Blue Jays have played three conference games and won all of them. They have racked up 88 points and 47 have been scored against them.

At the homecoming Claudie McConachie will be crowned queen; there will be a parade and a dance.

CAIRO -- At 7:30 Daylight Savings time the Cairo Pilots will make their way across the mighty Mississippi to play the unbeaten Charleston Blue Jays. The Jays still have an unbeaten record in the Northern division of Southeast Missouri, following their 6-0 victory Friday night over the Kennett Indians. The Blue Jays are 5-1 for the season, with their only loss at the Paducah Tilghman - Charleston game.

Cairo has a pretty even chance to beat Charleston. The Blue Jays have been picking up speed fast ever since they beat the Sikeston Bulldogs and had their turn to batter, shatter, and break the goal posts off for the first time in 17 years, even if they were the Blue Jays won goal posts.

The Cairo Pilots have made over 1300 yards so far this year and 600 of them have been made in Cairo's magnificent air game. The Pilots made an average of six yards per play. Cairo should be at full strength tomorrow night. Jerry Zimmer, quarter back, has hit 31 out of 53 passes for a gain of over 500 yards which included six touchdown passes. The opposition has completed 16 out of 53 passes and Cairo has intercepted seven.

Cairo's leading ball carrier is Bob Fisher who has run a 90 yard kickoff for a touchdown. He is Cairo's quickest boy. Mike Kepner averages 5 1/2 yards for every time he carries the ball. Mike Futrell is Cairo's biggest ball carrier at 165 pounds. Futrell makes an average of 7 yards for every time he carries the ball which is outstanding. He just bulls his way through. The Cairo Pilots lost their first game, 7-6, because of fumbles. The Pilots fumbled 19 times and they lost eight of them. Cairo hasn't been badly beaten yet this year and it looks as though it may stay that way. They are not in the Conference this year, but they are really giving some of the conference ball teams a fit.

Glass Door Knob

The Cape Central Tigers will host the Sikeston Bulldogs tonight. Sikeston will whip Central, 27-0.

Malden and Chaffee are to tangle tomorrow night. The Green Wave will come through and beat Chaffee, 7-0, if they don't have a tie game. Both teams are undefeated in their conference and Malden hasn't been beaten by anyone.

Portageville will play host to the Caruthersville Tigers Friday night. Caruthersville has a 3-1 record while the Portageville Bulldogs have lost three and won two.

Charleston will meet the Cairo Pilots tomorrow. Charleston will win but not by much, Cairo is mighty tough this season. Charleston 17, Cairo 7.

Poplar Bluff will pull stakes and go to fight the Dexter Bearcats. Poplar Bluff may have the edge but the game will be close. Dexter 14, Bluff 13.

East Prairie and Gideon are to battle it out tomorrow night. Neither team has won a game yet this year and East Prairie hasn't even scored. It is high time for the East Prairie Eagles to break loose. East Prairie 14, Gideon, 0.

My Neighbors

"Quittin' time!"

East Prairie May Score At Last

EAST PRAIRIE--The Gideon Bulldogs will go to East Prairie Friday night to try their luck with the East Prairie Eagles. It will be a real tough team because neither team has won a game yet this year and East Prairie Coach Arlan Powell feels sure that one team will win. If someone doesn't then there will have to be a tie. It will be the first victory this year for which ever team does come through, unless they tie. If any teams have ever needed a win, East Prairie and Gideon do and with both of them badly craving to beat someone, well, something is going to have to break loose and the Eagles have been wanting and trying hard to ever since Charleston beat them in their season's opener. "We are gonna win, or lose, or tie, or do somethin," said Eagle Coach Arlan Powell.

East Prairie's first string quarter back is out of action for a couple of weeks with a slight concussion. Gary Ashcraft is taking his place. Ashcraft played a good game last week. He rushed for a total of 241 yards in the first four games of the season and he has gained 3/4 of the yardage that the East Prairie Eagles have made. Gary Risenhover completes about 40% of his passes. There were only three Eagles playing against Caruthersville last week that were seniors and there will only be three seniors playing this week.

There were two disputed calls in the East Prairie-Caruthersville game last week. Said East Prairie Coach Arlan Powell, "There was one situation in which two officials said we caught the pass and the other official said we didn't catch it so they called it incomplete. Next we recovered a fumble and one official said the whistle had blown before the boy got to the ball and the other two officials said the boy got to the ball before the whistle blew. Once again the ball was given to Caruthersville. When there is a disputed call one of the officials has to be wrong and one has to be right. I don't expect the referee to be for me or against me. I do expect the referee to be fair. I am not making any excuses for my team, I would just like to state the fact that there were entirely too many disputed calls last Friday night. Charleston had the same thing happen at Caruthersville. I think the officials in Southeast Missouri could be improved."

There have been a lot of changes in the East Prairie back field. For one thing they now have a bigger half back, Bruce Banks, who was playing tackle. Glen Faire, Full Back, has been moved to half back and Lewis Franklien has also been moved to the Half Back position. Gary Ashcraft has taken Gary Risenhover's place at Quarter Back. The East Prairie Eagles still don't have any size.

Jerry Barker, Sophomore has been doing a fine job as linebacker and Glen Faire did a real good job on defense last week. The Eagles pass defense is very good. Ends, Ronnie Cooper and Richard Hilton average seven or eight tackles apiece per game.

"We hate to lose, but what makes it look bad is the inability to score so far. We have been playing better ball and our losing is our own fault because of our little mistakes," said Coach Powell.

Gideon has quite a few people hurt since they played Portageville last week. They are really down and feeling low. Gideon's best back was hurt in the Gideon - Portageville game. His collar bone was broken. Gideon has scored 20 points this year and 217 points have been scored against them. Both Gideon and East Prairie have had nothing but bad luck this year.

Bullpups Whip Indians 35-0

The Junior High Sikeston Bullpups whipped the Jackson Indians Monday night 35-0. Fred Towns scored one touchdown on an 85 yards pass play. The pass was thrown by quarter back Bruce Farris. Dennis Snelling scored two touchdowns, Farris scored 1, Gary Robinett scored 1, and Lee Payne kicked all five extra points. During the game one of Payne's kick offs came down on the 2 yard line. This is something that the Senior High Bulldogs don't do.

Some of the outstanding players are John Newberry, who intercepted an Indian pass and ran for 12 yards before he was downed; Bruce Farris, Dennis Snelling, James Denbow, Turner Marshall, and the entire defensive line did a very fine job.

Leading the rushing in total yardage is Dennis Snelling with 43 yards and trailing in second is Bruce Farris with a total of 38 yards rushing. Farris also made 120 yards against the Cape Tigers in the Bullpups opening game.

Chaffee & Malden Undefeated

CHAFFEE -- The unbeaten Green Wave will play host to the undefeated Chaffee Red Devils tomorrow night in a game that shouldn't be missed. Both Chaffee and Malden have played 4 Southern Conference games and they have yet to be put down. Chaffee has allowed 67 points to be scored against them while the Red Devils have scored 95. Malden is second highest scorer in both the Northern and the Southern Conferences with a big 120 while their opponents have only scored 19 points against them. Malden also has the highest scoring player in both conferences. The player is Tom Schoemehl with 36 points so far this year.

On paper Malden has the edge on Chaffee. They have a better passing game but offensive wise the Red Devils should be just as tough.

Chaffee Red Devil Bob Baert, End, is out of action with a bruised knee and David Richburg, Left Half, has a torn leg muscle. Richburg is Chaffee's fastest player with a record of 10.1 in the hundred.

The Red Devils are doing much better since they played the Sikeston Bulldogs. Sikeston had more experienced boys. Chaffee has only been beaten outside of its conference. They were shipped by Sikeston in the first game and by Jackson last week.

Chaffee's best rusher is Joe Perry Rice, 150 pound Half Back. Rice is outstanding on both offense and defense. He made 9 tackles against Jackson last week. "Joe Rice is the best I've seen this year," said Chaffee Coach Gene McClanahan. Rice rushed over 100 hundred yards against Jackson last week.

Chaffee expects a hard game from Malden. They will have to play one of the best games of the year to beat the Green Wave. Both Malden and Chaffee are real tough teams.

MALDEN -- The Malden Green Wave has played 4 conference games this year and one non-conference game all of which they have won. Out of the 5 games Malden has scored 120 points and only 19 points have been scored against them. Malden Coach Rodney Miller believes that if the Green Wave plays like they are capabel of playing they will beat the Chaffee Red Devils. The only thing wrong is that Chaffee feels the same way. The Red Devils would like to win the conference and they are going after it full force. The Chaffee team knows what is at stake and they are really wanting to play. Malden is the only undefeated team in the Southeast Missouri Conference area. The Green Wave won the 5th straight game Friday against Hayti.

Malden's most outstanding rushing player is Tom Schomehel who racked up 180 yards in Malden's last game with Hayti. Schomehel is also the top ranking scorer in both the Northern and Southern Conference with a total of 36 points so far this year. Butch Green, Quarter Back, is Malden's best passer with a 50% average for a total of 280 yards on pass plays. The Green Wave's most accurate extra point kicker is Mike Whitehead who has only missed 4 out of 20 kicks this year. Whitehead started out slow but now he is on a down hill run like the Devil is after him. The entire Malden team is very consistent in blocking and tackling.

The Green Wave feel as though they can take anybody if they play well, especially Chaffee.

It will be Dad's Night tomorrow night when the Malden Green Wave meets the Chaffee Red Devils. The Dads will sit along the sidelines and wear their sons' playing number.

Dexter Bearcats Host Bluff Mules

DEXTER -- The Bearcats have played four conference games so far this football season and they have won three of them which isn't at all a bad record. This Friday night the Dexter Bearcats will be playing the kicking-stomping Poplar Bluff Mules in Dexter. The Bearcats have scored a total of 58 points this year and have only had 39 scored against them.

Some of Dexter's top notch boys are Boyce Wooley, Defensive Tackle; Mike Dudley, Left Back; Tom Horton, Center; and Bruce McDonald, who may be out of action this week because of a knee injury. McDonald is a running back and plays safety of defense. John Agey is the Dexter Bearcat's Quarter Back. Last week against Sikeston Agey threw 12 passes and 8 of them were successful for 66% and a total passing yardage of 101 yards which isn't bad passing at all. Bruce McDonald is also Dexter's top rushing player, with a total of 60 yards in the Sikeston-Dexter game.

The Bearcats have excellent passing and running but the ability of the defense to tighten up and keep the opponent from scoring was just a little weak last week with the Sikeston Bulldogs.

The Poplar Bluff Mules may make a few mistakes tomorrow night and if the Dexter Bearcats will get on the ball and take advantage of them they could just whip them. On the practice field this week Dexter is looking good and the boys are all in high spirits and aching to give the Mules a good clawing. The Mules are also in high spirits and wanting to give Dexter a good kicking. Poplar Bluff has played five conference games this year and they have lost two of them. The Mules have had 14 points scored against them and they have scored 92 points against the teams they have played up to this point in the football conference.

Portageville Vs. Caruthersville

PORTAGEVILLE -- The Caruthersville Tigers and the Portageville Bulldogs are to tangle tomorrow night in what should be a tough grudge match. Last year when Portageville and Caruthersville met, they were neck and neck, 13-13, with about four minutes left in the game when a small boy by the name of Corky Sutton ran a kick off for a 96 yard touchdown and Portageville won the game 19-13. Sutton was then a 125 pound half back, he is not playing now.

The Tigers have 44 boys to back the first string up if any of the boys get hurt and the boys are bigger than the Bulldogs. Portageville has 23 boys dressed out. On paper Caruthersville should beat Portageville, but who wins will depend on which team really puts out. The Portageville Bulldogs are the top ranking team as far as points scored with 143. Only 47 points have been scored against the Bulldogs this year. The Bulldogs are going in tomorrow's game while licking wounds from last week's game with Gideon and previous games. David Keith has a fractured hand and may not be able to participate in the game with the Tigers. Billy Burns has not one, but two severely sprained ankles and Bill Durden has a sprained knee and will only be able to see limited action. The Caruthersville Tigers will be going into the game in full force. They have a good ball club and they haven't lost badly to any other team.

The game tomorrow night will be Portageville's Homecoming game. The undefeated Portageville squad of 1953 will attend the game along the side lines and there will be a reunion after the game. The will also be a dance and a crowning of the queen ceremony.

The next game could be a big one for the Bulldogs. "They will play as hard as they can and put out the best we have to offer," said Bulldog Coach Bill Nance.

Portageville's top rusher is Glen Stewart who made 160 yards last week against the Gideon Bulldogs. Stewart is good on both offense and defense. Portageville quarter back Roger Graham hits about 33% of the passes he throws while Glen Stewart hits about 50% of the possible passes he tosses. Ronnie Hamra also is a real fine ball player and Bruce Henning, F. B., has been doing an adequate job. Of the Portageville defense Gordon Stout, G., has been going an excellent job.

The Bulldogs are going to try to whip Caruthersville again this year and vice-versa.

Malden's Schoemekl Takes District Scoring Lead With 36

Tom Schoemehl, star halfback of the Malden Green Wave, has taken over the scoring lead for the district with 36 points.

He scored three times in his team's victory over the Hayti Indians to take the lead. He has scored six touchdowns.

Roger Oster, Perryville, failed to score at Cairo, Ill. but held his North Conference lead with 30 points. Robert Taylor, Kennett, maintained his runner-up spot in the north with his 27 points. Terry Brashears, Charleston, kept third place without scoring. He has 26 points.

Bruce Nall, Poplar Bluff, and Frank Powell, Charleston, moved into a fourth place with Bob Richardson. All have 24 points.

Glen Stewart, Portageville, scored twice, and his teammate, Bruce Hennings once, to take over second place in the South Conference. They have 30 points.

Ronnie Hamra, Portageville, kicked five extra points and scored a touchdown to take over fourth with 29 points.

Hamra moved into the lead for extra points with 11. Danny Lopp, Sikeston, has 10. Lopp also scored a pair of touchdowns for Sikeston. Mike Whitehead, Malden, is third in the extra point kicking with nine.

Johnson May Miss Next NFL Game

ST. LOUIS AP -- Quarterback Charley Johnson, the man who makes the St. Louis Cardinals high-powered offense go, may miss Sunday's National Football League game against Washington.

The 26-year-old signal caller, who has not missed a game since he took over the job three seasons ago, suffered a badly bruised left shoulder last Sunday against Pittsburgh.

Asked if he expected the shoulder to keep him out of the game, the right-handed thrower said "It doesn't feel like it to me."

"However, Coach Wally Lemm listed him as "questionable."

"He couldn't move his left shoulder very well and it will be a day-to-day thing before we know whether he can play," Lemm said. "We probably won't know until Friday.

Johnson is not taking part in drills during the week.

While the shoulder will not hamper his passing, which has produced league-leading totals of 13 touchdown passes and 1,350 air yards in five games, it is likely to restrict his ballhandling.

Johnson has moved the Cardinals to four straight victories and a first place tie with Cleveland at 4-1 in the Eastern Division.

Robert Humphrey, 29, who has never started in a regular season game in the NFL, would take over the offense if Johnson can not make it. Humphrey, obtained in a trade with Dallas prior to the 1963 season, has thrown only 45 passes in seven seasons in the league. With the Cardinals, he has completed eight of 19 for 122 yards in two and a half seasons.

Goose Season, Off With Bang

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- It wasn't so noisy but it was a productive opening of the goose season at Swan Lake refuge in Chariton County, conservation commission spokesmen said today.

The commission ruled earlier that on its managed portion of the federal waterfowl refuge each hunter would be limited to 10 shells.

One group of four came in with only one goose and no more shells. But, the commission reported, the hunters still thought the 10-shell limit was good and it was their own carelessness that prevented a more successful hunt.

By 11 a.m. hunters had checked in with 153 geese and there were only two violations. One was a non-resident hunting on a Missouri permit and one with more than the two Canadas allowed in a day's bag.

If someone asks what it is that makes a good talker, I'd answer very simply that a good listener makes a good talker.

Southeast Missouri State To Meet Kirksville Dogs

CAPE, KIRKSVILLE SET TO CLASH SATURDAY

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- Southeast Missouri State's football team, assured of no better than a .500 season with five losses in as many games, face one of their toughest tests of the year this week when they meet the Kirksville Bulldogs here Saturday.

The winless Indians, thought in pre-season predictions to pose the most serious threat to last year's champs, will meet Maurice Wade's eleven on the Houck Stadium field here at 8 p.m. (CDT) Saturday.

Coach Kenneth Knox's squad is 0-1 in the conference after last week's 27-13 loss to Springfield.

The Bulldogs are 4-1, their only loss being to undefeated Northern Illinois. Kirksville started its MIAA schedule on the right note by whipping Missouri University Rolla last week, 14-0. Other victories were at the expense of Western Illinois, Upper Iowa, and Pittsburg, Kan.

Coach Knox, in commenting on the upcoming game, said, "This is a must game for us if we want to stay in the conference race. A win would put us in good shape but a loss would be disastrous to our title hopes."

The Indians, plagued all season with injuries to key men, lost starting defensive end Von Hanners, senior from Kennett, in a practice session prior to the Springfield game. He is expected to be out for the season with a broken bone in his foot.

The Indians' backfield will also have a new -- and young --look this week with sophomore quarterback Greg Brune of Cape slated to start at the helm in place of the injured Irvin Whitehead, the team's leading scorer with 21 points. Brune played the second half at Springfield and connected on eight of 16 passes for the two Cape State touchdowns.

Junior Chuck Koerner of Du Quoin, Ill., Brune's target on the two touchdown tosses, will start again at one of the halfback slots. Koerner is fast becoming one of the team's most proficient pass receivers, moving into second place on the team in that department, with six catches for 122 yards. End Mike Kelley, Hayti, a senior, leads with 17 catches and 165 yards.

The other halfback post will be manned by Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves, a freshman improving each week as he gains experience. Smallwood is now second on the team in rushing with 119 yards in 37 carries.

John Glass, senior from East Prairie, the man relied upon most for short gainers in the Springfield game, will be at his fullback post against Kirksville. He leads the team in rushing with 171 yards in 50 carries.

The Kirksville eleven has averaged 407 yards per game in total offense, racking up an average of 30 points per game. Junior halfback Sharron Washington has scored 54 points in five games in leading the Bulldogs' potent offense.

Huskers 1st In Rushing & Total Defense In Big 8

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

The season is only half over, but Sugar Bowl officials already are casting covetous glances toward Nebraska, while Husker Coach Bob Devaney is busy sounding warnings about Colorado's unbeaten, twice-tied Buffaloes.

"Colorado has been stingy about letting people run or pass against them," Devaney said Wednesday. He cited figures to prove his point. The Huskers are first in rushing defense and total defense in the Big Eight, and second in passing defense. Colorado is right behind the Huskers in each category.

"Colorado scored 36 points against Kansas State and 34 against Oklahoma State," he said. "There is no doubt this is the best team we have faced this season."

Meanwhile, A. Theo Maumus, Sugar Bowl president, announced at New Orleans that scouts from his group will be in Lincoln to see the Husker-Colorado game Saturday. Sugar Bowl scouts also watched Nebraska swamp Wisconsin 37-0. Colorado and Wisconsin finished in a scoreless tie.

The Sugar Bowl plays host to writers and broadcasters Wednesday and asked for their comments. To sum it up, the writers said "Get Nebraska now."

The Sugar Bowl obviously wants the unbeaten Huskers, but can't say so for the record because the Huskers might decline and other contenders would resent being second or third choice.

Devaney meantime had some good news from his trainer — linebacker Mike Kennedy and defensive end Langston Coleman will be able to see some action.

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton expressed dis-satisfaction with his team's 6-for-20 passing at Colorado and the Cyclones worked on their passing.

Missouri also drilled hard on passing, in preparing for the Iowa State game at Ames. Gary Lane, Gary Kombrink and Lloyd Carr took turns throwing. Kombrink was still limping slightly from a heel injury.

At Kansas State, defensive back Mike Murray quit the squad. He had seen considerable action. Coach Doug Weaver gave no reason for Murray leaving. Quarterback Mike White worked in Murray's spot.

Oklahoma learned a knee injury will keep offensive guard Wes Butts out of the K-State game.

Oklahoma State continued to work Buddy Burris at no. 1 quarterback as Glenn Baxter remained a doubtful starter for the Kansas game with a dislocated finger.

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell said Burris did an excellent job all the way for OSU against Texas Tech and "with his speed, the running pass has us worried to death.

Three All America Candidates

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Game after game, three senior players are around the top of the list of defensive All America candidates in the Midlands, as reported by the Associated Press regional board.

The 207-pound Roland, a fourth round future draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals, is an outstanding ball hawk and smashing tackler on defense. Board members and coaches rate him the equal of any defensive back in the land.

Roland is much more than this however, because he gives the offense a big lift. Coach Dan Devine uses him in situations near the goal. In all categories, Roland has handled the ball 39 times and gained 379 yards. Against UCLA he returned a punt 67 yards for a touchdown, then threw a two-point conversion pass for a 14-14 tie.

The 6-foot-3, 252-pound Barnes can play wherever the unbeaten Huskers need him most. Right now he's at tackle. Last season he was an All-Big Eight middle guard. If Nebraska needed an offensive tackle, he'd be the best in the league. Husker coaches say he's so quick, strong and smart he could become a great fullback.

McAdams, 6-3 by 226, knows opponents' moves so well it seems he's always in the right place to stop the play. He's a punishing tackler and fast enough to intercept and bat down passes. Game after game, opposing backs complain "McAdams was everywhere." He was Associated Press Lineman of the Week for the nation after his play against Texas.

The board rated several defensive players close to the top three.

They are ends Sam Harris, 225 of Colorado, and Bill Matan, 239 of Kansas State; tackles Bruce Dyke, 230, Missouri and Hugh McCrabb, 200 Oklahoma State; guard Charley Harper, 245, Oklahoma State; linebackers Jim Waskiewicz, 235 Wichita; Doug Buffone, 220 Louisville; and Dick Fugere, 215 Cincinnati and defensive backs Larry Wachholtz, 162 Nebraska, Ken Boston, 178 Missouri and Hale Irwin, 181 Colorado.

Seven sophomores playing defense were pegged as future All America possibilities by the board. They are Russell Washington, 6-foot-6, 274-pound Missouri end; tackles Frank Bosch, 245, Colorado, and Earl Edwards, 265, Wichita; guards Ron Scott, 224, Colorado, and Jerry Murphy, 241 Nebraska; linebacker Kerry Mottle, 204, Colorado; and back Charles Greer, 183, Colorado.

High School Football Deaths Mushroomed To 21

High school football fatalities have mushroomed to 21 this season with two more deaths Wednesday.

The latest casualties were Sam Wortham, a 17-year-old fullback on the Titusville (Fla.) High School team, and Leslie Pitts, 17-year-old guard for Orangeville (Ill.) High School.

Coach John Gaines said films of the game showed no blows which could have caused Wortham's injury. The youngster was his team's leading scorer.

Pitts, a 160-pound senior, fell to the ground unconscious after blocking a defensive player in a game against Galena Friday night. The youngster never regained consciousness and died at St. Clare Hospital in Monroe, Wis.

Pitts suffered what was described as a mild concussion Sept. 24 in a game against the sophomore squad of Rockford East High School. He was released from a hospital after a four-day stay.

A week before Pitts was injured, Dr. Frank P. Smith, clinical associate professor and chairman of the division of neurological surgery at the University of Rochester, told a conference of 200 high school coaches, trainers and administrators that a player who continues in a game after a bruising tackle or block is a candidate for a fatal injury.

"We know from experience that it is the groggy player who is most likely to be killed," Dr. Smith said.

He urged the coaches not to accept the players' word that he is "okay" after an injury.

There were 45 football deaths across the country last year, 34 in 1963 and 26 in 1962.

Nation's No. 1 Junior College

Henderson county has a 6-0 record; as does McCook, Neb., again the runner-up.

Fort Scott, Kan.; Ferrum, Va. Grand Rapids, Mich.; Ellsworth of Iowa Falls, Iowa; Boise, Idaho; Missouri Southern of Joplin; Ricks of Rexburg, Idaho, and Chowan of Murfreesboro, N.C. round out the top ten.

Coffeyville, Kan., ranked 12th.

Hall Of Fame

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Branch Rickey, a baseball executive for more than half a century, will be inducted into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame Nov. 13 after the Missouri-Oklahoma football game.

Rickey will be present for the Hall of Fame banquet that evening. The late J.G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News for almost half a century, will be inducted posthumously.

Another 1965 selection, to be announced next week, also will be inducted. All previous members of the Sports Hall of Fame have been invited.

Rickey, 84, served as an executive, general manager and manager during his long career with the St. Louis Cardinals, St. Louis Browns, Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates. He is best remembered for starting extensive farm systems and for breaking baseball's color line by signing Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in the majors.

Members of the Hall are selected by sports-writers and sportscasters in the state. Rickey wasn't born in Missouri but served in the state for a long period, as did another Hall member, Stan Musial.

Tickets to the banquet may be obtained from Don Faurot, secretary-treasurer of the Hall and athletic director at Missouri.

My husband was snoring peacefully when our four-year-old tiptoed into the room and climbed into bed beside him. He listened, fascinated, for a moment, then gravely inquired, "Mother, why is daddy growling?"

Birch Showdown Near For GOP

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican policymakers may be headed for a December showdown on the nagging question mark of John Birch Society influence within their party.

The question zoomed into prominence when Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky tied into the Birch Society and said its influence should be booted out of the GOP.

Morton, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, charged the militantly conservative organization is trying to take over the party.

GOP floor leaders of the House and Senate joined him in declaring the society is no part of the GOP.

The Birch Society promptly denied it has designs on the Republican party. As the Democratic National Committee gleefully noted, society founder Robert Welch said that would be "petty larceny."

Most state GOP chairmen said they doubt the Capitol Hill denunciation will have any particular impact on the party itself.

"The denunciation was more for the edification of the public than the party," said West Virginia Chairman John Scott.

At last year's San Francisco convention which nominated Barry Goldwater for the presidency, delegates jeered to defeat a platform amendment that would have denounced the society.

Now a similar proposal may face the next session of the Republican Coordinating Committee, a council of party leaders due to meet in Washington Dec. 13.

Morton and Michigan Gov. George Romney have said they may seek to have the committee declare itself on the Birch Society.

Goldwater, who has denounced the positions taken by Welch but not the society's members, serves on the coordinating committee.

So does New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has expressed delight at "a growing awareness that the John Birch group is trying to gain control of the party."

Goldwater has said he sees no such threat, but he has suggested that Republicans resign from the society and spend their time working for the party.

That represents little change from a position he took long before the presidential nomination, when he said he had urged some society members to quit the organization in protest against Welch's leadership.

Most state GOP chairmen agree that the society is not a potent force within the party.

Since his original denunciation of the society, Morton has said there are probably as many Democrats as Republicans in the Birch Society.

Political Tradition Threatened in Jersey

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey chooses a governor and new legislature Nov. 2 in an election that could end several political traditions.

The Democrats are within sight of a peak of political dominance they have not occupied since Woodrow Wilson's term as governor half a century ago.

New Jersey was considered a Republican state only a dozen years ago. But weakened by primary fights, election losses and anemic finances, the Republicans are underdogs in this year's race for governor and are no better than even money to hold on to the newly reapportioned legislature.

Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes is seeking a second four-year term. Polls by both parties show him comfortably ahead. If he wins, it will be the fourth term in a row for the Democrats, the longest reign by either party in the 20th century.

Wayne Dumont Jr., a 14-year veteran of the state Senate, is trying to stop the Democratic streak. A 51 - year - old lawyer from one of the state's few remaining rural counties, he won a less-than-resounding endorsement from the GOP in a complicated screening committee procedure followed by a close primary election victory. Twice before he had lost Republican gubernatorial primary elections.

Dumont emphasizes discussion of such things as taxes, colleges, the drought and what he calls Hughes' lack of leadership. He accuses Hughes of wasteful spending and failing to take the lead in raising large amounts of money both he and Hughes agree the state needs.

He has come up with one issue that has emotional impact—Prof. Eugene Genovese of Rutgers, the state university. Genovese told a "teach-in" last April that he would welcome a Viet Cong victory in Viet Nam. Dumont called for dismissal of Genovese and a "sleeper" issue was born.

Hughes emphasizes his agreement with U.S. policy in Viet Nam but has declined to force Rutgers to fire Genovese. He said it would violate academic freedom.

Hughes admits the Genovese issue will cost him votes.

Hughes, 56, is a former judge who won an upset victory in 1961 over the late James P. Mitchell, secretary of labor in the Dwight D. Eisenhower Cabinet. A remarried widower with 10 children and the state's first Roman Catholic governor, Hughes is running this year in a more restrained version of his usual peppery platform style.

He blames most of New Jersey's government problems on the Republican majority caucus which has ruled the state Senate for 50 years.

Both Hughes and Dumont represent a sharp break with New Jersey's past in one major respect—both advocate a big, new statewide tax. Dumont has supported a sales tax for years. Hughes came out for an income tax two years ago.

Sukarno Still Friendly With Communist China

This might prolong the Indonesian crisis. The army — which in effect is now ruling Indonesia — has always viewed with dissatisfaction Sukarno's policy of close relationship with Red China.

Some army-controlled newspapers have dropped hints that Peking backed the Indonesian Communist party, the PKI, in its involvement in the Oct. 1 coup attempt.

Other papers and some officials as well have expressed disappointment over Communist China's attitude toward the Oct. 1 events.

A speaker at an anti-Communist demonstration Wednesday accused the Chinese of supporting the rebels. He even suggested that Indonesia should break diplomatic relations with Peking.

Antara, the official news agency now controlled by the army, today published a resolution adopted at a Moslem youth rally which said the Moslem youths would demand a break in relations if Peking continued its attacks on the army's crackdown on the Communists.

Relations between the two countries deteriorated further when Peking charged that 40 armed Indonesian soldiers sacked the Chinese commercial counselor's office in Jakarta last Saturday.

Peking protested the incident, demanded an apology and requested punishment of those involved. Military sources said they knew of no such attack.

But on Tuesday, after a meeting of Sukarno with his three deputy premier, Chaerul Saleh, third deputy premier, said the four leaders were determined to maintain the Peking - Hanoi - Phnom Penh-Jakarta axis Sukarno proclaimed last August.

Sukarno has failed so far to stop the army's campaign against the Peking-aligned Indonesian community party. It remains to be seen whether he can renew Indonesia's close ties with Peking, whose foreign policy line it has followed more than a year.

EASY SOLUTION TO HOT WATER SHORTAGE

Sometimes people live with a problem so long they accept it as inevitable and make no move to correct it — even when the remedy is easy.

Getting along without enough hot water is one example, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out. Family members adjust to the fact that they can't take a bath right before mother plans to do her washing. Mother makes it a practice to forego the use of her dishwasher on evenings when someone wants to take an early bath. And so on.

Yet the remedy is simple: Get a larger water heater. Many families have a 30-gallon heater when they really need a 40 or 50-gallon one. Your plumbing contractor can determine what size heater you need — based on the number of adults, children and infants in the family and what types of water-using equipment you have.

He'll also ask you about your plans for buying more water-using equipment, and he'll take that into consideration -- so that you won't outgrow your new heater too quickly. There are several grades of water heaters. The best is the fast-recovery type.

Remember, in many types of equipment, obsolescence is determined by the working condition of the item. In the case of the water heater, the criteria is its capacity to give you all the hot water you need. If it's too small for your needs, it's obsolete even if it's otherwise in top working condition.

The wheel, writing and the plow probably developed in the region which is known as Iraq today.

ANOTHER TOWER FOR NIAGARA

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. -- Billed as the tallest structure of its type in the world, the 520-foot Skylon tower opened here last week in time for late autumn visitors.

Focal point of a $12 million Niagara International Centre which includes an exhibition building, the lofty pylon outrivals its two predecessors -- the Seagram and Oneida towers -- and commands a dramatic view of the American and Horseshoe Falls and the entire Niagara Peninsula.

Visitors ride to the top from the mezzanine of the exhibits building in three high - speed "bubble" elevators on outside shafts. Three levels accommodate roughly 1,500 persons and its uppermost floor contains an observation deck. Up to 300 people can be served in its central level banquet lounge, with accommodation for a like number in a rotating restaurant on the lower level.

College Bill To President

WASHINGTON AP - Congress has sent President Johnson an education bill that would give the nation's colleges a $2,387,000,000 shot in the arm while establishing three landmark programs.

The measure far exceeds the President's recommendations, but he is expected to sign it and set in motion for the first time in the nation's history:

1. A program of federal scholarships to help young people from low-income families attend college.

2. A system of federally insured state and private loans to assist college students from middle-income families.

3. The dispatch of a National Teacher Corps to poverty-stricken areas in a bootstrap attempt to lift education standards.

Actress Found Dead

Sheriff's deputies said the circumstances of her death were not known immediately.

Officers said Miss McDonald's husband, Donald F. Taylor, reported discovering his wife's body at 5:30 a.m.

Homicide investigators were dispatched immediately to the home in suburban Hidden Hills, on the farthest side of the sprawling San Fernando Valley northwest of Hollywood.

Coroner's officers said an autopsy would be held. Lt. James Hamilton of the Los Angeles County sheriff's homicide division, in charge of the investigation, said:

"It doesn't appear to be a suicide. If anything, it would lean toward an accidental death, and it certainly could be a natural death.

"There are lots of pills around, and we've gathered them all up, but there were no marks of violence on her. She went to bed last night at 9:30 in good spirits and had been happy in recent weeks, with seemingly everything to live for. . ."

Taylor, an independent film producer, was the 42-year-old actress' fifth husband, but her sixth marriage. She was formerly wed twice to shoe magnate Harry Karl, who is now the husband of actress Debbie Reynolds. Miss McDonald's other husbands were sportsman Richard Allord, her agent Victor Orsatti, and attorney Edward P. Callahan.

Wilson To Fly To Rhodesia

LONDON AP - -Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced today he will fly to Rhodesia this week in a last-ditch effort to find a solution to the crisis over that African colony's demand for independence.

Wilson will go to Salisbury with Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley for talks with Prime Minister Ian Smith in an effort to break the deadlock between the two governments.

Wilson told Smith, in a message delivered this afternoon, that he expected to have the opportunity also to talk with "anyone whose view I feel to be relevant to a solution of this grave problem."

Officials of Wilson's government believed Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's communication to Wilson Wednesday indicated the Rhodesian government is ready to talk some more about independence rather than proclaim it immediately.

Bank Presidents Tells How He Stopped IRS Agents

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Gordon W. Warren, president of the Pulaski Bank of Richland, a town of 1,660 in the Missouri Ozarks, told U.S. Senate investigators how he stopped the Internal Revenue Service from dipping into the accounts of two of his customers.

The government process is called a "levy," and it's used to collect from taxpayers who have failed to pay up. Warren complained about it Wednesday at the final session of a three-day hearing held in Kansas City by a Senate investigating committee.

In one case, Warren said, an IRS agent showed up with a levy for $2.35 on the account of a prominent Richland businessman. Warren said he sent the agent across the street to the man's place of business, where he got his money.

Warren said he paid from his own pocket a levy of $14.92 on the account of a farmer. He said he got his money back the next time the farmer came to town.

But he couldn't stop the IRS from invoking a levy of $291.06 on the account of a small business in Richland. Because it had only $170.65 in the bank, Warren had to freeze the account. It left his customer with two bouncing checks. Warren said he suggested the Internal Revenue agent go 600 feet down the street to talk to the man about it, but the agent refused. As it turned out, he said, the man didn't owe the $291.06.

"Maybe I'm a flag raiser," Warren told the committee, "but these people down in my area don't oppose our fighting in Viet Nam or burn their draft cards. They deserve better treatment than that."

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., chairman of the subcommittee, responded:

"There's nothing wrong with being a flag waver. This is just another example of how overzealous agents take their jobs too seriously and forget about people's feelings. Only a minority are guilty of this."

Warren reported an IRS agent once demanded to see the records of a customer's account and threatened Warren with a $10,000 fine and imprisonment if he told the customer. Warren said he stuck to his policy of not permitting an inspection until the customer is notified and got confirmation from his lawyer that there is no law against this.

The agent was identified as Roy Horn of St. Louis. Sen. Long said Horn was "one of the OCD boys," assigned from the IRS when it and the FBI made a concerted drive on organized crime (OCD) several years ago.

Jack G. Nicholson, a Kansas City tax consultant, told the committee that only once in 27 years has he had rough treatment from the IRS.

"I've talked to a lot of people who now think every agent connected with the IRS is about as low as a person can get," he said. "I don't believe this is the opinion these hearings should convey."

Sen. Long said the committee's purpose is to point out some of the over-zealous tactics of a small number of agents.

One of the witnesses Wednesday was Noel Smith of Taylor, who described himself as an ordinary farmer but also told of buying $250,000 worth of construction equipment entirely on credit and making a million dollars in a year on contracting jobs as far away as Canada and Montana.

He accused the IRS of falsifying bank records, stealing his grain and wrecking his storage bins. The IRS once had a $570,000 jeopardy assessment against him when it contemplated charging him with fraud and imposing him fraud penalties.

After clearing himself of the fraud allegations and winning several rounds in court, Smith said, he settled with the IRS for $54,000 and subsequently has received about $20,000 in rebates for overpayment.

Sen. Long said the committee has no present plans to inquire further into wire tapping by the FBI.

The committee heard evidence Wednesday that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. installed special full-time citcuits at eitht locations in Kansas City where the FBI presumably attached listening devices.

Sen. Long said it was the first time the committee has heard testimony about the FBI using wiretaps. He also said his committee does not have enough staff to investigate the FBI.

India Not Afraid of Chinese Nuclear Threat

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's strategists apparently have decided Communist China poses no immediate nuclear threat—and possibly that the United States would intervene if Peking ever wages atomic war on its Asian neighbors.

This reasoning seems behind Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's reiteration that India's policy is not to manufacture nuclear weapons.

It is authoritatively learned this policy has been re-examined in recent weeks and that Shastri's government was split on the question of whether to take India into the nuclear club.

His government sampled public opinion, permitting one Cabinet member to publicly call for nuclear arming of India and allowing leading members of the ruling Congress party to sign petitions demanding Shastri take the step.

There appear to be these major policy judgments behind Shastri's decision:

—If Communist China attacks India it will be with conventional ground forces making shallow penetrations through the Himalayas. And if China tries nuclear war, the United States, plus Britain, will be forced to enter the fray, though this is not spelled out in any treaty or even understanding with Washington and London.

—Proliferation is an increasing danger to the world, and India's entry into the nuclear club would quickly set Pakistan and Indonesia, both at odds with New Delhi, to making nuclear weapons.

—Manufacture of nuclear weapons would create a bad image for India, and harm its efforts to gain diplomatic support in the Asian-African world.

India's nuclear scientists are believed to have taken their techniques to the point where a final, inexpensive push could produce nuclear devices.

One of India's leading industrialists, G. D. Birla, said at a meeting in Bombay Sunday that he had traveled recently in the United States and got the impression Washington had sent "a very stiff warning to China."

Birla added: "I was told by those who counted that in case China came into India in a big way, the Chinese should be prepared even to receive atomic bombs."

True or not, this thinking appears to have played a big role in New Delhi's assessment.

COMPASSION

The greatest need in the world today is for human compassion. There is a serious danger that the well of compassion may dry up in face of the mass of human suffering that confronts us day after day. The peril is that this may deaden and paralyze our pity.

From the Sikeston Standard of Tuesday, July 2, 1935

Difficulties attended the growth of the Baptist church in Southeast Missouri. The first Baptist known to live permanently west of the Mississippi river were Thomas Bull and his wife, and her mother, a Mrs. Lee, who moved in 1796 to a place about a mile and a half south of Jackson. Then shortly before 1800, the Rev. Thomas Johnson, a Baptist clergyman who had been a missionary among the Cherokees in Georgia, performed what is believed to be the first protestant baptism administered west of the Mississippi. The service was held at Randol's creek while the Rev. Mr. Johnson was visiting friends.

For a time Baptists became increasingly numerous and devout. When it was organized, the Cape Girardeau association included Scott, Mississippi, Perry, and Cape Girardeau counties. Among churches organized during the early part of the nineteenth century were these: Pleasant Hill, in Scott county in 1828; Cypress in 1827, reorganized in 1847 and again in 1867, until it became known as the Diehlstadt church; Mount Moriah at Mathews' Prairie in 1830.

Early in the century the church was very strict, and careless members were punished. Others were granted special privileges. In 1808 three members were excluded for "having Armenian views" and three years later one was discarded for joining a Masonic lodge. At a meeting in 1818 members resolved that Hannah Edwards be allowed to wear gold earrings for the benefit of her health, and in 1820 they decided this problem: "Church in conference. Query: If a member is constrained to shout shall the church bear with it? Answer: Yes."

More grievous questions than these retarded the church's growth, however. After prospering until about 1837, members soon found themselves beset by internal bickering. Since its organization, the Cape Girardeau association had been doing local missionary work without criticism, with now the growth of the missionary spirit and the agitation of the anti-mission doctrine in other groups aided development of anti-mission strength. In 1840, the strongest faction (anti-mission) withdrew from the old group and formed the New Cape Girardeau Moriah, Pleasant Hill, and Little Association, which included Mt. River, combined with the Oran church. Discovering they were not now strong, the regular Baptists soon allowed decay to fall upon their association.

Differences were later settled satisfactorily, and as population increased, churches in compact districts were dismissed from older organizations to form ones of their own. Expansion was retarded during the war between the states, and afterward, as was that of the Methodist church; and from 1865 to 1867, the Baptist church had only one minister, John H. Clark, to serve twenty-nine churches.

The Charleston association was formed in 1876 with four small churches and a membership of 146. Eleven years later there were 656 members in eighteen churches: thirteen in Scott county; three in Mississippi; and two in New Madrid. They were located at Benton, Bethany, Bethel, Diehlstadt, Harmony, Hickory Grove, Hopewell, Little River, Morley, Mount Moriah, New Providence, Oran, Pleasant Hill, Pleasant Valley, Savannah, Sikeston, Unity, and Zion.

The growth of the church here was as seriously hampered as the district's but for reasons vastly different. Early records of the Sikeston church have been destroyed, if they ever existed, and since original members here have died only the recollections of older residents may be set down.

Although according to the cornerstone on the present building, the Baptist church was first organized here in 1868, many are inclined to believe this is incorrect since during that year Mrs. Catherine Sikes Handy organized the first Sunday school here, primarily Methodist in demonination although any residents were welcome at services.

The Baptist church was then probably not organized until at least 1878. Almost as soon as a congregation was formed and before the first Methodist Episcopal church--the frame building now used for the St. Francis Xavier church -- was dedicated, Baptist met in the church on alternating Sundays, when the Methodist minister was holding services at Bertrand, his other charge.

In 1882, however, the Baptist were given a lot on South Kingshighway--their present one--by Mrs. Handy, and there they erected a one-story frame church. Misfortune attended their efforts, for in the following year, before it was finished, the building was leveled to the ground in a cyclone which also damaged Dr. E. J. Malone's barn and a cabin belonging to Mrs. Jennie Green.

And although a second one-story building was erected on the lot the church almost completely disintegrated, chiefly because it was without a regular pastor. The Rev. Rubotton of Greenville some times drove here, but if weather was inclement he would not bridge the swamps to reach Sikeston.

Thirty-seven years ago, when Mrs. George W. Chapman, then Mrs. Mary Lawrence, first came here, she discovered that members had scarcely any church services. With the help of the Rev. Mr. Jones, a Dexter minister who had infrequently come here to preach without charge, Mrs. Chapman and her brothers James Jones, and the Rev. Finus Jones, organized a Sunday school. The enrollment was about twenty-five James Jones was superintendent. Mrs. Chapman taught classes and helped from a chair.

Soon afterward the late Rev. George W. Chapman came here. Immediately he began working to develop the church, serving six months as pastor without charge before he became the church's regular minister, a position he held two years.

The congregation was small but enthusiastic. At one of the numerous cottage prayer services held at homes, fifteen were converted, Mrs. Chapman remembers. Women of the church, including the late Mrs. Mattie McGilsvary, a sister of Mrs. Chapman, formed a Ladies' Aid Society, which did much to maintain the church and make possible its final successful growth.

Often as few as twelve attended church services in the beginning, but while the Rev. Mr. Chapman was pastor, membership increased to sixty. The small building had only one room at first, but later partitions were placed within it for Sunday school classes.

By about 1900 the building was rapidly collapsing. It leaned badly; the floors squeaked; and doors would scarcely shut. The roof was never entirely repaired, older members recall, and if rain fell on Sundays services were necessarily disbanded because of water which seeped through numerous holes. Members were not discouraged however. Because they had no janitor, they helped one another build fires, clean the building, and care for the minister. Their religion was then more fervent and satisfying, they think, than now when obstacles are less great.

C. D. Matthews' former home, moved across South Kingshighway, was satisfactory for a parsonage, but the church building became so unsound that it was useless for services. So it was finally torn down in 1912. A basement was dug and a concrete foundation was constructed during the same year, in a place a little to one side of the former building, but members were unable to occupy a new church for until four years later. Meanwhile, the Rev. W. F. Carnet, who was pastor in 1912, preached to his congregation on the second floor of the city hall and in a room now occupied by The Standard.

Other ministers served here afterward, it is believed, including the Rev. Mr. Lowry and the Rev. Mr. Greenway, but "the hole in the ground", as the basement became to be known, remained intact until the arrival of the Rev. S. P. Brite.

The Rev. Mr. Brite's ambition for a new church was not easily fulfilled. Only discouragement attended his attempts to raise money for a building. Bricks for it were delivered and lay long on the ground. Still he preached and sought funds. A story is told that finally he spent all of one night on his knees praying for help. The following day a prominent parishioner, still living, told the minister that he felt he should contribute. He gave about $1200 and the new structure was started.

At a business meeting, June 23, 1915, church members learned that sufficient guarantee had been given the contractor so that construction work could be started within a week. The Rev. Brite, and W. C. Bowman and J. A. Milem, deacons of the church, formed a building committee. The minister set the first brick in place on July 20, 1915, and later, some residents believe, Masons laid the cornerstone.

The church building -- the present one -- was erected at a cost of $21,000 by the Concrete Tile & Construction Company of Sikeston and under the supervision of J. A. Young. Members first attended services in it on March 5, 1916, and participated in dedication services which extended through the entire week.

After staying here until the church was completed the Rev. Mr. Brite moved away to accept another pastorate, but returned here in 1922 and remained until he left for Kansas in 1929. He was succeeded by the Rev. A. C. Rudloff, who was here from 1929 until 1921. The Rev. Leslie Garrison was minister from that year until this spring, when the Rev. Verne Oglesby became pastor.

The church now has a membership of 678, but few of those who belonged when the organization was hard pressed are still of the congregation. Among the men and women who attended services in the very early part of the twentieth century are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barger, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Carter, Alice Edmondson, Mrs. Olive Farris, W. S. Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Johnson, Mrs. Nanny Key, Mrs. Tessie Lee, Mrs. Mattie McMullin, R. W. McGilsvary, Mrs. Dave Reece, John B. Scillion, Mrs. Fannie Darby and Mrs. George Chapman.

The church is still expanding. Remodeling work is being done, and plans are now being made for the construction of an educational building on South Kingshighway behind the church structure.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A national rural electric spokesman today urged increased government loans and additional funds from private sources for the rural electrification program.

In an address prepared for a meeting of some 700 rural electric officials from Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, Anderson pointed to a two-year study of future financing needs conducted by the investment firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and the staff of the cooperative associations.

"A program of government-guaranteed loans is one possibility considered in the study," he said. "Another which is considered in some detail in the study would provide for a federal bank for rural electric systems, patterned somewhat on the farm credit program."

The association board of directors, Anderson recalled, last summer recommended that the present REA 2 per cent interest program be kept unchanged for those systems needing it. He said the study supports the contention that most rural electric systems could not pay a higher interest rate at this time.

Whatever legislative approach is adopted, Anderson urged that it be done at the next session of the current Congress, in January.

He did not curse the earth, but the people in it—

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, help us to accept and gladly obey Thy will for our lives. May we humbly serve Thee wherever the Holy Spirit leads. Keep us consecrated and submissive, desiring only to walk in Thy ways. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Quicker Tornado Forecasts Possible

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The new computer system in use at the Kansas City Weather Bureau will give forecasters quicker information on potential tornado weather, a study group was told Wednesday.

Lawrence Hughes of Kansas City, said the bureau is expanding its computer operations in November and December, partly to increase use for the river forecast center.

"Thirty minutes can be critical in tornado forecasting," Hughes told the American Meteorological Society's symposium on severe local storms and cloud physics.

He said it takes up to an hour to get the forecast processed to the broadcast stations and over the air to the public.

Hughes also delivered a report on twister frequency in the "tornado alley" of Oklahoma. The report was prepared by Norman E. Prosser, of the Kansas City bureau.

Statistics indicate a lull period during mid-day, preceded and followed by peaks of tornado occurrence. Prosser attempted to find out if this pattern moves into Kansas and Nebraska with seasonal changes of the jet stream to the north. But he concluded that the pattern seems to diminish, with tornadoes distributed more evenly through the season in the states farther north.

Harry Geuse, a consulting meteorologist from Santa Rosa, Calif., said tornadoes are likely to occur six or seven days after the birth of the so-called "A" type weather pattern in the Pacific northwest.

"If, on the first day, one can identify the weather type, this should be of great service to the forecasters so they can be on the alert," Geise said.

Hughes said development of tornadoes out of such weather patterns is not a coincidence, but that Geise's system is too simple. Such a broad, indefinite warning could actually cause a disservice to the public since tornadoes occur in only a few small areas, he said.

"You certainly couldn't ask the public to stay in a basement for several days," Hughes said. "Details are what we need."

Napoleon Role Dismal

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Eagle in a Cage," NBC's 90-minute dramatic program Wednesday night, was one of those fictionalized biographical essays of which the "Hall of Fame" series has made something of a specialty.

This one focused on Napoleon Bonaparte's dismal six years of final exile on St. Helena, lonesome, ailing, recalling past glories and surrounded by a few bickering, jealous men who hoped to ride his coattails back to power.

As usual, the program was beautifully produced and rich in handsome, authentic detail. Unfortunately, Trevor Howard's Napoleon never came alive. He was neither a human — a fallen monarch pathetically beating against the invisible bars of the island prison — nor the larger-than-life force that had made him a general at 24 and an emperor at 35.

Napoleon was 46 when he reached the end at St. Helena, but Howard played him as a much older man. Worse, he portrayed him as a posturing, pompous megalomaniac given to outbursts of arrogance followed by moments when he seemed either childlike or senile.

A strange little inconclusive threat ran through the vignettes — the mutual affection, which was perhaps a little more, between the deposed emperor and a 15-year-old English girl on the island. The girl Betsy, played by young Pamela Franklin, called him "Bony," confided to him her girlish dreams and set him to mourning his lost youth and bygone power.

The cast, obviously, had an acting field day. Howard stomped about broodingly, one hand tucked in his vest and delivered resoundingly such lines as "He who has only seen an eagle in a cage has never seen an eagle" and "History is a lie agreed upon."

James Daly, another fine actor, had a dandy time clanking about in the uniform of a British naval officer of the period and speaking in a rich Irish brogue.

The original script by Millard Lampell was another of those worthy, well - intentioned efforts, loaded with quality. It makes a viewer feel almost guilty when he yearns for some more substance and a nicely paced plot to go along with it.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

The total enrollment of resident students at the end of the first month of school was 3,852 or 96 more than that at the end of the first month of school last year. We also have 105 high school students, coming from neighboring schools, who are enrolled in the Tech-Trade program. In addition, about 500 adults are enrolled in some type of education or training sponsored by the schools. Most of these are in vocational classes. Somewhat over 200 of these adults are in full time classes, that is classes meeting six to eight hours a day and in training for some occupation with the expectation of getting employment when their course is completed.

Classes for day school students begin at 7:30 a.m. and there is a continuous succession, day school and adult evening classes, lasting until 10:30 p.m.

School will be dismissed at 2:20 p.m. November 3rd in order that all faculty members may attend the annual meeting of the Missouri State Teachers Association in St. Louis on November 4th and 5th.

The program of this professional meeting consists of general sessions featuring nationally known educators, business and professional leaders and departmental sessions in which teachers in the various subject matter fields and grade level areas meet to consider matters dealing with their particular specialty. There are also exhibits of instructional materials and equipment for observations and study by the teachers who attend.

This annual meeting is held in St. Louis and Kansas City on alternate years. The Sikeston schools are dismissed only when it meets in St. Louis.

Bob Miller, Director of Elementary Education for the schools, is Area Chairman for the Observance of United Nations Day and with the assistance of other faculty members he is preparing materials and an appropriate observance of an educational nature for this occasion which is on October 24.

We thoroughly concur with those who selected our fellow faculty member, Margaret Cain, for recognition at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet and we congratulate her and the other women selected to be honored for the contributions which they have made to this community. Those of us who work with Margaret Cain, are fully aware of the devotion to children which is evidenced by her long hours of work and keen interest in their welfare. We are proud to have the opportunity to be associated with her.

It is becoming apparent that those who get employment in these days of technology and automation must have a reasonably high degree of knowledge and skill. We are trying to provide in this school system, as nearly as we can, an opportunity for every person to fully develop his or her abilities. Those who desire to go to college and who have the ability to do so can enroll in classes that will adequately prepare them for entrance into any college in the nation. Those who wish to learn a saleable skill or trade can do so in our vocational education program. However, this alone is not enough. If all today's teen-agers are to get jobs when they finish college or their trade-technical training, the U. S. economy must expand at a faster rate than it is now doing. We must create 1.5 million jobs a year to keep pace with the potential demand for jobs. Currently only 1.2 million jobs are being created.

Even though there are not enough jobs to go around at this rate this emphasizes even more the necessity for good education and good job training. The competition for the job is going to be keener and those best fitted will be the ones who get them. The disadvantaged, the undertrained and the ignorant will be at the bottom of the heap.

More and more the Federal government is participating in the financial support of education. Money is available to improve certain programs. We think it is extremely important that all those who have the say-so as to how this money is to be spent do not use it just simply to perpetuate old practices in teaching or to do more of the same things we are doing. It should be used to develop innovations, new ideas, better ways of teaching in order to prepare the coming generations for new responsibilities and the different tasks and jobs that are going to face them tomorrow.

The planning of this will take courage on the part of school boards, administrators and teachers and understanding on the part of the public whom they serve. But it must be done if we are to use this money wisely and effectively for real improvement in education.

Hearnes Praises Abilities of Blend

JEFFERSON CITY AP – Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, in a speech to the Missouri Federation of the Blind, said Sunday:

"You are teaching us that blindness is not helplessness and you are tearing dow the false image that people lack ability because they are blind."

He said blind Missourians "who completed their rehabilitation under the state program last year, had a total annual income of over $263,000."

The governor pointed out that he receintly signed a bill increasing blind pensions $5 a month to $80 and hiking the amount a blind person may earn and remain eligible for state aid.

with clean-sculpted all-new Body by Fisher.

by Chevrolet

Two new Super Sport beauties for '66—
a hardtop and convertible—propelled by nothing less than the new Turbo-Jet 396 V8.

This remarkably efficient power plant, with aircraft-type valves, deep-breathing ports and other design advances, develops 325 hp in the standard version. And you're welcome to order more—in a 360-hp version—if you're so inclined.

Both Chevelle SS 396 models ride on a special chassis—with flat-cornering suspension and large-size (7.75x14) red stripe tires. A fully synchronized 3-speed transmission with floor-mounted stick shift is standard. Or you can order a 4-speed or Powerglide—also Strato-bucket front seats, center console and full SS instrumentation.

Impressive credentials, sure. But to really appreciate what Chevrolet's performance specialists have come up with here you've got to get into one of these Chevelle Super Sports and see for yourself.

And the place to do that, naturally—or to see and drive any of the ten other new Chevelles for '66—is your Chevrolet dealer's. He's a great believer in letting the customers handle the merchandise.

Personal Income Surges Upward

WASHINGTON AP --Personal income surged upward by $13.3 billion in September an annual rate of $545.3 billion with increased Social Security benefits and higher military pay-accounting for most of the increase.

The Commerce Department said today that if these two special factors are excluded, personal income would show a rise of $1.7 billion to an annual rate of $533.7 billion. This lower figure would be about the same as the increase in the two previous months.

The annual rate of personal income has moved upward by about $2.5 billion a month since September 1964.

The lump-sum payment of a rise in Social Security payments, representing retroactive payments back to Jan. 1, caused an unusually large jump in personal income because of the way income is computed.

Six Negroes Are In Police Custody

Police have in custody six Negroes in connection with a robbery on Luther Street in Sunset addition Saturday night.

Two of the Negroes are charged. Four are being held for investigation.

The two charged with taking $14.65 from W. D. Maiden and 40 cents from James Ramson, both of Essex, are Willie Howard and Willie Green of Sikeston.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't people keep their mouths shut when they don't know what they are talking about? My niece was married last year. Lorraine had a beautiful white wedding. If ever a girl deserved to wear white she did. Lorraine had such a saintly quality about her that if anyone said "hell" in her presence they felt ashamed.

Lorraine became pregnant on her honeymoon. The baby was born three days short of nine months. The tongues wagged all over town and everyone was busy counting. The word got around that the baby was "a little early." One woman who didn't realize I was sitting behind her at a ladies aid meeting whispered to the person next to her, "Lorraine of ALL people. It just goes to show you can never tell about anybody."

Will you please explain to these ignorant busybodies that a baby can be born any time in the ninth month? Thank you. -- MAD AUNT

Dear Aunt: Of course, babies can be born anytime in the ninth month, but busybodies don't want an explanation. They'd rather talk. Now is a good time to remember that the Lord gave us two ears so all the rubbish we hear can go in one and out the other.

Dear Ann Landers: I am bookkeeper and cashier in an office which employes 20 people. I am responsible for the petty cash.

Usually there's about $35 in the petty cash drawer. In the last six months every time I've checked the drawer it has been short. Certain people have fallen into the habit of borrowing anywhere from 25 cents to $5. The borrowers used to put in I. O. U. slips, but they don't bother anymore.

Every week I have to go around and ask who is in hock to the drawer. At the moment there's an $11 shortage which I can't account for.

Two people are on vacation and one is out sick.

If you have a solution I'd like to hear it. -- J.

Dear J.: A petty cash drawer, into which anyone may dip when he has the shorts, is an engraved invitation to steal.

Such a set-up is a poor one for both the employes and the company. Call in all "loans" and announce that in the future only one person will have access to the drawer -- YOU. Then keep the cash locked up and relax.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl and my parents won't let me grow up. THEIR parents let them grow up. Why won't they do as much for me?

I am now a freshman in high school. My mother has arranged with my dad to leave the car in the morning and drive to work with a neighbor so SHE can chauffeur me to and from school. Ann, I don't want to be chauffeured to and from school. It's only 10 minutes by bus and on a nice day I can walk. But no, she insists it is her duty.

I have begged for an alarm clock of my own for two years but my mother says "No. I will get you up." She picks out the clothes she wants me to wear every day. If I select my own she is hurt.

Can you get to the nitty gritty of this and give me some help? I am -- LIKE SUFFOCATING

Dear Like: Your signature is an apt one. The word suffocating is a synonym for being smothered -- and you are. Your mother is not giving you room to breathe and grow.

A 15-year-old girl should be allowed to get to school and back on her own. She should be permitted to select her own clothes. And finally, she should be able to get out of bed in the morning without help.

If you think it will do some good, show this column to your mother. If you DON'T think it will help, show it to her anyway. You may be agreeably surprised.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Holy Orders. A minister in the Australian bush country took exception to the contention that bullocks cannot be driven successfully without blasphemy. Challenged to prove his point, the preacher climbed into the driver's seat, cracked his whip, and in roaring tones addressed the animals: "You rapturous archangels! You sublimated cherublim! You sanctified innocents! Get ye up and hence!"

Once Ritzy Newport Now Tourist Spot

EDITOR'S NOTE — The queen of resorts, playground of the Social Register, the seaside community where a summer cottage means a 50-room mansion and a household brass cleaner cleans only brass-this has been Newport. But what's happened to the Vanderbilts and Astors and who are these jazz folk? The following tells what has happened to Newport. ——

The stable where 30 horses slept under linen sheets is dismantled and The Breakers, 70-room Vanderbilt mansion, is on display for $1.75 a head.

These are signposts of a decaying chapter in American life, the requiem of magnificent midnight balls where 1,000 dancers waltzed on the lawns and jeweled ladies swept down red-carpeted staircases into the arms of noblemen, millionaires and kings.

This was the glittering age of elegance, the 90-foot yachts with Persian rugs, the afternoon carriage rides down Bellevue Avenue past great stone "cottages," the awesome summer palaces of the barons of industry and finance.

This was a $200,000 dinner party, 50 servants a household, the building of an $11-million cottage called Marble House and 200 Italian workmen imported for the job.

This was before taxes.

Efforts still are being made to cling to the old way of life, to opulence and elegance and to the gilded age of grandeur.

Merrell Kerby Saunders rides in a white Rolls-Royce, a television antenna swinging on top. He has residences in New York, Newport and an estate with two dozen bathrooms in Mendham, N.J. His ancestors founded Saunderstown, R.I.

"Quick, Collins," says Saunders to his chauffeur, "to the Reading Room." Saunders leans back into the leather seat, adjusts a blue silk tie and explains:

"The Reading Room, you know, is the oldest men's club in America. I wouldn't think of not going by for half an hour before dinner. Everyone does."

The Reading Room is a modest clapboard building built in 1854 and boasts some of the oldest flush toilets in the United States. Saunders says "It's the image that counts here."

The grande dame of Newport is Mrs. Louis Brugiere, a petite 90-ish widow, the former Mrs. James Laurens Van Allen. Her mansion, Wakehurst, is a duplicate of an English castle and is run with 20 servants as it was in the 1890s.

Mrs. Brugiere is known as the most "Proper" member of society.

Guests are not admitted to dinner, be it for two or 90, unless men wear black tie and women long evening gowns. A hand-written menu, in French, is at every place setting.

This season's last lavish affair was a debutante ball put on by New Yorkers. A candlelight dinner and dance was held at The Elms, summer home of Philadelphia coal magnate Edwin Berwind, now owned by the Newport Preservation Society.

Two hundred, mostly out-of-towners, drank champagne on the terrace, strolled through sunken gardens, and danced into the morning. Enough Newporters appeared to lend an air of authenticity. Most left before the dance was over.

Like a fickle woman, Newport is half-stately, half-bawdy. There are narrow, winding streets cluttered with 18th century gambrel roofed homes—streets once rustling with Colonial skirts, now shambles.

There are loud bars where teen-agers gather to drink and twist. And half a mile away, there are carefully manicured gardens and two matrons having tea.

The annual jazz festival, started in 1954, has brought pleas, protests and howls of anger ever since from summer residents. In 1960, beer-happy jazz - crazy teen-agers rioted and hundreds were arrested.

On summer weekends, the streets of the old town and Ocean Drive are clogged with cars of 100,000 tourists. Camera enthusiasts scramble over the rocky seaside angling for good shots of the big homes. Scavengers seek out deserted mansions.

More people are coming. The Jamestown to Newport ferry, a landmark since Colonial days, will be replaced in the next five years with a bridge, enabling motorists to swing through Newport without waiting an hour to cross Narragansett Bay.

A government urban renewal project is on tap for the old waterfront.

The Newport Preservation Society is taking over old mansions, opening them to public view and using the money to pour back into preservation.

A private group called Operation Clapboard is promoting private investment in 200-year-old clapboard houses, a renovation it hopes can transform lower Newport in a quaint residential neighborbood.

Rome And The American Labor Union

By Rev. John E. Coogan, S.J.

QUESTION: It is of interest to all of us, I am sure, to hear what so notable a body of the hierarchy -- with the approval of Rome -- thinks of secular unionism. Will you give us the gist of their opinion?

Here is a verbatim statement of the core material referring to secular unionism: "The mass of the workers receive their education almost insensibly from the association to which they belong. The spirit, the vigour which pervades the organized unit proceeds from the mind and the heart of the leaders. That vigour reaches afterwards all the members and conveys to them a particular concept of social life and professional relations. Hence the association is formative. It will be such in a Christian way, if it expressly adheres, in its very constitutions, to the social principles of Christianity, and if the leaders who shape its action are capable, through their living faith in the authority of Christ and the Church, of submitting their consciences as leaders to those principles. Otherwise the association will lead the worker astray to materialism; it will imbue him with a false concept of life eventually made known by harsh claims, unjust methods, and the omission of the collaboration necessary to the common good." Notice, then, that the criticism of unionism other than thoroughly Christian is all-inclusive. It cannot possibly be evaded by our own secular international unions.

QUESTION: You have indicated that all the popes who wrote encyclicals on labor made it clear that secular unions are not positively approved. And you have quoted a very severe warning -- Rome-approved -- from the Quebec hierarchy regarding the harmful formative influence of any unionism other than thoroughly Christian. Could you point out the harm that our own unions have been doing?

Remember that the question at issue is not whether our unions do any good, or whether the preponderance of effect from them is helpful. The question is as to whether they produce effects that are so demoralizing that they should not be allowed to compel membership. My thesis here, remember, is that "Americans must have the right but not be compelled to join labor unions." Remember, too, that the Joint Pastoral said any union other than thoroughly Christian "will lead the worker astray to materialism; it will imbue him with a false concept of life eventually made known by harsh claims, unjust methods, and the omission of the collaboration necessary to the common good." In substantiation of that warning, our unions -- from their very nature -- have no objective moral standard. As Will Herberg, Jewish economist and friend of the unions, has frankly declared, "The lack of a labor conscience. . .is, in a sense, the basic problem of American trade unionism. . .The problem (is one) of 'double morality,' one ethic for private life and another for the organization involved."

Hair Care Now Big Industry

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Wish your husband looked less like a bald eagle and more like either of the senators Kennedy? Wish your boyfriend looked more like Tony Curtis? Wish your schoolboy son looked less like a prickly pear and more like Prince Charles?

Madam, you should consult your friendly barber —beg pardon, your friendly hair stylist.

But which ever he is these days, he can probably tell you that the ancient craft of cutting men's hair has developed into a billion-dollar annual hair care industry.

The only recession the barbers see ahead is that of hairlines on the masculine head. Industry spokesmen say they have ways of handling that and that more men than you may suspect are taking to the latter-day techniques of camouflage.

There are still more barbers than men's hair stylists in these United States —some 300,000 of the basic type and some 18,000 of the newer clique. But the latter say their number is growing fast.

And they hope that the nation's youth training programs will produce a new flock of apprentice barbers. From such will be recruited the hair stylists of tomorrow. New schools are springing up to teach latter-day barbering techniques.

Both barbers and stylists will be gathering here next week for the annual national barber show. And there'll be a lot more on display than just shears, clippers and whisk brooms. New products include hair gels, hair setting lotions, sprays and dyes — that's right, for masculine purchasers. And on display for the whiffing will be a host of bottles labeled "true masculine scents."

"The young barber of today has a chance to regain the high status of Figaro in Rossini's 'The Barber of Seville'," Hal A. Salzman says.

"Then the barber was a prime consultant on high fashion, business and wordly affairs and even practiced dentistry and minor surgery."

Salzman wears three hats. He is president of Odell, which makes tonics and other preparations for the care of hair and scalp. He is chairman of the Tonsorial Information Council. And he is chairman of the Barber Shop Promotion Committee of Beauty, and Barbers Manufacturing Association.

Getting Word to People Tornado Region Problem

RENO, Nev. AP -- Computers have been at work the past two years helping to forecast severe storms, but the problem in tornado areas is getting word to the people.

Lawrence Hughes, of the Kansas City Weather Bureau, Tuesday said lives can be saved by communication of tornado threats, knowing what action to take, and taking it.

Midwesterners were urged to develop a better defense plan against tornadoes.

Thirty-three of the 37 tornadoes which devastated the midwest last Palm Sunday were within tornado forecast areas, said Maurice E. Pautz, formerly with the Weather Bureau's severe storm forecast center in Kansas City.

But 271 persons died when the tornadoes swept Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Many residents were away from radios and did not hear the tornado forecasts. "The day of the week was against us," Hughes said.

COMPUTERIZED ROMANCE

Would you rather take your chances in romance? Meet your hero in a bowling alley or at a cocktail party or on a blind date? Or are you fed up with haphazard romance, feeling that finding a mate ought not be left to chance? If the latter, then the newest wrinkle in the scientific revolution -- computerized romance-- is for you.

For a fee ranging from $25 to $300, specialized marriage bureaus throughout the country will undertake to find you "suitable" suitors. Data about you, gathered through interviews and psychological tests, will be fed into a computer. The machine will match your personality, looks, aspirations, with 10 or 15 persons of the opposite sex who've been looking for someone just like you.

But are these pairings successful? According to the founder of one company which introduces between 1,500 and 2,000 persons a month, he knows of only 10 divorces among the more than 10,000 marriages arranged by their computers over the past seven years!

SECURITY A POWERFUL MAGNET

Because of the "security oral contraception provides" it is the family planning method selected most enthusiastically by people round the world. This is the view expressed by British physician J. Stallworthy in a recent issue of the British Medical Journal. He points out that when the Maternal and Child Health Association of Taiwan recently inserted a small newspaper ad about oral contraceptives, the response was so enthusiastic that the supply could not meet the demand. In less than a month, 555 patients had registered for "the pill." He concludes with the observation that this method gives "virtually 100 percent security when properly used."

METABOLIC DISORDER AFFECTS BODY AND MIND

Can eating too many carbohydrate-rich foods or drinking to many drinks containing caffeine cause psychiatric, physical and neurologic breakdown in some people? Yes, says Cincinnati physician Harry M. Salzer, after studying 300 patients over a 10-year period.

Dr. Salzer says that high intake of either carbohydrates or caffeine, or both, can cause a drop in blood sugar level, a condition known as relative hypoglycemia. The condition causes such psychiatric symptoms as depression, insomia, anxiety, phobias. Physical and neurologic complaints such as exhaustion, heavy sweating, rapid heartbeat, headache, dizziness and tremors are also quite commonly associated with the fall in blood sugar level.

Half of the 185 women and 115 men studied by the doctor had symptoms of over five years' duration, he reports, and some had been treated with sedatives, tranquilizers, even showing improvement.

When such patients were placed on a high-protein, low-carbohydrate, caffeine - free diet, strictly observed, the symptoms disappeared rapidly. Relapses occurred, however, when patients discontinued the diet.

Dr. Salzer reports that about 85 percent of the 300 patients either recovered or were greatly improved. The doctor observes: "It is my belief that the condition of relative hypoglycemia is one of the most common causes of neuropsychiatric illness."

Liz Looks Blowzy In Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I have just returned from a visit behind the concrete curtain that surrounds "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

The set is utterly closed, you know. Those are the orders. But who's afraid of J.L. Warner? I applied for a visa to observe conditions behind the frontier of Stage 8.

"You can visit the stage but not the set," I was instructed. This meant I could inspect the dressing room area and perhaps converse with occupants. Any approach to the field of shooting was verboten.

With those instructions in mind, I was escorted to the stage. It seemed much like any other movie set, complete with crib - like dressing rooms, make-up tables and the like. At the other end of the stage was The Set, which was not to be described. So forget that I mentioned it looked like any other middle - class, college - town house.

Nothing was happening. Mike Nichols, the brilliant stage director whose first film is, "Virginia Woolf," was seated in his dressing room-office. The movie was going smoothly, he reported, and the studio bosses seemed pleased with the results.

"That's what counts," I said.

"No, it isn't," he corrected. "What counts is that I am pleased."

He seemed to be. So did George Segal, the new young star ("Ship of Fools," "King Rat") who plays the biologist who calls on the embattled college professor and his barracuda of a wife.

It was difficult to assess the feelings of Sandy Dennis, the Broadway star ("Any Wednesday") who enacts Segal's young wife. She emerged sleepily from her dressing room after a nap, uttered a few sentences, then vanished.

Still no action. The company seemed to be waiting for something. In time the famous pair arrived: Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Their on-screen appearance is another matter of security. I feel it my duty to report that Miss Taylor, who is required to portray a harridan a decade older than her own 33 years, looks properly blowzy for the role, if not top-heavy. Burton as her long-suffering mate appeared somewhat seedy, with the suggestion of a paunch.

The Burtons, Nichols, Dennis and Segal were summoned to the set, and I remained behind at Checkpoint Charlie, 30 feet away from the action. There I met the producer and writer, Ernest Lehman. The film is going swimmingly, he assured, and will finish on or about Dec. 1. It started July 26. End of report.

AP Special Reportn

EDITOR'S NOTE — Humbert R. Versace of Baltimore, Md., was a soldier who dreamed of being a Maryknoll missionary. He was captured by the Viet Cong, held captive almost two years, and then executed. This recollection of Capt. Versace was written by Horst Faas, the Pulitzer Prize-winning AP photographer, for the Ledger-Star of Norfolk, Va., where Versace once lived.

By HORST FAAS
Associated Press Photographer

When I met Capt. Humbert R. Versace for the first time, in 1963, it was in a hot, sticky room in the small U.S. compound in Camau, where a handful of American advisers spent their night, surrounded by barbed wire and protected by a few Vietnamese militiamen.

I had come back late in the evening from a military operation with Vietnamese troops and Versace was my host. My uniform was muddy and wet.

Versace had given me some of his dry underwear.

Water from a monsoon downpour was dripping down the walls and Versace and I tried to beat off the swarms of mosquitos.

He appeared to me to be like some of the missionaries I had met in the Congo. A family photo and an assortment of books were on a table, all wrapped in plastic to keep them from falling apart in the dripping wet humidity. I noticed the Bible, Mao Tse-tung's writings in pocket-book form, and a Vietnamese eidition of Giap's "People's War," the classic on guerrilla warfare.

Versace was looking just like many of the young American captains and lieutenants in that year of 1963 who tried with all courage and sincerity to do the best in their jobs as "advisers."

Like all of them, he had this fresh, youthful, open approach and optimism. But Versace seemed more sincere, more of a thinker than a soldier. I do not remember him joking or laughing during the many hours of talk we had this night in October 1963.

Versace had served for a year as intelligence officer for the Military Advisory and Assistance Group in Camau Province. He came from a language school. After a year, the Vietnamese paid him the compliment of not only speaking to him in Vietnamese, but in the southern dialect.

Camau Peninsula, and especially the area where Versace worked, the Xuyen Province, was then and still is one of the worst Viet Cong areas in Viet Nam. In this province, the American soldier was definitely not welcome. Vietnamese soldiers were reluctant to take Americans along because they knew the presence of an American made them, too, a more desirable target for the Viet Cong.

Viet Cong brutality and terror were at their worst here against the few people who still supported the Saigon government.

Versace had seen horrors every day during his year of duty. But he did not seem to have any hate against the merciless enemy. He explained to me that our secret weapon should be to understand the Viet Cong, to try to find out his motives and learn his way of thinking —to explain our ideas to him so that he could understand us in his language and in the twisted terms of his indoctrinated mind.

He said he did his best to teach his Vietnamese friends to kill and stay alive. But he thought that his mission as an adviser was also to understand both friend and foe.

Versace seemed convinced that the majority of the Viet Cong followers were misled by false ideals. His great idea was to make the Vietnamese aware that Americans in Viet Nam were not there to kill off half of the South Vietnamese people because they erroneously followed ideals that were misinterpreted by the Communists.

He wanted Americans to be examples of a soldier-missionary who brings an end finally to the seemingly endless killing with the power of a new ideal.

He did not believe in carrying a weapon on operations except for a hidden pistol. He wanted to show the oppressed people in Camau that he came to them with the Vietnamese troops to tell them about the better life he offered.

Vietnamese soldiers looked at him in surprise and military men working with him did not approve.

Two days later, we flew to a Special Forces outpost, a heavily fortified camp along a canal - triangular with bunkers and barbed wire. There were 400 rough-tough Vietnamese militiamen and 12 American Special Forces men.

Versace went there to talk to prisoners. One of the prisoners was hanged on a tree near the camp as an example to the Viet Cong and hostile people living opposite the camp and along the canal.

I went to this post of Thanh Phy to accompany a patrol. The patrol went out in the morning. Versace went with the first-the lead company. Some three kilometers from the camp, the patrol was ambushed.

The formation, moving along a slippery canal bank, overgrown with jungle, broke up. Some 50 soldiers died, about 100 were wounded or missing. Three Americans, including Versace, were missing. One Vietnamese went back and said that he saw Versace wounded and bloodied in the head, but firing. He said the Viet Cong jumped on him and took him away.

The next day the Viet Cong spread rumors about the presence of their prisoners. Government troops heard reports that Versace and the others were seen to the North, and then to the South, of the ambush site. The Viet Cong deliberately confused our rescue mission.

For two days, some 40 helicopters and a battalion of troops checked out the reports. They took casualties. Reports about the American prisoners were more and more confusing.

On Oct. 31, the rescue operation was suddenly terminated. The troops were called back. The coup d'etat against the Diem government had begun. Diem was overthrown and killed Nov. 1, 1963. The troops never tried a rescue again.

There were frequent reports about Versace all around the delta. He was seen led through villages with a rope around his neck, on exhibition for the villagers.

He was seen on his knees, forced to speak slogans.

One report I saw said that he was in tears when a Vietnamese woman gave him a piece of chicken.

Versace must have lived through hell, because he lived two years in an area bombed daily by American planes as a free bombing zone.

A few weeks ago, Vietnamese officers told me they had learned that he lived in a cage in the swampy U Minh headquarters of delta units of the Viet Cong.

Then the paper Nhan Dan, in Hanoi, North Viet Nam, reported that he had been put to death.

Although it's nice to own a car
All shiny, white, and new;
I'd be content with just a star
To hitch my wagon to.
